AMAZING DANCE HALL SCENE.

SCOTTISH GIRL WOUNDED.

YOUNG MAN ARRESTED.

An amazing scene occurred in a dance hall at Wishaw, when an 18-year-old girl shop assistant, Alice M'Guire, of 22 High Patrick Street, Hamilton, collapsed with blood streaming from wounds on her face and head.

Panic and disorder prevailed in the hall, and a young man who is alleged to have assaulted the girl with a razor blade, was overpowered by a number of men.

The girl was in the dressing-room of the hall when the man, who is alleged to have followed her to the dance, entered.

The girl received attention from a doctor, and later was taken to her home.

PLACED ON THEIR HONOUR

NOT TO GO TO ASCOT RACES.

No half holidays are allowed Eton boys during Ascot Week to prevent them going to the races

The boys got a surprise holiday on Friday a whole holiday—in honour of the celebration of the silver wedding of the headmaster, Mr. Claude Elliott.

There was one condition however. The head placed all the boys on their honour not to go to Ascot.

S.W. DONEGAL FISHING.

During the favourable weather of mid-week the lobster fishing proved fairly successful. At Doonalt and Malinmore on the Glencolumbkille coast large captures were secured on Wednesday evening and on Thursday morning. On Thursday Messrs. Cunneas had a catch of over eight boxes, while Messrs. Hegarty's boat, Malinmore, had a catch of ove rseven boxes. The fish realised from 12s 6d to 16s per dozen.

Heavy landings of white fish were in evidence at Teelin and other fishing centres along the Soutn-West Coast. The bulk of the fish consisted of whiting and glassan, and were easily disposed of, glassan at 2s 6d per dozen, whiting 2s per dozen, and cod at 2s each.

The deep sea salmon fishing opened during mid-week, when some good catches were secured. On Thursday morning one boat landed over 16 salmon. The fish were bought at prices ranging from 1s 2d to 1s 4d per lb.

PAINFUL SCENE IN ENGLISH COURT.

MURDERER'S COLLAPSE

AS BLACK CAP IS DONNED.

KILLED WIFE AND TWO CHILDREN.

Becoming hysterical as the Judge donned the dreaded black cap, William Parker, 25-year-old miner, of Edwin's Avenue, Forest Hall, Newcastle-on-Tyne, had to be carried from the dock in a collapsed condition after sentence of death had been passed on him at Newcastle Assizes yesterday.

Found guilty of the murder of his wife, Jane, at their home on April 22, Parker half recovered as Mr. Justice Atkinson began to pass sentence.

Warders propped him up against the rails of the dock, but he collapsed again and had to be carried from the dock.

The bodies of Parker's wife and their two children, Therese Shirley (14 months) and Cecil Edward (two months) were found strangled at their home when Parker gave himself up to the police on April 25 and said he thought he had killed his wife.

His defence was that he returned to his home and found that his wife had strangled the two children. She attacked him with a poker and he defended himself with the first weapon available, a hammer, and in doing so killed her.

Mr. G. H. B. Streatfeild, K.C., defending, suggested yesterday that Mrs. Parker, who had been worried over the shortage of food for her children, had in a sudden unguarded moment killed them and attacked her husband.

FERMANAGH SHOW.

It was intimated by the secretary (Mr. W. C. Wilson) that three new cups had been presented for competition at the next show. These were:—Silver cup presented by Messrs. Crossfield, Liverpool (through their local agent, Mr. A. Trotter) for the best gilt in the show; cup presented by Major Nixon, D.L. (chairman), for the best three sheep exhibited, and trophy from Mrs. H. G. Darley, Ballinamallard, for the best White Wyandotte entered.

LISBELLAW COURT DAY.

CATTLE OWNER FINED.

At Lisbellaw Petty Sessions on Friday, before Major Dickie, R.M.,

District-Inspector G. P. Kerr summoned William Woods, Slee, for failure to comply with the Warble Fly (Cattle) Order.

John M'Manaway, Ministry of Agriculture inspector, gave evidence.

Defendant said he had only bought the six animals a few days previously and had not had them long enough to get them dressed.

He was fined 10s and 2s costs, owing to this being the first case of the kind in the district.

NORTH'S FIRST WIN AT ASCOT.

BOLD BEN'S SUCCESS

IN WOKINGHAM STAKES.

TOTE SETS UP A FRESH RECORD.

We had to wait until the last day of this Ascot meeting for the North to win their first race, and then they chose the Wokingham Stakes, Bold Ben, from Sam Armstrong's stable at Middleham, proving a comfortable winner, writes "Hotspur," the "Daily Telegraph" racing correspondent.

The weather was again brilliantly fine, and, although there were not nearly so many people present as on Thursday, the tote set up a record by taking £123,124. Altogether considerably more than half a million pounds passed through the machine during the four days. What threatened to be a lean Ascot for Manton was retrieved yesterday by the victories of Cave Man and Maranta, but the stable was not so successful as last year, when they had seven victories. Boyd-Rochfort and Frank Butters did best this time, each saddling five winners. Betting on the Wokingham Stakes indicated that Knighted was something in the nature of a good thing, but, as so often happens in handicaps, the good thing failed to materialise. Still, he ran well, and only just missed a place.

LORD ASTOR'S ONLY VICTORY.

Lord Astor had his first and only success at the meeting, when Cave Man won the Jersey Stakes after a thrilling race with Buckwood and Chatsworth. It would be more correct to write that Gordon Richards won the race, as I am convinced that it was only his powerful riding that enabled the son of Mannamead to score by a neck. Seldom has the champion been seen to better advantage on a horse who appeared to be beaten twice in the last furlong.

On his running in the Derby, in which he was fifth, Cave Man was entitled to be made favourite, but I thought the distance would be too short for him. Actually this proved to be the case so far as actuality was concerned, Mr. Lant's colt failing to produce any finishing speed.

Royal Oak, a well-backed second favourite, looked like coming through to win at the distance, but he is a big, lumbering son of Royal Minstrel—bred in America—and he, too, failed to find the requisite dash in the last furlong. Cave Man's sire, Mannamead, was sold by Lord Astor some time ago and is now in Hungary.

TIN HAT'S CONSISTENCY.

Perryman rode a fine finish on Tin Hat to win the Britannia Stakes, a handicap run over the Royal Hunt Cup course, by a head from Suez. Tin Hat has been most consistent, having won three of his five races and finishing second and third respectively in the other two.

He and Suez, incidentally, were drawn on the stands side of the course, which I maintain is still an advantage. Nearchus, who finished third, beaten four lengths by Suez, was drawn No. 34 worst of all. In the circumstances he ran a good race. Ocean Base was slowly away, but was "flying" when it was all too late. She finished close up to the placed horses. Usk ran well, but I did not see either St. Swithin or Rattoo in the race with a chance at any time. Cosford lost lengths at the start, and never recovered the ground. The favourite, Bombay Duck, was never prominent.

WIN FOR SIR A. BAILEY.

The field for the Hardwicke Stakes was not exactly first class, as may be gathered from the fact that Maranta, a four-year-old claiming the maiden allowance, was made favourite. What is more important, he won easily by four lengths from Goya II. after making practically all the running.

Perifox jumped off in front, but before a furlong had been covered Maranta went ahead and was followed into Swinley Bottom by Sandsprite and Perifox, with Goya II. last. Maranta increased his lead approaching the straight and nothing ever looked like catching him.

Goya II., second in the Guineas last year, finished fast to beat Perifox by three-parts of a length for second place, but Magnet, after moving up in promising fashion early in the straight, dropped back again beaten by his big weight.

Maranta, who had run behind Foxglove II. in the Gold Vase on Tuesday, evidently appreciated the shorter distance yesterday. Sir Abe Bailey's colt completed a double for the Manton stable, who had scored earlier with Cave Man. Sandsprite, second to Mid-Day Sun in last year's Derby, was also running for the second time this week. He finished last.

ELLIOTT'S CONFIDENT RACE.

Sidley Dee was quickest into his stride when the tapes went up for the start of the Wokingham Stakes, with Bold Ben and The Drummer also prominent. At about halfway there was little to choose between Bold Ben, Knighted and Sidley Dee, and I also noticed Davy Dolittle and Carnival Boy going well.

Below the distance The Drummer and Sidley Dee were in trouble, and Bold Ben was leading from Knighted and Davy Dolittle.

The favourite could not get in an effective challenge, however, and it was left to Kinderscout, who finished fast, to chase Bold Ben home.

He was still a length behind when the post was reached, Davy Dolittle being a head away third and Knighted fourth. Charles Elliott, who won the Derby on Bois Roussel, rode a confident race on Bold Ben, who showed marked improvement on his earlier form this year.

Bold Ben was a useful three-year-old last season, winning four of his 10 races, but he had failed in each of his four outings this year. He was well backed, nevertheless, starting at 9 to 1. The second and third were also supported, but Gunboat, who had a lot of friends, let them down badly.

PORTOBELLO'S "FOURTH."

Portobello, one of the best juveniles produced this season, enhanced his already considerable reputation by gaining a comfortable victory at the expense of Money Down in the Windsor Castle Stakes. The market on this occasion was a good guide, as practically all the betting concerned the first and second.

So far as I could see Portobello was in front from start to finish, and, although Money Down took second place below the distance, she came under pressure immediately afterwards, and could not get nearer to the winner than a length and a half. Mercator ran best of the others, and I made a favourable note of Inquisition, who had not been out before, and should benefit by the experience.

Portobello has now won all his four races, and is obviously a high-class two-year-old. Being a son of Portlaw, it is unlikely that he will develop into a stayer, but, kept to sprinting, he will be very difficult to beat. P. Beasley, who rode Portobello, later scored on Foray. He has had a good meeting.

MARCUS SUPERBUS FAILS.

The Queen Alexandra Stakes will always call to mind that wonderful old horse Brown Jack, who won this two and three-quarter miles event six years in succession. Since his retirement four years ago the race seems to have lost some of its glamour, but some good stayers were in competition yesterday.

The best of them, according to the market, was Marcus Superbus, who ran well in the Ascot Stakes on Tuesday, but the best he could do was to finish fourth. Trevisani made the running, and was not headed until Epigram caught him 50 yards from the post, and went on to win by a length.

Epigram, who is by Son-in-Law, is a fine stayer, as he showed when winning the Goodwood Stakes last summer. He was splendidly ridden by Carslake, who, in spite of approaching the veteran stage, has few superiors as a jockey.

Epigram swerved close home, but did not interfere with Trevisani, who has abundant stamina, but not much finishing speed. Dytchley ran on well to keep Marcus Superbus out of third place, but never looked like winning.

KNIGHT'S ARMOUR WEAKENS.

Capt. Boyd-Rochfort, who saddled three winners on Thursday, increased his tally when he sent out Foray to win the King Stand Stakes. Knight's Armour, who beat Lohengrin and Mirza II. in the Fern Hill Stakes on Wednesday, jumped off in front, but weakened inside the distance when challenged by Foray and Shalfleet. For a moment I thought that Shalfleet would win, but he could not produce quite the dash of his younger days, and Foray held him at bay by three-parts of a length.

LIVERPOOL PROVISIONS.—Poultry—Fowls 8½d to 9d, chickens 1s to 1s 0½d, small spring chickens out of season and unquoted.

DUBLIN CORN—The market is just about steady with offerings sufficient for requirements at—White oats 14s to 15s 3d, black 12s 3d to 13s, and barley around 18s to 19s per barrel delivered.

GLASGOW CORN—The market continues steady with 43s 6d per 480 lbs. c.i.f. Glasgow the value of No. 1 Manitoba wheat for July shipment. Plate maize on spot is unchanged at 8s 1½d per cwt., while first arrivals of new crop are worth 7s 4½d and later positions 6s 7½d to 6s 9d. Home mill offals are about unchanged to 2s 6d per ton dearer. First grade Australian flour is nominal at 23s 6d per 280 lbs. ex-quay plus quota.

GLASGOW IRON AND STEEL—The sudden influx of foreign scrap supplies is having a very serious effect on deliveries of local material. Practically all the works have stopped deliveries, which is causing a good deal of alarm amongst Scottish merchants. It is not anticipated, however, that this state of affairs will last unduly long. Prices will continue at present figures until the end of September, and it is not expected there will be any change even then.

CLEVELAND IRON—Market inactive with little prospect of movement towards restoring animation until customers open negotiations for autumn requirements. Consumers of pig iron have still heavy stocks, largely Continental foundry kinds imported when there was acute shortage of Cleveland pig, and until accumulations have been substantially reduced, material expansion demand for Cleveland brands and East Coast hematite qualities cannot be expected. Semi-finished iron and steel slow of sale. Consumers well bought and in some cases overstocked. In finished industries producers of heavy steel are still running plant at high pressure to meet contract obligations, but manufacturers of other materials much less favourably placed.

BIRKENHEAD CATTLE—There was a slower trade for Irish cattle and late rates were not maintained. Best small bullocks and heifers made 8½d, strong and heavy classes 7½d to 7¾d, young cows and bulls 6d, other sorts 4½d to 5d. Canadian cattle met a firm trade at 8d to 8½d, a few very choice sorts a little more. Lambs were in excess of requirements and met a worse trade at 9½d to 10½d—all prices per lb. sinking the offal. The stock landed for sale during the week consisted of 1,007 Irish cattle, 1,811 Canadian cattle, and 7,824 lambs.

IRISH MARKETS.

KILLYBEGS.—Potatoes 5d to 7d per stone; new potatoes 1s 10d to 2s per stone; oats 1s 2d to 1s 4d per stone; oat straw 1s 6d to 1s 9d per cwt.; butter 11d to 1s per lb., print 1s 2d to 1s 4d per lb., creamery 1s 6d per lb.; fowl—hens and ducks 1s 8d to 2s 3d, chickens 2s 5d to 2s 6d each; hay, meadow and upland 32s 6d to 37s 6d per ton; wool (unwashed) 5½d to 6d per lb., black-faced 4d to 4½d per lb.; turf 2s 9d to 3s 9d per pony cart, 4s 6d to 5s 6d per horse cart; eggs, hen and duck 11d to 1s 1d per dozen.

CARS THAT HAD VANISHED.

CHARGE AGAINST 16-YEAR-OLD BOY.

Wm. G. H. Thompson, aged 16, of East Bread Street, Belfast, was remanded for a week when he appeared before Mr. J. H. Campbell, R.M., in the Belfast Custody Court, charged with breaking and entering two garages and the larceny of two cars, the property of John Pullin and John Thompson.

A juvenile was charged with being an accomplice after the fact.

Mr. P. Marrinan (instructed by Mr. D. Marrinan) represented the juvenile.

Evidence to-day was given by John Thompson of missing his car from his garage and finding it the following day—£6 damage having been done to it.

Bail was allowed.

HUNTING PARADE

FOR KING AND QUEEN IN PARIS.

ROYAL GARDEN PARTY.

DANCE FLOOR ON LAKE.

PARIS, Saturday.—One of the most picturesque features of the visit of the King and Queen to Paris will be a hunting festival, staged in the beautiful Jardin d'Acclimatation in the Bois de Boulogne on June 29.

A mimic hunt is a possibility. In the evening a hunt ball will be given by the Hunting Society of Paris.

Parisian society is eagerly looking forward to the Royal garden party at the Chateau de Bagetelle, in the Bois de Boulogne, which will be held on the afternoon of June 29.

Lucky guests have to fill in special forms in reply to a questionnaire, which will be verified by the Prefecture of Police.

A part of the lake will be covered with a floor, on which ballerinas will dance behind a curtain of playing fountains.

In the Royal buffet the King, surrounded by the Diplomatic Corps, the President of the Municipal Council and Mme. Faillot, will receive those who are to be presented.

A special salon has been arranged in the chateau itself for use in the event of rain.

Flower beds have appeared in the most unexpected places to decorate Paris for the Royal visit.

Even the austere Place Vendome has blossomed out into a garden. Earth has been laid round the foot of the column extending into the roadway and will become a lawn planted with box trees.

But the Place de l'Etoile, magnificent in itself, with the Arc de Triomphe in the centre and the grave of the Unknown Soldier beneath the arch, will be left practically untouched.

Schoolchildren will be massed at the four corners as their Majesties pass, while Spahis in their striking uniforms will line the square.

About 25,000 officers and men of the French services will take part in the great ceremonial review which King George and Queen Elizabeth will hold at Versailles on June 30.—Reuter.

GOSSIP FROM PRESS.

ROAD TRAFFIC ORATORS.

CONGESTION AT WESTMINSTER.

LONDON, Saturday.

There was an oratorical traffic block at Westminster yesterday. For a sunny Friday an unusually large number of M.P.'s were at the House, most of them anxious to air their pet theories on how to reduce road accidents. Most of the would-be orators, however, were held up in a stationary block all day. Mr. Leslie Burgin held the road a full hour of the five available while he put the Ministry of Transport case. Mr. Herbert Morrison, who followed him, took as long. Only eight back-benchers slipped through before the traffic lights went red again for the winding-up speeches. One of the back-bench speakers was Mr. Leach, whom perhaps rather rashly I tipped on Thursday for the vacant post of Parliamentary jester. His humour yesterday was of the unconscious variety. To solve road problems he advocates that no car should be manufactured capable of a speed of over 20 or perhaps 25 miles an hour, and that the signing of the pledge should be a condition for granting a licence.—"Peterborough" in the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post."

SALZBURG TO CORK.

Salzburg's famous music festival may move to Ireland now that so many musicians do not care to visit Austria. France, England, Belgium have all been suggested, but festival-builder Max Reinhardt, now in Hollywood, favours Ireland—probably the South. near Cork—for its romantic associations, its appeal to American tourists, its lack of competing attractions. Dr. Kommer, Reinhardt's former agent, stage-critic, ubiquitously cosmopolitan socialite, says, "Well, I mean Ireland is the only single place in Europe more rainy than Salzburg." De Valera would welcome festival. Ireland lags culturally—almost its only snob-social event is the Dublin Horse Show. Too many travellers think of Ireland merely as a backwater which some liners touch at five a.m. But the scheme would take two years to get going. Meanwhile, France is begging to be allowed to stage the festival.—William Hickey in the "Daily Express."

THE BIBLE.

Four hundredth anniversary of English Bible is to be marked by services tomorrow. Event thus commemorated is issue of certain injunctions to clergy in September, 1538, by Thomas Cromwell, Vicar-General, in name of King Henry VIII. Clergy were required to provide each for his own church "one book of the whole Bible of the largest volume in English." It was to be "set up in some convenient place within the church that ye have the care of, whereat your parishioners may most commodiously resort to the same and read it." Bibles were to be so provided by Easter, 1539, but it is unlikely that many were so provided, as only few copies of "Great Bible" were in existence at that time.—"News-Chronicle."

MILLIONS FOR SOVIET MOTHERS.

MOSCOW, Friday.—It was revealed to-day that more than £54,000,000 have been distributed to mothers of large families since the adoption in June, 1936, of the law which marked the intensification of the Soviet programme to improve the health of the population, and to stimulate an increase in the birth-rate by a rise in maternity benefits.—Exchange.

THE GARDENER'S CORNER

Keeping Down The Weeds In Your Garden Walk

By "THE MAN WITH THE HOE"

GARDEN walks have always been of great concern to gardeners, both amateurs and professional. When making these in the first instance clinkers make a good foundation, which if afterwards blinded with cinders and ashes grows solid and prevent many weeds from germinating on the surface. They, too, are easily hoed.

If desirable the walks may later be top-dressed with screenings or gravel. Weeds which are difficult to eradicate from chinks or stones may be disposed of with a good weed killer. Where the walks are short they are often coated with tar and small stones or with cement, both of which are permanent and are impervious to weeds.

Although wet weather is by no means pleasant yet it is good for the many bedding plants which are now being put in gardens and parks and also for the seedling crops of such vegetables as turnips, carrots, beet and parsnips, which will now require to be thinned out as they are growing so rapidly. After heavy rain also the hard ground becomes more easy to dig and to get into drills for the brassicas and to make the trenches for celery.

Raising Rhubarb.

In the vegetable garden early peas and broad beans are in flower. Parsley is showing its seedlings and lettuce looks green and flourishes. Rhubarb is gradually going off. This is a good time to raise rhubarb from seed. This may be done in drills and when the seedlings appear they may be thinned out and those left be planted out next spring. It is stated that rhubarb does not always come true from seed, but good varieties should be chosen in any case for the experiment. Division of the roots in early spring is the general way for forming a plantation. No stalks should be pulled the first year after planting.

Sweet peas are now growing rapidly and are coming into flower. A row of same may be sown now. It should produce some flowers in the autumn which will be useful as the other flowers in one's garden grow scarce. The experiment is worth trying as many rows of this plant were failures this year.

Seeds in small penny or twopenny packets are being sold in many shops and are worth trying as they entail little expense. One of these which was purchased recently was the single biennial Campanula. The seed may be sown in the open ground at the present time and later thinned out or transplanted into their flowering quarters, where they will bloom next year. They have attractive flowers which are in colours of pink, purple and white and they grow to a height of two feet. There are other seeds in these small packets which may also be sown now in the open ground. See the notes on each packet.

Lovers of ferns should be pleased with the fresh healthy appearance of their fronds, which the rain has washed clean. Beside the common ferns of the woodlands, the Hart's Tongue and the Royal ferns are coming into notice. These two last mentioned should receive a top dressing annually of loam, peat, leaf-mould and sand to grow them to perfection.

Ferns should be grown in the most shaded portion of one's garden and if associated with foxgloves make pretty pictures. The culture of ferns is a special hobby by itself and an interesting one also. Foxgloves are now to be had in marvellous varieties when grown from seed. One which has yellow flowers is very attractive.

In the Shrubbery.

In the shrubbery the stag's horn sumach trees are now in leaf. They are famous for the colouring of their leaves in autumn. They may be increased by cuttings six to eight inches long taken in October or November planted in a sheltered position under a hand-light.

Irises are in bloom in many gardens at present. The English and Spanish species appear to be the favourites. Spanish Iris are the smaller of the two. They are to be seen in many beautiful shades of colour such as yellow, blue, white, lilac, and orange. They are good for cutting. The winter flowering species, I. reticulata and I. stylosa, are very choice. Irises should not be disturbed so long as they are doing well.

The Common Flag Iris is showing its handsome yellow flowers in damp places over the countryside and is being gathered often by wanderers over the fields.

HOTEL MANAGER AND DETECTIVE.

LONDON SESSIONS APPEAL.

SCENE WITH WOMAN ARTIST.

An alleged assault by an hotel manager and detective upon a French woman artist was described to the London Sessions Appeals Committee yesterday.

Edward Mugridge, an ex-detective inspector of the Metropolitan Police and hotel detective at the Regent Palace Hotel, and Albert Collombin, manager of the hotel, appealed against convictions and fines of £5 and ten guineas costs each imposed by Mr. Harold M'Kenna at Bow Street Police Court for assaulting Mrs. Adeline Adrienne Holland, an artist.

The appeals were allowed with £5 5s costs.

Mr. G. D. Roberts, K.C., appeared for Mrs. Holland, and Mr. St. John Hutchinson represented both appellants.

Mr. Roberts said Mrs. Holland was a woman of French extraction married to an Englishman. She was an artist by occupation, and arrived at the Regent Palace Hotel at the end of March this year with some of her pictures, which she desired to exhibit at a London gallery. She made an arrangement that a representative of an art gallery should inspect some pictures on April 5, but on the 4th she was exhibiting some of the pictures in a public room at the hotel, when she was asked not to do so, and thereupon gave notice to leave by six o'clock on the sixth. The representative came to the hotel on the fifth, and she could not break the appointment, and she took him to a corridor outside her bedroom. Mugridge seemed to have followed her up and adopted an offensive attitude, and told Mrs. Holland to clear out at once.

She was upset, and went into her room followed by Mugridge and two other male members of the staff, and the door was shut. She told them to get out, and brandished some scissors. They went out, and when later she returned to her room she found it was locked. The two appellants then appeared with another member of the staff, and Mrs. Holland was roughly handled. She went to a window to call the police, but was struck on the face, dragged along the floor, and put in a luggage lift and taken to the ground floor. She was then shown that her belongings had already been packed, and many of her pictures had been damaged.

Without calling upon the appellants the Committee allowed the appeals with £5 5s costs.

SEAMAN FALLS OVERBOARD.

SAVED BY GREEK STEAMER.

The British steamer Nyanza reported by radio during the night that a member of the crew was missing and was presumed to have fallen overboard.

North Foreland Radio Station sent out a call to all ships asking that a look out should be kept for the missing man.

The Nyanza's message was: "Have seaman missing, presumed overboard. Last seen at 10 p.m. when vessel was four miles off Folkestone. Please keep a good look out."

Later the radio station reported that the seaman had been saved by the Greek steamer Aghios Nicolaos.

It is not known by the coastguards where he was picked up, but one report stated that it was off Ramsgate, which is nearly thirty miles from Folkestone.

BRITISH SHIPPING IN WAR-TIME.

GOVERNMENT'S PLANS

AFTER 18 MONTHS OF STUDY.

Following the disclosure in the British Commons by Dr. Burgin, Minister of Transport, I can state that plans for a diversion of merchant shipping from East Coast to Western ports of Britain in time of war have been in preparation for well over 18 months (writes the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" Naval correspondent).

I learn that a census of port facilities west of Plymouth, extending round Land's End to as far north as the Clyde, has been made. This has resulted in exact information as to the berthing, docking, and transport possibilities of every harbour of the slightest importance on the west coast of Britain.

Ports which have long been almost in disuse are earmarked as potential entreports for a national emergency.

Plans for the distribution of cargoes throughout the country from seaboard areas which in normal times have only rudimentary means of transport, are being worked out in detail by the Defence Departments, in co-operation with the Ministry of Transport.

Although much may remain to be done, there is good reason to believe that the 1938 edition of the famous "War Book" of 1914, compiled by the Committee of Imperial Defence, is fully up-to-date. This volume, if based on the 1914 model, lays down the action to be taken by every Defence and other Government Department in the event of war or the threat of war.

RISKS AT SEA.

The principal chapters in the 1914 "War Book," which are understood to be duplicated in the modern version, relate to—

The control of railways.

Control of the Press.

The Diversion of Shipping Committee, whose function was to provide against the contingency of East Coast ports becoming unusable, and therefore to arrange for the handling of trade at ports more remote from the danger zone, and finally,

The maintenance of Trade Committee charged with planning a system of State insurance against war risks at sea.

We have advanced a stage further than 1914, for the Admiralty have announced that current plans are laid on the basis that shipping must be put into convoy on certain routes immediately the danger of war develops.

It would, therefore, appear that, as regards the protection of seaborne trade and the distribution of imports to centres of population inland, we are better prepared to-day than was the case in 1914.

ALLAM'S LIVESTOCK SALES.

Yesterday Messrs. R. J. Allam, Limited, held their weekly sale of fat sows and boars in the Oxford Mart, Oxford Street, Belfast.

A slight increase of supplies were on offer, and the usual buyers were present. With adverse reports from cross-Channel markets and the prospect of warm weather trade was not so fast as the previous week. First quality York sows realised from 42s to 43s 6d, secondary grade 40s to 41s, rough unmeated lots sold under these figures. The highest price reached for sows was £11, boars £3 15s.

In the front mart a dispersal sale of horses, lorries, and harness was conducted on behalf of Messrs. W. M. Fleming & Co., Ltd., who are replacing with motor vehicles. Prices for horses ranged from £7 5s to £40, lorries up to £6.

SATURDAY COMMENTARY BY LADY OXFORD AND ASQUITH

The PASSING PAGEANT

Why "Society" Took Me Up

Too Many War Memorials

King Edward VII. "He was delighted I should win at my first experience of racing, and said he would send me a gold cigarette case"

THE indifference of the British public to the daily destruction of London shocks me profoundly. London will soon be of little interest to tourists. Who will want to see more hideous statues and vast memorials of a war which divided and devastated half Europe?

The Office of Works is now presided over by a man of exceptional taste, talent, and enterprise, and the owner of the most beautiful modern houses and gardens in England. Sir Philip Sassoon not only owns Lympne, from which you can see the coast of France, but Trent, within half-an-hour's drive from Piccadilly.

I do not know precisely what power he has over the amenities of London. But, if he has the power he ought to have, I know no man who would more have resented the demolition of the fine stone Georgian houses in Old Palace Yard, and the rebuilding of several stone ones in Abingdon Street to make room for an enormous bronze statue of King George V in naval uniform, wearing garter robes, etc., than Sir Philip Sassoon.

The scheme would certainly have met with violent opposition from King George himself. I well remember my discussions with him, when it was proposed to demolish Carlton House Terrace.

There seems to be a craze to-day for obliterating all that is of beauty and tradition. Motoring has removed most of our fine forest trees, and the unsightly war memorials, of little artistic merit, block the traffic at every turn in half our big cities. We are becoming completely commercial in spite of all our wealth—or, perhaps, because of it.

It has been told of ancient days that, when Sparta was at the height of her power, the reigning ruler said to his official adviser—"Do you think that there is anything which could harm Sparta"? At which the official replied—"I advise you to consult the Oracle at Delphi." The ruler went to the Oracle at Delphi, and said—"What can hurt Sparta"? The Oracle replied—"There is only one thing which can hurt Sparta—prosperity."

MADE MY HUNTING Reputation

ASCOT is the most fashionable, and, in some ways, the most famous of all race-meetings. It might truly be said that this week's fixture personally concerned the King. I met a man who told me he had had an annual pass, which took him to every meeting held under Jockey Club and National Hunt rules, with the exception of Ascot, for which he had to apply, like the rest of us, for a special pass, as on no other racecourse is there a Royal enclosure.

I was never in the racing world, although at one time I knew many of the owners, several of the trainers, and hunted for 20 years with Lord Manners, who lived near Melton, and was the first gentleman who won the Grand National—riding Seaman, his own horse.

I shall never forget the first day I stayed with him to hunt in the Shires. I had a wonderful horse, which I had bought from George Lambton—probably the best judge of racing and one of the finest riders in England. It was all bone and no body, and so thin that it was called Tea-leaf, but there was nothing which it could not jump, and it made my hunting reputation.

MY FIRST Visit to Ascot

PERCEIVING an ominous row of willows, I went at racing pace towards them, and, after jumping the brook, I found myself for too short a time alone with hounds. The field had scattered at the sight of the willows, but, being a stranger, I had no idea how dangerous brooks can be in Leicestershire. The banks are treacherous, and though the water is seldom wide, you have to take off before you reach the overhanging bank of every brook, or they will collapse, and you will find yourself plunged into the water.

The field caught me up, as hounds always check when you are alone with them. A good-looking young man, who had observed all that had happened, took off his hat to me, and said with a smile: "Who was the coward that could have put up the bridge you must have crossed?"

Nevertheless, it was not thanks to hunting, but to racing, that I owe such success as I have had in London society. I persuaded my brother, the late Lord Glenconner, to take me to Ascot. Every woman wants to look her best at Ascot, and I wore a dress made by old Monsieur Worth, once a shopwalker. He advised me to wear black, as it would be more conspicuous than the Neapolitan ice-cream colours usually seen at fashionable race meetings.

The lovely Lady Dalhousie, whose husband was a distinguished Liberal, and one of the few women I knew in the Royal Enclosure, admired my dress, and said that she would introduce me to the Prince of Wales—afterwards King Edward VII. I was thrilled at her proposal, as I had only seen the Prince of Wales and his beautiful bride (Queen Alexandra) driving upon great public occasions in the streets of London. After I had made a low curtsey, the Prince suggested that we should go into the paddock and watch the horses gallop past, and have a bet on the probable winner of the next race.

A ROYAL Present

WE stood together on the rails and watched the preliminary gallop, and I ticked off on my racing card the colours of the jockeys. I knew none of the names of the many starters for the Wokingham Stakes, but one of them attracted my attention. He galloped close to the ground and had a little head which you could have put into a pint pot, and his coat shone like the blest. "That, sir," I said to the Prince, "is the horse which I wager will win."

The horse was called Wokingham, and won in a canter. The Prince was delighted that I should win at my first experience of racing, and said that he would send me a gold cigarette case with a diamond clasp. I asked him what he would like me to have given him, had he backed the winner, and he said: "A book, as I hear you read, and I seldom read anything but newspapers." After this unexpected publicity I was invited to most of the balls and parties in Mayfair.

ITALIAN Embassy Party

THE social event since I last wrote was the evening party given at the Italian Embassy You may suppose that one fashionable evening party in Mayfair is much the same as another. The same chit-chat in the intervals, the same tiaras, gold chains, decorations, Royal guests, and fashionable people who know nothing whatever about the songs which they are not listening to.

But Signor Grandi and his wife, who were our hosts, are much loved, and thanks to a report in a reputable newspaper that the Italian Ambassador was on the eve of resigning and returning to his own country, every one of his guests felt that they might not have many more opportunities of meeting him. Which gave greater significance to the Embassy party than is usual when crowds crawl up staircases to hear what is not always an interesting programme.

GIGLI SANG Songs I Knew

I remember the Duke of Windsor telling me how trying he found it, when he was obliged to go to musical parties. At that time he did not care much for music. But when I met him last autumn in the Salzburg Festspielhaus he told me that both he and his wife enjoyed the operas conducted by Toscanini.

There was no Toscanini at the Italian Embassy, as it is well known that a band of Fascists nearly killed him because he refused to play the Fascist National Anthem in Italy before conducting "Aida." Nevertheless, we heard a great Italian singer, well-known to everyone but myself.

Beniamino Gigli has a beautiful tenor voice, and sang many of the old songs which I knew well and most love. If only famous musicians would sing songs which are familiar to even less lovers of music than myself, everyone would enjoy musical parties. But they seldom do, and I could not have enjoyed myself more than I did at the beautiful Embassy.

When the Ambassador told me the rumour that he was resigning was false—which I might have guessed, since rumour is seldom true—I went home happy.

BRITISH TROOPS IN SUEZ CANAL ZONE.

BARRACKS PROBLEM.

EGYPTIAN PROPOSAL.

DAMAGING STORIES OF "LUXURY."

The question of the accommodation for the British garrison in the Suez Canal zone is still preoccupying public attention, states the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" Cairo correspondent.

The reason the cost has increased so considerably is that there has been a marked all-round rise in the price of raw material and a considerable improvement in the conditions under which the British soldier is now housed.

In Egyptian circles it is thought that an arrangement might be made with the British Government whereby the latter would carry out the work for the £5,000,000 for which Great Britain offered to do it at the time of the signature of the Treaty in London, plus an allowance to cover the rise in the cost of raw material.

It is recognised that in British hands the cost of the barrack construction would be materially less than the £12,250,000 at which the Egyptian Government now estimates it, but it is considered doubtful whether the work could be done for much less than £10,000,000.

SITE NEARER CAIRO.

I believe that a proposal for the British troops to evacuate their positions in Cairo at Kasr el Nil and the Citadel, and to transfer to Abbassia or Helmia outside the city, where the Egyptian Government would erect special barracks for them, would not be received with disfavour.

Such a solution would remove the British troops from the heart of the capital, and the cost of transfer would be only one-fifth of that involved in removal to the Suez Canal zone.

The enemies of the Government and even some of its friends are spreading the most exaggerated stories of the luxurious amenities which the Egyptian Government is being called upon to provide for the accommodation of the British troops in the Suez Canal zone. These, it is said, are responsible for the enormous increase in the cost.

The dissemination of these stories is doing good neither to the supporters of the Treaty nor to British prestige. They are serving only to give colour to the remark, alleged to have been made by one of the members of the Egyptian delegation in London, that the implementation of the military clauses would expose the British Government to the criticism that they were seeking to impoverish Egypt.

The continuation of the present suspense is likely to set up a current of opinion unfavourable both to Britain and the Treaty.

ANGLO-AUSTRALIA TRADE TALKS.

PROGRESS REPORTED

IN LONDON NEGOTIATIONS.

WASHINGTON'S LATEST MOVE.

Progress in the negotiations for a new Anglo-Australian trade agreement was made on Friday at an important meeting at the Dominions Office between members of the Australian Trade Delegation in London and British Ministers, states a "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" representative.

I understand that the Ministers were particularly concerned with Australia's trade position, in the light of latest developments at Washington, where Anglo-American trade negotiations are in progress.

A quickening of discussions in Washington has been noted in London during the past few days, giving for the first time indications of how the new Anglo-Australian Pact will have to be formed in detail.

At the same time I understand preliminary and tentative moves are being made towards Australian-American trade talks which will possibly result in a third agreement. All these pacts will be bilateral.

I gather negotiations reached a point of detail on Friday which the British Government had hoped might be attained at the beginning of May when the Australian Ministers arrived—a point where bargaining on specific trade points could begin in the light of Washington negotiations.

Delays in Washington have for six weeks prevented the Anglo-Australian talks from going beyond broad questions of principle. Time has not been wasted, however, since, I understand, that general agreement on important principles has been reached with Australia. It has been decided, for instance, that in all circumstances the principle of Empire preference agreed at Ottawa shall stand. The preference margins will, however, have to be changed.

DEVELOPMENTS EXPECTED.

The Australian-American trade talks are still in the tentative cable and despatch stage, but prospects of agreement on this third front would, it is recognised, greatly assist progress in London and Washington.

From now on negotiations in London and Washington will be far more closely related, and important developments are expected within the next week or so.

MEXICAN VILLAGES' FIGHT.

HOUSES FIRED: GIRLS CARRIED OFF

MEXICO CITY, Friday.—Seventeen persons, including six women and four children, were killed and 23 others were wounded as the result of an inter-village fight in the State of Oaxaca. Land rights and ancient grudges have led to almost continuous friction between the villagers, until it culminated in the people of Chilapa making an assault with military tactics on Yodohino, and capturing it despite a stout defence.

They then fired the houses of the village and carried off 32 of the prettiest girls.

Federal troops found the village in ruins and pervaded by a death-like silence, punctuated by the moans of the abandoned wounded, the remainder of the villagers having fled.—Exchange.

"REIGN OF TERROR" IN FUR TRADE.

NEW YORK'S ENEMY NO. 1

SENTENCED TO THREE YEARS.

NEW YORK, Saturday. — Jacoti (Gurrah) Shapiro was to-day found guilty of charges of "racketeering" in the city's £15,000,000-a-year fur-dressing business.

He was said to have caused a reign of terror in the business.

The Federal Judge, Mr. Grover M. Moscowitz, imposed a sentence of three years' imprisonment and a fine of 15,000 dollars (£3,000) after reading a Department of Justice report which branded Gurrah as "the most vicious killer in New York."

Gurrah has never been convicted of murder.—Reuter.

METHODISM IN BANGOR.

SHOWING HER FLEET TO DICTATORS.

U.S. ATLANTIC MANŒUVRES.

55,000 MEN AND 155 SHIPS.

NEW YORK, Saturday.—Extensive fleet operations will take place in the Atlantic earlier this year than originally contemplated, according to the "New York Times" to-day.

"It is reliably understood," the paper states, "that the Navy Department, with the approval of the State Department, contemplates an extensive line of operations extending eastward to a point midway between Europe and the United States and possibly even to the Azores.

"Manœuvres on this scale, it is believed, will reassure South American countries who may be under pressure of European propaganda, while it will also flaunt American naval strength under the noses of European dictators who might be interested in knowing the capabilities of the U.S. Navy in the event of war.

"The operations will extend down to the equatorial line off Brazil." Official sources deny knowledge of the plans, which would involve 55,000 men and 155 warships.—Reuter.

LONDON WAREHOUSE FIRE.

PUT OUT WITH DIFFICULTY.

London firemen dealt with one of the most difficult fires they have had in recent times when an outbreak was discovered in the back part of a huge warehouse block in a narrow courtyard off 17-18 Cheapside, London, E.C.

Fortunately a Mr. Henderson, a member of a Manchester firm, was working late on Friday evening when he heard glass breaking on his floor.

He found the passage full of choking smoke, and he summoned the fire brigade before using an emergency exit.

Engines and ladders could not be taken down the covered courtyard, and hoses had to be run through the yard, up winding staircases, and through passages before the outbreak could be reached. The fire was under control after about an hour.

The officer in charge expressed the view that but for the quick alarm the difficulties experienced might have led to the whole building being involved.

As it was, the fire was confined to one section of the warehouse floor.

ESCAPE OF SOLDIERS.

RECALLED AT A COURT-MARTIAL.

The escape of three soldiers from the guardroom of Brompton Barracks, Chatham, was referred to on Friday afternoon at a court-martial at Chatham on Driver W. H. Keeping, of the Training Battalion, Royal Engineers, who pleaded not guilty to three charges of stealing clothing from other soldiers. Keeping said he only borrowed the clothing and intended to return it.

For the defence it was stated that while Keeping was awaiting trial he was offered his freedom by three men under close arrest, who overpowered the military policeman at the barracks at night, took the cell keys from him, and escaped.

Keeping, although his cell was opened by the men, refused to go with them, and rang the alarm bell.

It was through his efforts that the men were later recaptured.

The decision of the Court will be promulgated.

POLICE COURT WRONG.

CONVICTION AND SENTENCE QUASHED

Peter Logue, a hawker, of Greenview Street, Glasgow, had a conviction and sentence of three months' hard labour imposed at Glasgow, for a breach of the peace and assault on a police constable, quashed by the Justiciary Appeal Court, Edinburgh, yesterday.

It was stated that when the complaint was read at the police court there was omitted the part which contained a reference to the penalty which could be imposed under the Statute.

The Lord Justice Clerk said that it was a perfectly explicit direction by the Legislature that a statutory charge must either set forth the penalties directly or must do so by reference to the section of the Act under which they could be imposed. Omission of any reference to the penalties was fatal to the regularity of the proceedings.

Lord Wark, concurring, said that they had been informed that the omission was in accordance with normal procedure. If that was so then the procedure in police courts was wrong, whether or not a copy of the complaint had been served upon the accused.

Linen Trade Review

Present Very Quiet Period—Due To Lack Of Confidence —Cotton Price Difference—Linen Costs Unlikely To Fall—Fancy End Improving—Analysis Of May Exports—Reports From Sources Of Supply.

The industry in general has been coming through a very quiet period. While many attribute its present condition to the hold-up in our principal market, the United States, it would not be altogether correct to put that down as the only or even the chief cause of the general slackness that has been apparent in all markets. A lack of confidence has been the outstanding factor, brought about by the political uncertainties of European affairs which tend to evaporate business confidence, and react on world markets. In addition there is the difference between the prices of cotton and linen. While the price of linen might be considered high, based on to-day's cost of raw material, there is little likelihood of any relief in prices, especially in the lower grades of flax as supplied by the Soviet and Baltic countries. Nor is there any likelihood of any immediate drop in price of raw material.

While many deplore the quiet trend that business in general has taken, confidence in the future has by no means evaporated, and this was aptly expressed one day last week, when representatives of several branches of the industry held their annual golf competition at the Royal Belfast Golf Club, Craigavad. Mr. John Burton, the incoming president, in his remarks, apologised for making any reference to business, especially on an occasion when one wanted to relax and try to forget the troubles and difficulties that beset the trade. He struck a cheery note in saying there was no cause for despondency, and concluded his remarks by saying that "the proverbial apple will grow again."

Reduced Output.

In the manufacturing end, trade during the week has, if anything, been quieter. Output is being reduced to its necessary limit, and an extended stoppage during the July holidays is being considered. Some merchanting houses can record an improvement on the previous week, but the majority can only describe the week as moderate. The home market is dull, and several firms on the other side are preparing for stocktaking. Normal business is below average, and notwithstanding the shrinkage in demand, prices still remain firm.

The clothing end has been coming through one of the quietest periods this section of the trade has experienced for some time, and some firms would go as far as saying it is unprecedented.

Stocks are bound to be low, and it is thought when demand begins prices are bound to advance.

The fancy linen section is improving, and shows signs of expandng. Some firms show satisfactory returns on recent orders. With regard to handkerchiefs, several overseas buyers have been here during the week, and it is reported returns have been satisfactory. Home demands are quiet, and London business is reported flat. This paucity of orders from the Metropolis is difficult to understand, as business from that market should be well up to normal at this season of the year. Chinese handkerchiefs are not moving quickly at present. There are fairly large stocks of these goods on the market at the present time.

With regard to China, complications have occurred owing to the depreciation of the exchange, and this, it is thought, may have the effect of slowing down business with that country.

The United States position is much the same as reported, and very little business is passing.

Shipping houses are occupied in getting foreign orders ready for the next shipping period some weeks hence, while some moderate business has been reported. The hold-up with some of the South American markets is becoming more noticeable in a reduced output return of exports.

Anglo-Australian Trade.

While our business with Australia still continues to show satisfactory returns, it will have been noticed that certain Australian Ministers have already arrived in this country to take part in discussions relative to the re-negotiation of the Ottawa Agreement. The Australians are reported to be anxious to secure greater freedom of action to vary their tariff levels than is permitted them under Article 9-13 of the existing Agreement, so that they can make agreements with foreign countries. This, it is explained, would almost inevitably be at the expense of the British industrialist. In view of the right of free entry accorded to Australian products in this market, and of the fact that the existing agreement does not appear to have hindered the expansion of domestic manufacture in Australia, the Federation of British Industries feels most strongly that attempts to secure the abandonment of the clauses should be resisted.

Colonial and Dominion business still continues to show satisfactory returns. These markets have been our chief mainstays during a period which many connected with the industry might describe as unprecedented.

Yarns and Flax.

The week has been featureless so far as any yarns business of any consequence is concerned. Some small lots to fill immediate wants changed hands, but beyond these there is nothing to report. Prices still remain firm.

With regard to flax, there is no change to report in the position. Under the conditions existing at the present time, any attempts in transacting business with the monopoly is not only difficult, but described as impossible. Quotations have been made to dealers at prices much greater than spinners wish to pay.

The Russian Government continues its policy of building up a supply of flax for domestic use.

Prices are purely nominal, and are being maintained in the centres of consumption on the basis of £50—£50 10s (gold) basis group IV.

Exports in May.

As expected the official figures show a bad falling off compared with May last year. The total amount is £424,596 against £596,194, or a drop of about 30 per cent. Seven countries show a decline, and three countries and one group (British possessions) show increases.

The United States is still No. 1 customer, although the drop in exports is very serious, being as much as 62½ per cent. No. 2 is Australia, showing an increase of 22½ per cent., the figures being £35,825 against £28,649. Third is South Africa, which also shows an increase of about 55 per cent. Fourth is British India, the increase in this case is 20 per cent. These three Dominions are doing exceedingly well, and the prospects for the future are quite good.

Canada comes fifth, but in this market there is a decrease of 12½ per cent. Sixth is Brazil with a big drop of 40 per cent. China is seventh, only coming to £11,111 or 74 per cent. less than in May last year. This is a very big decline, but the circumstances causing it are well known and unavoidable. Eighth is Argentina, which has done pretty well, the drop being only 6 per cent. Ninth, New Zealand with 20 per cent. of a decline. Tenth and lowest is Cuba with a reduction of about 60 per cent.

Concerning the group of British possessions (not mentioned with the Dominions) these altogether have taken £22,863, or an increase of about 9 per cent. On the other hand, the group of foreign countries not mentioned individually show a decline of about 27½ per cent.

Yarns have done pretty well, the figures being £68,371, or only 15 per cent. under those of last May. On the other hand, plain bleached linens have suffered most, the drop being over 60 per cent. Imports of manufactured goods are down to £10,346, or 40 per cent. less than in May last year.

Continental Reports.

Lille Flax.—The situation in Russia flax remains the same. The Soviet monopoly is making no offers, and dealers and exporters do not seem anxious to liquidate the remainder of their stock. £51 (gold) is the nominal quotation for B.K.K.O. group iv., first quality.

The present exchange difficulties do not facilitate purchasers of Belgian flax. Nevertheless, prices are being maintained at their previous levels.

Business in French flax was calmer in the week under review. Spinners appear to be pursuing a "wait and see" policy.

There are excellent grounds for anticipating an exceptionally good crop. In the first place sowing this year was more numerous than in previous years. Moreover, reports of the progress of the plants are consistently good. The storms, rains and cloudy conditions of the past days have been eminently favourable to growth, and the highest hopes of a good yield are entertained. French spinners, says "Le Nord," in their dealings with foreign growers should turn to the fullest account the bargaining advantage which increased home production will afford them.

Tow.—There is a small flow of business in hackled tows at firm prices, but little activity in scutched and imported tow.

Belgian Flax.

Ghent.—The tendency on the Belgian scutched flax market is feeble. Inferior qualities are most affected. Although demand is poorer the situation is not without its compensations for scutchers; in the first place, the volume of production is considerably reduced as retting activities are of primary importance at the present time, and, moreover, the present calm may induce growers to part with the new crop at reasonable prices.

Those processors who since paid dearly for their haste in buying flax straw last year are evincing more circumspection this year. There is little reason for haste in any case, as the general opinion is that the crop will be very abundant and of good quality, and that the range and variety of choice will be above the average.

Several processors and dealers who are dissatisfied with the present low level of prices have conceived the idea of steeping their scutched flax excessively so that buyers have had real cause for complaint, and are rejecting the bales. This procedure is inexcusable, and indeed may prove a two-edged weapon.

Irish spinners are assiduous buyers of Belgian scutched flax. Their purchases in the week under review increased considerably, especially in middle grades, although they scrutinised the flax carefully, and scrupulously rejected the white flower variety, which is now classified among the inferior grades.

French spinners were also very active, chiefly in dew-retted, and in the white flowering grades. German spinners touched the other extreme, and acquired superior and selected qualities, offering as much as 31.32 francs for suitable lots.

The situation in tows is very calm. Prices are decreasing, and dealers have difficulty in finding buyers. Some lots of scutched tows changed hands at 2.50 francs per kilo, which is a ridiculously low price. Certain dealers are buying for stock in the hope of a recovery in business. However, political events are charged with too much tension to permit of an early uptake.

Russia and Baltic.

There is nothing new to report in the general situation of the Russian and Baltic markets. The difficulties experienced in conducting business in the industrial centres are not calculated to induce heavy purchases of raw material on the markets of origin.

Lille Flax and Tow Yarns—The market is a little more sustained, but activity is totally inadequate. Spinners are working under extremely difficult conditions due to the excessive price of raw material.

Lille Cloth—The market is stagnant. Some small orders are reported for immediate delivery.

1ST BATTALION SOMERSETS.

DANCE AIDS BUILDING FUND.

A dance in aid of the building fund of the Regimental Association, 1st Batt. Somerset Light Infantry, was held in the King Edward Memorial Hall, Holywood, on Friday evening. Mr. W. H. Wiltshire was M.C., and the music was supplied by Mr. Fred Brown.

There was a large number of patrons. Dancing commenced at 10 p.m. and continued till 5 a.m. Tea was served by the following members of the women's section:—Mrs. W. H. Whitchurch, Mrs. E. F. Hases, Mrs. W. H. Wiltshire, Mrs. G. Turk and Mrs. A. Winder.

LOCK OF NELSON'S HAIR.

FETCHES £11 AT AUCTION.

Eleven pounds was paid for a lock of Nelson's hair at an auction at Portesham House, near Dorchester, on Friday.

The lock was originally sent by Lady Hamilton to the then Prince of Wales in 1806. It was sold with a number of other relics of Nelson and of his famous Flag-Captain, Masterman Hardy, whose home was at Portesham House.

Hardy's desk, used in his cabin on the Victory, realised £70; Nelson's "Prayer Before Battle," composed by him in his cabin on the Victory in sight of the enemy before Trafalgar, was sold for nine guineas. It was bought on behalf of the Dorset Ex-Naval Association, which is to present it to H.M.S. Hardy, flotilla leader in the Mediterranean, named after the famous Dorset seaman.

CALL TO BELFAST MINISTER.

FROM CLOGHER CONGREGATION.

Clogher Presbyterian congregation has made a unanimous call in favour of Rev. Cecil Parke, B.A., a licentiate of Clogher Presbytery, and until recently assistant to Rev. Dr. Woodburn in Fitzroy Avenue Presbyterian Church, Belfast, to succeed Rev. Frederick Rupert Gibson, B.A., now minister of York Street congregation, Belfast.

Rev. Mr. Parke is the youngest of three sons of the late Rev. Arthur Parke, of Ballykelly, and of the late Mrs. Annie Gertrudt Parke, of Ballymagrane, Aughnacloy.

He received his early education at Dungannon Royal School and M'Crea-Magee College, Derry, later going to Trinity College, Dublin, where he had a brilliant career, obtaining the B.A. with honours in Ancient History.

He subsequently spent a year at the Assembly College, Belfast. He is a brother of Rev. Arthur Malcom Parke, B.A., minister of Castlecaulfield Presbyterian Church. His other brother, Dr. Alan Parke, of the China Inland Mission, died from typthus at Baoning, Szechwan, China, just over a year ago.

ITALIAN WHEAT SHORTAGE.

ROME, Friday.—The Central Grain Committee has been summoned to meet on July 2 at the Palazzo Venezia, for a formal meeting under the chairmanship of Signor Mussolini.

It is expected that they will deal with the grave problem raised in Italy by the disastrous wheat crop and its consequent effect upon bread supplies all over the country.—Exchange.

DEATH OF A MIDGET.

BELIEVED SMALLEST MAN IN EUROPE.

HE HATED PUBLICITY.

Believed to be the smallest man in Europe, and definitely the smallest in Yugo-Slavia, Acim Bunngin, 38-inch high midget, of Cala, Yugo-Slavia, is reported to have died at the age of 86.

He was one of a family of midgets. A brother, who was a fraction of an inch taller, died at the age of 60, while his sister, the smallest of the trio, lived 80 years.

Acim hated publicity and throughout his many years he shunned the camera. He also turned down many offers to tour with circuses.

BARBER WINS BOOK PRIZE.

A barber who writes novels between shaves has just been awarded the 1938 prize for fiction by the Servian Royal Academy.

This is the first time a barber has been awarded the prize since its creation in 1889. The award is competed for by Servian and Croat writers.

The barber's novel was entitled "Forgotten Tombs."

AMERICA'S BIG DRINK BILL.

Taxes from liquor accounted for about one twelfth of all revenue collected by American Federal State and local authorities during 1937, according to figures issued by the Distilled Spirits Institute.

The taxes, which amount to £204,455,146, are now the third most important source of all Government income and are exceeded only by property and income taxation. Second to income taxation as a form of Federal income and one of the primary sources of State income, liquor revenue represents more than 10 per cent. of all Federal receipts and more than 12 per cent. of all State receipts for the year.

In many States alcoholic beverages have become the first or second most important source of revenue. New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Illinois headed the list, each reaping more than £5,000,000 in liquor taxes. Nevada, with £56,052, benefited least from this form of taxation.

TRAGEDY OF OLDEN TIMES.

At Adria, a little Italian village near the sea, an old Etruscan chariot complete with all its equipage has been found underneath the sand, which forms part of the soil even to this day, and which is thought to have enveloped the chariot when in full course hundreds of years ago.

On either side of the chariot were found the skeletons of two horses of huge proportions, certainly larger than are known to exist to-day. In the body of the chariot was the skeleton of a woman richly attired in bracelets, rings, spangles, and other articles all made of gold. A little further away from the spot the digging party came across another skeleton, that of the driver, who had obviously been thrown out when the chariot was swallowed up in the shifting sand. He still held the reins in his hands.

All the remains have been taken to the local museum.

VANITY AND SUICIDE ATTEMPT.

An American girl attempted to commit suicide when she was prevented from showing a new pair of shoes to her friends.

That was the police theory when 15-year-old Jennie Calibrisi was found on the pavement suffering from concussion of the brain, fracture of several ribs, and internal injuries.

Detective Otto Drescher said that Jennie had a new pair of shoes, of which she was very proud. She wanted to go out to display them, but her mother ordered her to remain at home to do some housework. There was a quarrel and the girl, becoming hysterical, plunged through the window.

BARGAINING BANNED.

"Haggling"—a famous feature of Turkish bazaars—will henceforth be illegal according to a new law just passed here.

As a result swarthy Turks will no longer be seen gesticulating wildly over their wares in an attempt to obtain their own price.

Under the new law labels bearing the one and only price will be attached to all goods, so foreigners will not now have to spend half a day "beating down" the merchants until a fair price is reached.

ELEPHANT EATS RUCKSACK.

An elephant belonging to a German circus has eaten—and successfully digested—a rucksack.

He was being led from the railway station at Kahla to the local shooting festival when he discovered a rucksack on the seat of a farmer's cart. It contained three pounds of sausage and three pounds of bread.

Seizing the rucksack with his trunk, the elephant stuffed it into his mouth and swallowed it whole. Its unusual meal has not troubled its digestion at all.

The owner of the rucksack summoned the circus-owner, who had to pay for a new rucksack and the cost of the sausage and bread

LIFE PRISONER WED IN JAIL.

Shortly after being sentenced to life imprisonment, Cyril Pushkaroff has been married in Sofia (Bulgaria) Central Prison.

He was sentenced to death for the murder of a wealthy Jew named Simanto, but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. Shortly afterwards he applied for permission to marry his sweetheart, Ivanka Stoyanova.

This was granted, and the couple were married in the prison chapel. The best man was the Governor of the jail. The bride wore a white veil and carried a bouquet of flowers. A number of prisoners formed the congregation.

According to the laws of Bulgaria, the wife of a man sentenced to more than five years' imprisonment is free to obtain a divorce.

ENGLISH AS 'WORLD LANGUAGE.'

An intensive study of English by all classes in Finland is urged in a letter occupying a whole column in the Helsinki (Helsingfors) newspaper "Uusi Suomi."

The writer points out that English is the mother tongue of 550 million of the world's inhabitants as against 80 million German-speaking and 75 million French-speaking natives.

English is, moreover, claimed to be the recognised official language in industrial, commercial, banking, and shipping circles as well as being commonly employed in the annually increasing tourist traffic.

Owing to the custom of publishing international works in English, the study of that language has greatly increased throughout the world, and more particularly in Soviet Russia, Scandinavia, and the Baltic States.

It is further asserted that although French is still employed as the official diplomatic language, the prominent part being played in world politics by both Great Britain and the United States of America is resulting in French being gradually but inevitably superseded by English.

In conclusion the writer urges that the greatest possible importance must be attached to an intensive study of English in all Finnish official, educational, commercial, and industrial circles.

WEDDING DAY DEATH PACT.

A death pact made on their marriage day a year ago between a wealthy Indian landlord and his 17-year-old wife had a strange fulfilment when Diwan Ajit Singh of Bilari Estate near Jhansi was declared incurably ill. His young wife reminded him of their pact, touched his feet, put on her bridal dress and kissed their infant child. She then shot herself. Crying: "Coming darling," her husband staggered out of bed and collapsed at her side. Both bodies were cremated at the same funeral pyre.

PROGRAMMES TO-DAY.

RADIO DRAMA OF DR. SWIFT.

INTERNATIONAL GOLF REVIEW.

What really happened where the lives of Jonathan Swift, of "Stella" and "Vanessa" crossed and recrossed? There are certain facts known to all which have been reconciled by none; three well-known characters and so far no credible explanation of their actions and reactions. What really happened? To-night at 8-20, in a programme entitled "Weep for Polyphemus," the riddle of Dr. Jonathan Swift, the great Dean of St. Patrick's, Dublin, will be restated in a radio-dramatic form, with a new solution put forward by Denis Johnston. The production is by Peter Creswell, and the part of Swift is played by Carleton Hobbs.

A concert will be given at 3-15 by the Ulster Amateur Flute Band (conductor, William Blythe) and the Queen Mary Accordion Band (conductor, Harry Gillespie), with William Carson (baritone) as soloist.

At 9-20 the Philip Whiteway Ensemble will play a programme of light music, and at 9-45 George Nash comes to the microphone to give a review of the tour of the Ladies' South African Golf Team in Northern Ireland and an account of the morning's play in their game against the Ladies of the Royal Portrush Golf Club.

BISHOP AND GARDENING.

RECALLS THE DROUGHT OF 1894.

The Bishop of Salisbury (Dr. Neville Lovett), writing in the Salisbury Diocesan Gazette, says:—

"The bleak drought is ended, the rain has come and in time, I hope, to prevent such a failure of all sown crops as I remember in 1894 when the drought lasted to August and a wet August could not spoil the harvest, for there was none to spoil.

All our gardens are looking grateful. If they are late in vesting themselves in their summer apparel, better late than never.

One of the most satisfactory things about our "present day" is the widely-spread and increasing interest which all sorts and conditions of people take in making their gardens, large or small, beautiful in their "lay-out" and in their brilliance of flowers.

SOBBING PRISONER.

A VERY HUMAN STORY.

MAN RELEASED FROM JAIL.

There was a dramatic sequel at Lambeth Police Court on Friday when a prisoner, Edmund Dolan (34), had been sentenced by Mr. Bertrand Watson to two months' hard labour for assaulting a former fellow-lodger at Westminster Square, Kennington.

Dolan's right hand bore a surgical bandage. Some bones in the hand had been fractured by a blow from an iron bar wielded, he said, in a "scrimmage" by one of several hostile people when he went to West Square to "protect" his wife and baby, whom he had left to stay there. He was the assaulted party, he declared.

Admitting a list of criminal convictions, but saying he had "gone straight" for the last three years, Dolan was found guilty and sentenced to two months' hard labour. He thanked the magistrate respectfully.

Half an hour later, sobbing convulsively, Dolan was brought back into the court by the chief jailer Saunders.

Between his sobs Dolan explained that he had just received on the jailer's telephone a message from a coroner's officer announcing that the baby had died suddenly and an inquest would probably take place.

Dolan asked the magistrate to "let him out for a few days to attend the inquest and funeral." "I will report twice a day to the police if you wish" he pleaded.

The magistrate, suspending sentence, remanded Dolan for a week, allowing him nominal bail with a surety in £5.

Dolan—Thank you so much, your Worship.

ROME POPULATION INCREASE.

DISAPPOINTED ONE

OUTCLASSED BY EIRE

Sir,—As one of a party who has just visited the Empire Exhibition, I thoroughly concur with your correspondent "County Down" in his remarks re the Northern Ireland Pavilion. To me it was a great disappointment. The Free State (representing Ireland) deserve credit for quite a good display, and they must have someone in their Government Departments who can see ahead, as their pavilion is situated in one of the best positions in the exhibition, flanked on either side by those of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, West Indies, etc., whilst Northern Ireland is relegated to the background, and I am safe in stating that not one person in a hundred visiting the exhibition will make their way to its pavilion.

The exterior has a very drab appearance, quite a contrast to those of the Dominions, and as for the interior, well surely something more could be done to make it representative of the industry of Northern Ireland? There are still over four months of the exhibition to go, including the peak months July and August, and I would suggest that those responsible get together and try to make some improvement. If nothing is done I hesitate to think what the Belfast and Northern Ireland visitors during the "Twelfth" holiday period will have to say.—Yours, etc., G. M'A.

NO REPLY FROM B.B.C.

Sir,—As a wireless licence holder—that is, a patient sufferer—I was optimistic enough to address an innocent enquiry to the B.B.C., Linenhall Street Station.

I asked. with studied politeness, for some information as to what they were open to consider from outside contributors. A few friends and myself had been visited by an original idea or two which we ventured to think the autocrats of the ether might be glad to know about.

I enclosed a stamped envelope. A few weeks elapsed. There was no reply. I thought I would try again: "Referring to mine of ——, may I courteously enquire, etc. . ." There was no reply. I am a persevering mortal. I wrote yet again. I waited. Nothing happened. I am still waiting and wondering. I am still waiting to be favoured with an example of the famous B.B.C. courtesy.

Has our B.B.C. no interest then in its local writers and thinkers? (Our slow wits do become active once in a while). Has it decided, by withholding answers to such enquirers, to discourage them from submitting their well-meant efforts? Are the lords of the air finally convinced that we in Belfast have nothing to give? And if we have something to give are they determined that we shall not give it? Neither I nor my friends can understand their unresponsive attitude.

Meanwhile an abundance of books is being offered to us on "How to write for Broadcasting," and ambitious people are sedulously studying them; but they might as well leave them alone if our B.B.C. is resolved to shut its doors against them.—Yours, etc.,

"STRUTH."

MR. LUPANE'S REJOINER.

Sir,—Mr. David Wilson in his attempt to reply to my letter uses the usual stock-in-trade of the street corner teetotal orator—all sound and fury with no attempt to discuss the question at issue. From his remarks generally about the people, one would infer that they were all imbeciles without wit or intelligence, and that Mr. Wilson was their Heaven-sent guide. With regard to Mr. Wilson's defeat at the Temperance election, it is gratifying to know that Unionists and Nationalists could combine in defeating one who would deny them the right and liberty to enjoy a glass of whisky or a bottle of stout. It might be pertinent to ask where were all his teetotal friends and the thousands he affects to speak for on election day? Does this not convince him that his following is infinitesimal.—Yours, etc. CHARLES LUPANE.

Chairman,
Ulster Anti-Prohibition Council.
32 Waring Street, Belfast.

£1 WEEKLY WAGE REFUSED.

Sir,—Anything which will reduce unemployment should be encouraged. That is one reason why the schemes proposed by your correspondent, Mr. J. M. Whyte should be heartily supported.

Recently I have had two offers of employment, the wages in each case being £1 weekly. I refused them both. "Work or Want" is not the motto, it is "Work and Want."

Mr. Whyte describes the "dole" as a "pittance." That may be right, but one may as well have one for a couple of signatures as for a week's work. Should not employers be forced to pay a man a man's wages? "If the situation is tackled energetically and sanely there is plenty of work for everybody," according to Mr. Whyte. Someone is being accused of laziness and insanity. Who? He or they should be unemployed.—Yours, etc.,

"ONE FROM THE RANKS."

TOWERS ON IRISH FARMS.

Sir,—Travelling round various parts of Ulster, I notice fairly high, round-shape towers situated at many large farms. I have been informed that the name of these is Silos. Now, as far as I can remember, I have not seen any Silos in England, or at least in Cheshire. Would someone please let me know through the columns of the "Belfast Telegraph" if Silos are an Irish idea, or did these originate in, say, Denmark.—Yours, etc., "FARMER'S SON."

WATER AND ALCOHOL.

Sir,—It was a pleasure to read Mr. Whyte's practical suggestion. I venture to add that if turbines were placed on the main pipe lines the high pressure of water could be used to provide cheap power and light. The turbines could be fitted without contaminating the water in the least. With regard to the motor fuel I am surprised that the Government has allowed Dunville's Distillery to become derelict. Here is a ready-made new but old industry with plant lying dead.—Yours, etc.,

"DOLE FOOL."

NEW BELFAST POST OFFICE.

Sir,—A new Post Office, beautifully fitted-up in most modern style, was opened a few months ago in Great Victoria Street, with slot machines for purchasing half-penny and penny stamps outside the office. These machines, I presume, are for the convenience of the public, so that stamps may be obtained after the office closes, which, by the way, is now half an hour earlier than the closing hour of the old Post Office at corner of Hope Street.

On very many occasions recently either one or other of the slot machines have been found closed with a slide marked "empty." I often go to this office after nine o'clock p.m. to post letters, and owing to past experiences I have to go armed with a large quantity of halfpennies in case, as likely as not, the penny stamp machine should be found empty. When I find the halfpenny machine empty I have to purchase two penny stamps for each letter I wish to post.

The machines should be attended to each day to make certain that there are enough stamps in same to meet the requirements of the night sales.

This complaint has been made to the office concerned but no improvement has been effected.—Yours, etc.,

"GREGORY."

BRITISH EMPIRE'S STRENGTH.

Dear Sir,—It has been said that the secret of England's greatness is the Bible, and I believe this. What nation has given such liberty to its people to have a Bible in their homes, if they want it, and to read it when and where ever they like. "The entrance of Thy words giveth light." This is what the Bible teaches. This is why our laws are so good. Leaders and men of influence are more or less influenced by its teaching, so that our laws are more honourable than the nations that know not God or don't want Him. The pity is the Bible has been so much set aside. It behoves every Christian to come back more to God and His Word, and pray more instead of finding fault with our statesmen.

Let the Christian pray for these men. "The effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much (James v., 16). It has been said that Mary Queen of Scotland feared john Knox's prayers more than an army of 10,000 men. Those who doubt this, read the life of John Knox.—Yours, etc.,

"BIBLE LOVER."

AUSTRALIA'S BEST GOOGLY BOWLER.

DEATH OF DR. HORDERN.

HOBBS HIS VICTIM FIVE TIMES.

SYDNEY, Saturday.—The death was announced here to-day of Dr. H. V. Hordern, who was regarded as Australia's greatest googly bowler. When learning to master googly bowling he experimented with saucers. He dismissed Jack Hobbs five times.

Mr. S. Smith, former manager of the Australian Test teams, said that Hordern was one of the world's best bowlers.—Reuter.

HEADLEY TO PLAY FOR W. INDIES.

George Headley, West Indian professional to Haslingden, is to play for the West Indies next season.

Headley's engagement with Haslingden covers next season, which would have been his sixth with the club, but there was a proviso in his contract that he would be released if required by the tourists.

The West Indies have now asked for his services for all matches, and his engagement with Haslingden will end this season.

REFORMING POWER OF CRICKET.

Cricket now plays its part in reforming young offenders. Eleven players leave London to-morrow on one of the strangest cricket tours of the season. They are members of the Home Office team, and for the next week they will play daily matches against Home Office approved schools—institutions that used to be called reformatories.

On Monday they will meet boys from the Norton (Birmingham) School in camp at Abergele, and subsequent days will find them playing matches against Saltersford School Homes' Chapel, Cheshire; Kingswood, Bristol; Portslade, Sussex; and Ashford, Kent, as well as another "camp" side at Rhuddlan, Flintshire.

The matches against the Home Office "tourists" are regarded by the boys as the most important of the season, and the results are far from being foregone conclusions, despite the visitors' advantage in age and experience.

The standard of play at the approved schools is so high that they are able to claim an all-England cricketer among their "old boys." But not for worlds will the school officials, or the Home Office, divulge his name.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

There is no change in the order of the first seven counties in the championship table as a result of the games which ended yesterday. Middlesex and Yorkshire both won easily, but could not catch Lancashire on one match.

The Australians easily beat the Gentlemen at Lord's, only P. A. Gibb making much resistance to the slow spinners of L. O'B. Fleetwood-Smith.

Lancashire played fine cricket at Oxford and won by seven wickets. Wilkinson again bowled well for five wickets, and Paynter and Hopwood batted briskly.

B. O. Allen and Neale batted splendidly for Gloucestershire, but Middlesex had got too big lead and won by an innings.

Worcester did well to set Kent to get 172 to win after following on 208 behind, but Kent won by seven wickets.

Derbyshire, Essex, and Sussex all lost good games narrowly to Hants, Somerset, and Notts respectively, after leading on the first innings; Nottinghamshire did remarkably well to score 326 for six to win at Hove, where wickets had fallen quickly on Thursday.

Surrey proved much too strong for Cambridge, but P. M. Studd batted well for the University.

SOLDIER'S ASSAILANT.

AFGHAN RELIGIOUS MANIAC.

KARACHI, Friday.—The condition of Signaller Macdonald, of the Royal Corps of Signals, who was stabbed by a fanatical fakir in a Karachi cinema on Wednesday is stated to-day to be improved. Sensational facts have been brought to light during the police investigations.

The assailant was a religious maniac who imbibed the notorious Fakir Ipi's doctrine of hatred when he visited the North-West frontier recently.

He is an Afghan who entered India at Fort Sandeman on the Baluchistan border, and made his way to the big Sehwan fair in Sind, where he was branded on the arm as "a genuine wandering servant of Allah."

Although in custody he is still determined to kill more Britishers so as to ensure his entry into the Muslim heaven.—Exchange.

DUTCH COMPANY'S DIVIDEND.

AMSTERDAM, Saturday. — The Deli Batavia Tobacco Company to-day declared a dividend of 4 per cent., the same as last year.—Exchange.

ST. MARY'S L.O.L. 1033.

The forty-seventh annual church service in connection with St. Mary's L.O.L. 1033 will be held in St. Mary's Parish Church, Crumlin Road and Cliftonpark Congregational Church, Belfast, on Sunday afternoon. The preacher in St. Mary's Church will be Br. Rev. H. O'Connor, M.B.E., D.G.C.I., and in Cliftonpark Church Rev. W. J. Todd.

APPALLING FIGURES

ROAD ACCIDENT TOLL.

CHALLENGE TO HUMANITY.

TRANSPORT MINISTER'S VIEWS.

In the British House of Commons, Dr. E. L. BURGIN (Minister of Transport), in the debate in committee of supply on the Ministry of Transport vote, said that nobody holding his office could ever be complacent with regard to the total of road accidents which came to his notice as a daily continuous toll.

"It is a melancholy fact," he added, "that in spite of an ever-increasing degree of close attention and a sense of responsibility given to this problem, the aggregate figures of death and injury are appallingly high. Here and there there are encouraging signs, but, time and time again, disappointment is our lot.

"Experience had shown that it was impossible, humanly speaking, to attribute the cause of accidents to any one particular cause. There was much to be gained by the progressive segregation of traffic, but without the whole-hearted co-operation of all road users there would continue to be casualties on a scale and at a rate frightening to the intelligence.

"In my judgment" he added, "there is a challenge to humanity adequately to impress itself with the stupidity and cruelty of allowing these totals to continue."

MORE MOBILE POLICE.

The investigations made by the eight traffic officers appointed at the end of 1936 had confirmed the opinion that the greatest cause of accidents was human error in the form of carelessness or lack of consideration.

Mr. LEACH (Lab., Bradford C.)—No, speed.

Dr. BURGIN—The hon. member must have his own views, but the information before me enables me unhesitatingly to tell the House that the human factor—carelessness and lack of consideration—is the chief cause, and that a little more thought, and a little more care, and down would come our roll of accidents.

He hoped that the appointment of 800 additional mobile police in places like London, Manchester, and Liverpool would lead to an improvement in road manners and road courtesy, with a consequential diminution of road accidents.

With regard to driving tests, 800,000 of the 4,000,000 licence holders had now passed, and the proportion of failures was 37 per cent.—36 per cent. among males and 41 per cent. among women drivers. These tests were going far to establish a high standard of driving among the new entry of drivers to the roads.

REAR LIGHT PROBLEM.

In their investigations the Ministry had found that one cause of accidents was that the red rear light of motor-cars sometimes became obscured, and he had asked the organisations concerned for their views on the suggestion that an additional red reflector should be carried on the off-side, or whether they had any alternative suggestion to make.

The report of the Traffic Advisory Council, with regard to cyclists, was receiving his careful consideration. This report would be available on Monday.

There had been some misconception of the five years' programme in regard to road construction. By the end of the present financial year the total expenditure under the programme would be £34,000,000. The construction of roads for one kind of traffic would require legislation The Government had the matter under consideration. He described Sir Charles Bressey's report as a national best seller. It was a 30 years' development plan, which would act as a guide for the future, and was receiving expert consideration. The programme embodied much that was beyond immediate realisation.

The L.C.C., the City Corporation and other highways authorities concerned would, he was sure, not only welcome the report, but would be anxious to implement the recommendations. In doing so they could count on the whole-hearted support of his department, a support which took the very substantial form of grants from the Road Fund, representing a large part of the cost.

POSSIBLE COST £230,000,000.

In conjunction with the L.C.C., certain of the schemes recommended in the report had been agreed upon as those which should first be adopted, constituting a first and substantial instalment. It was difficult to give the committee an estimate of the probable gross cost for such a 30-year programme, but subject to qualifications and reservations with a large margin for contingency and variations he put the approximate figure at between £160,000,000 and £230,000,000. Within the L.C.C. area, there were 123 miles of improvement at a cost of somewhere between 80 million and 120 million pounds.

"TOO MANY BEACONS."

Mr. HERBERT MORRISON (Lab., Hackney S.) explained that he was responsible as Minister for the abolition of the speed limit in 1931. "I thought it was a wise step then," he said, "and I am not convinced that it is a wrong step now."

He believed that Belisha-beacons had been overdone, and had been irresponsibly scattered about. The present Minister might, without causing too much friction, consider that these beacons should only be placed in positions where they were really useful. The real problem of getting rid of the motorist, who was unsuited for driving, was not going to be solved by the present driving tests.

Captain HUDSON (Parliamentary Secretary, Ministry of Transport) said that committee under the chairmanship of Lord Amulree had been examining the existing law with regard to highways, streets and bridges with a view to codifying the law, with such amendments as they might consider desirable to obtain simplicity, uniformity and preciseness. The committee had made substantial progress, but it was bound to take some time in a task of this magnitude.

The three-bridges scheme — Severn, Humber and Forth bridges—had not been dropped, but was under very active discussion by the Ministry.

The Ministry agreed that the drunken driver was a menace who ought to be kept off the road But statistics did not show that a great proportion of the accidents occurred from alcohol.

A Labour amendment to reduce the vote by £100 was defeated by 115 to 89.

The House rose at 4.8.

THE PAY-SNATCHER.

SIX MONTHS SENTENCE IN BELFAST CASE.

GIRL WAS CHASING HIM

WHEN HE WAS SEIZED BY CIVILIAN.

"If you are not a highway robber in the making you are the polished article, I am sorry that you submitted to my jurisdiction, for I think you should have been dealt with by a Court that has a wider scope."

So said Mr. J. H. Campbell, R.M., to William John Thompson, Isoline Street, Belfast, when he sentenced him to six months' imprisonment for snatching a firm's pay roll (£32) from a girl employe in Rosebery Road, on June 10.

Miss Mae Chesney, of Messrs. H. Morrow and Co., described how Thompson took the money—in a brown paper parcel—from her hand as she walked along the street. She screamed.

Another civilian told how he caught Thompson whom he saw running with Miss Chesney in pursuit.

Mr. B. Campbell, for Thompson, said that his client pleaded guilty. Unfortunately he had been in trouble before, and having associated with bad company had been deported from America. On his return he had only been once convicted four years ago, and since then had resisted the temptation to return to a life of crime. On this occasion—he was out of work—he had taken drink and done this in a moment of aberration.

Defendant's wife said that since his marriage 18 months ago he had been a good, careful husband and tried to keep straight.

Sentencing Thompson, Mr. J. H. Campbell, said that the worst of this class of case was that the punishment fell on those who did not deserve it—in this case the wife.

The streets must be made safe for business men and women going to and fro carrying money.

DERRY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

MEMBERS AND CORPORATION

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

Mr. William M'Carter, president, presided at a meeting of Derry Chamber of Commerce on Friday.

The Finance and General Purposes Committee was re-elected, as was also the Postal and Telephone Committee, with the addition of the name of Mr. R. Neely. The Transport Committee was also re-appointed.

When the question of the appointment of a Ratepayers' Committee was being considered it was stated that valuable work had been done by a committee which had been appointed recently.

Mr. J. G. Magee said it was easy for them to criticise the Corporation, but he would suggest that the members of the committee should "join" the Corporation. He was sure they would be elected and would be a great asset to the city.

The President said Mr. Magee knew that to join the Corporation was not merely a matter of walking into the Guildhall. (Laughter.)

Mr. F. C. Brewster—Even they did join the Corporation we might have to criticise them.

The President—The purpose of the committee is not to criticise. The ratepayers are entitled to have some say in the deliberations of the Corporation. We may or may not have to criticise. As representatives of the ratepayers, they are surely entitled, at any rate, to examine the matters with which the Corporation are dealing.

Mr. James Hamilton—Don't the Corporation represent the ratepayers?

The President—It is very questionable. There are some—a good many—who do not represent the ratepayers.

Mr. F. C. Brewster said it would be a wise policy to keep this committee in existence.

The following committee was appointed:—The President, Messrs. J. Goligher, W. J. Porter, J. M'Veigh, J. N. Brownlow, J. J. Buchanan, S. Dowds, W. Edmiston.

THE TRIGO CUP.

SEMI-FINALS DECIDED AT CELTIC.

STRONG MUTTON DEFEATED

CLONARNEY TOWN WINS BY HEAD.

In the presence of a crowd which was easily the best seen at Celtic Park this season Clonarney Town, the Dublin champion, put up another spectacular performance when getting the better of Strong Mutton in the second semi-final of the Trigo Cup, although the verdict was only a head in his favour.

The Gilford dog failed to break and was led to the bend by Clonarney Town and Publican's Pride. The latter pair ran a shade wide and Strong Mutton, taking this opportunity, cut in on the rails to take a couple of lengths' lead. This was short-lived, however, for Clonarney Town in a few strides drew level.

Racing neck-and-neck to the final bend, with Strong Mutton on the inside, it looked any odds on Mr. P. G. Smyth's good dog winning, but Clonarney Town stuck to his post and, finishing the faster of the two, got up on the line to snatch the verdict by a head in 31.75secs., which was .4secs. slower than that of the previous semi-final winner.

HOOK OFF'S EASY SUCCESS.

Hook Off, the Dundalk representative, gained an easy success in the first semi-final, beating Slightly Potty by seven lengths in 31.74secs., which was an improvement of half a second on his best time in the competition. They all broke in a line, and with the favourite on the inside he took the lead rounding the turn, with Roe Diver following, and Slightly Potty last. At the half-way mark Hook Off was well on the lead, with his rivals all bunched together and, continuing merrily on, won rather easily from Slightly Potty, who followed him home in his previous round heats.

GLASGOW HOOLIGANISM.

FIFTY MEN IN RUNNING FIGHT.

Over 50 men were engaged in a running fight with stones, pieces of iron and other missiles in Baltic Street, near Nuneaton Street, Glasgow, early this morning.

Three of the men who were injured were carried away by numbers of youths before a special force of police arrived on the scene.

Great alarm was created in the district.

ROWING ON THE LAGAN.

CONNOR CUP NEXT SATURDAY.

The Connor Cup Committee met on Friday evening under the chairmanship of Mr. Tom Newman, captain of Belfast Commercial B.C., and made arrangements for the annual races on Saturday next.

Five crews have entered for the Williams Plate and Junior Championship—Methodist College, Belfast B.C., Carrickfergus Amateur Rowing Club, and Belfast Commercial A. and B.

For the Connor Cup and Senior Championship there are three crews—Belfast B.C., Queen's University, and Belfast Commercial.

The entry necessitates seven races in all and the first is timed for 2-45.

The course is from Stranmillis Locks to the Commercial Boat Club house.

Mrs. T. Newman, wife of the captain of the Belfast Commercial Club, will present the trophics at the finish.

COMMERCIAL AT BOYNE.

Belfast Commercial will have three crews at Boyne (Drogheda) Regatta on Thursday next—a junior eight, junior four, and maiden four.

WORKMAN'S CLAIM SETTLED

L M S ACTED "VERY GENEROUSLY."

A settlement was announced in a workman's compensation claim which came before Mr. M. D. Begley, K.C., Deputy Recorder, at Coleraine Quarter Sessions to-day.

The applicant was David Armstrong, Cloyfin, and the respondents the L M S Railway Co. Mr. W. M. Miller (instructed by Messrs. O'Rorke, M'Donald & Tweed, Larne), appeared for the company, and Mr. W. W. B. Topping (instructed by Messrs. Wray & Baxter) was for the applicant.

Mr. Miller explained that Armstrong was injured in 1911 while working as a shunter on the railway, losing the sight of his left eye and the hearing of his right ear. He was paid compensation of 10s a week for some time, and was then taken back into the employment of the company, where he remained until he reached the retiring age of 65. He applied for compensation, and was paid at the rate of 6s a week in respect of partial incapacity. The company had now agreed to pay Armstrong a lump sum of £100, with £12 12s costs.

Mr. Topping said the company had met Armstrong very fairly. He had been in their employment since 1896.

Approving the settlement, the Deputy Recorder said the company had dealt very generously with the applicant.

GOOD ENTRIES FOR GALWAY.

FORTY-TWO ENGAGED IN BIG 'CHASE.

Forty-two entries have been made in the £1,000 Galway Handicap Steeplechase (two miles five furlongs 60 yards), to be run on the first day of the Galway meeting, July 27 and 28.

Included amongst those engaged are Mr. H. C. M'Nally's Royal Daniel (who was narrowly beaten in the Liverpool Grand National, and won the Lancashire Handicap Steeplechase at Manchester subsequently), Sir Alexander Maguire's Workman (who was third in the Liverpool Grand National), and Mr. T. A. O'Gorman's Clare County (winner of this year's Irish Grand National).

Amongst English owners supporting the steeplechase are Mr. J. L. Bailes, who has entered Ahanesk, and Mr. Nelson Dixon, who has entered Lucky Patch and Pageno.

The £400 Galway Hurdle Handicap (two miles), which will be run on the second day of the meeting, has obtained fifty entries.

LE MANS GRAND PRIX

150 M.P.H. SALOON CAR.

DRIVER IN AIRCRAFT HARNESS.

LE MANS, Friday.—Many battles have been fought without quarter for the Grand Prix d'Endurance at Le Mans, the most famous long-distance race in the world. The struggle, which starts to-morrow afternoon, promises, however, to be the fiercest since Sir Henry Birkin and his Bentley harried Caracciola's big Mercedes to its destruction in 1930, wires the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" correspondent.

Of the dozen big cars engaged, at least four have proved in practice their durability to lap the course, with its dangerous corners, at 100 miles an hour. Three are barely disguised Grand Prix racers, though to-morrow's event is supposed to be limited to catalogued sports cars.

The fourth is more like the record breakers of Eyston or Cobb than a standard car in touring trim. It is a scarlet Alfa Romeo with streamline two-seater saloon body fantastically shaped.

The roof is so low that its driver, Somner, a tall man, has only an inch clearance above his head. He cannot wear a helmet, but drives in aircraft harness.

This car is probably fastest of all. It has a three-litre eight-cylinder engine with two super-chargers. Somner expects that on the three-mile straight he will reach 150 miles an hour.

All the fast cars are French or Italian. The rivalry is intense, especially between the French teams. The first hours of the race will see some desperate cuts and thrusts.

DISMISSED AIRCRAFTMAN.

ANOTHER QUESTION IN PARLIAMENT

The Air Minister is to be asked by Mr. Sorensen (Lab., Leyton W.) in the British Commons on Wednesday—"Whether in view of the recent dismissal of an aircraftman subsequent to his conviction for cruelty to a child it is the practice always to insist on dismissal in cases of such proven cruelty; whether there are similar cases on record; whether opportunity of re-entistment is given after an appropriate period of expiation, and whether the regulation involving dismissal for proven cases of injurious treatment of children applies also in time of war."

BOWLING.

PRIVATE GREENS PAIRS.

At Larne on Friday evening F. Greer, jun., and Tom Lemon (skip) defeated W. M'Kenzie and Dick Minnis (skip) by 27-15.

In the I.B.A. single-handed competition J. Wilkin (Castleton) beat J. M'Clelland (Bangor) by 21-7.

At Ballymena on Friday evening Ballymena B team defeated Mossley B by six shots in the second round of the Private Greens League Junior Cup. Skips and rink scores:—Ballymena B—J. Cathcart 17, W. Coe 20, D. B. Elliott 20, C. M'Cartney 21—78; Mossley B—G. Perry 23, J. B. Neely 14, Jas. Friar 21, D. Magowan 14—72.

GLASGOW DOG RACE SCENE.

FORTY MINUTES' DELAY.

Remarkable scenes caused by a dispute over a race, took place on Friday night at Firhill Greyhound Race Track, Glasgow.

In the sixth race one of the dogs is alleged to have been injured while emerging from the trap and the crowd immediately took part in a noisy demonstration outside the judges' box.

When the race was held to be valid a man jumped the railing and threw his cap at the dogs as they ran past and this brought racing to a standstill.

Police were called in to deal with the objectors and one man was arrested.

Racing was resumed after 40 minutes' delay

EYE-GRAFTING OPERATION.

GIRL'S SIGHT RESTORED.

A 23-year-old Bath shop assistant, who was the subject of a remarkable eye-grafting operation, described in the "British Medical Journal," is to undergo a similar operation to her other eye.

The first operation was performed by Mr. T. H. S. Tizzard, honorary surgeon at the Bath Eye Infirmary. He took the cornea from the eye of a girl injured by an arrow, and grafted it on to the eye of Miss Alloway.

When the bandages were removed a fortnight later it was found that Miss Alloway's sight was completely restored. Previously her vision was limited to movements of the hand. It is believed that the operation has achieved the best visual result so far reported in cases of this kind. Unfortunately inflammation had spread to Miss Alloway's other eye, and a second operation will take place within a few days.

PREPARATIONS FOR BIG FIGHT

AT YANKEE STADIUM.

200 MEN AT WORK.

BOXERS HAVE PEACEFUL DAY.

NEW YORK, Saturday.—For the next four days more than 200 workmen will be engaged at the Yankee Stadium here making preparations to accommodate the huge crowd expected to attend Wednesday's world heavyweight championship fight between Joe Louis, the holder, and Max Schmeling.

Four hundred lorry-loads of material and equipment will be carried to the vast arena.

Louis is still a firm favourite, although the odds have dropped slightly to 8-5 on. The chief reasons for the confidence of his followers are that he is the better two-fisted fighter, and that his left hand, even when he is jabbing with it, is an offensive weapon; that he is a better boxer than Schmeling, and can therefore afford to let the challenger take the offensive; that he is the better finisher, and is reasonably sure to win if the fight goes the full 15 rounds; and that, if he finds the range, he can win quickly.

It is also in the champion's favour that he is fired by a strong personal motive—to avenge his defeat at the hands of the German two years ago.

The champion spent yesterday quietly at his camp at Pompton Lakes, and apart from his usual six miles walk, he did little work. In the afternoon, accompanied by a bodyguard, he went motoring around Northern New Jersey.

TRAINING FINISHES ON MONDAY.

Louis is expected to have boxing practice to-day, and will wind up his training over the week-end.

Schmeling, who is training at Speculator, New York State, also took things easily, and his only strenuous work was his customary ten miles road "jaunt." He, too, will put in a few rounds of boxing to-day, and on Monday will conclude the serious part of his preparation

Schmeling is in perfect physical condition, and seems to be the type of athlete, more common in European countries than in America, who reaches his best in his early thirties. The German is now 32, eight years older than his opponent. Apart from his personal feelings on the matter, he is fighting to regain the title for the honour of his country.

His right-hand punch is world famous. He is a cautious, methodical boxer, who takes few chances, and prefers to wait.

Boxing enthusiasts in New York are at fever pitch over the fight, which has been the most widely discussed since Gene Tunney retired ten years ago.

Mike Jacobs, the promoter, states that the advance sales has reached 550,000 dollars—about £110,000. This should ensure a substantial profit, despite overhead costs, amounting to at least 150,000 dollars—about £30,000—excluding the percentage of the receipts to Louis and Schmeling.

There is still every chance of a million dollar gate.—Press Association Foreign Special.

ANOTHER WORLD TITLE FIGHT?

NEW YORK, Saturday.—The winner of the Andre Lenglet—Leroy Haynes fight in Paris next week is widely felt here to be a very suitable next opponent for Joe Louis or Max Schmeling after their world title fight next week. It is understood that Sydney Hulls, the Harringay promoter, is trying to arrange a match between Lenglet and the winner of the Ben Foord-Eddie Phillips fight on Tuesday.

WOUTERS BEATEN IN ITALY.

MILAN, Saturday.—Felix Wouters, who was I.B.U. world and European welterweight champion before the Rome conference, lost on points here to Carlo Orlandi, the Italian champion, in a six rounds bout.

BOXING "BLACK SPOTS."

LESS THAN £1 FOR HARD FIGHT.

An official of the National Boxing Association commenting on the decision of the Southern Area Council of the Board of Control, that promoters in the south shall pay 25s to the winner and £1 to the loser of six round contests, said that the campaign of the association had met with partial success.

"Now the association wishes this small minimum rate to be enforced not only in London, but throughout the country where there are many 'black spots,' where less than £1 is paid for a hard fight."

THE MARKETING OF EGGS.

WHOLESALE DEALERS' PRICES.

The Ministry of Agriculture has determined that the following shall be the prices payable by licensed wholesale dealers for eggs delivered during the week ending on Saturday, June 18, 1938.

HEN EGGS.

For hen eggs purchased by a licensed wholesale dealer from a producer, 8d per lb. Where the hen eggs were delivered by the producer to the packing store of a licensed wholesale dealer of Class A an additional halfpenny per lb. shall be paid.

For hen eggs purchased by a licensed wholesale dealer of Class A from a licensed wholesale dealer of Class B, 3 5-16d per lb.

Deductions:—"Seconds," "soiled eggs," ½d per egg; rejects, 1d per egg.

DUCK EGGS.

For duck eggs purchased by a licensed wholesale dealer from a producer, 9d per dozen. Where the duck eggs were delivered by the producer to the packing store of a licensed wholesale dealer of Class A an additional three-farthings shall be paid for each complete dozen so delivered.

Deductions—Rejects ½d per egg.

GRANDMOTHER'S GOLF TITLE.

Mrs. Beard, Ferndown (Dorset), who is 56 and a grandmother, secured her third golf title this year at Long Ashton, Bristol, yesterday by winning the South-Western Women's Championship. In an exciting 36- holes' final she beat Miss K. Roskrow, Cornish title-holder, by one hole.

Mrs. Beard had previously won the Dorset Women's Championship.

Ascot Week.

IT has been a glorious Ascot week! Those who like to make of the races an opportunity for a dress parade, certainly had their chance—and they took it. The dresses may not have been as exaggerated as in the past few years, but they were all very attractive, and the hats—some a hat but by courtesy—were of every possible kind. A first glance at the fashions made one think that we are going back to pre-war days. The Duchess of Kent, for example, wore a frankly Edwardian hat of black velvet trimmed with black ostrich feathers.

Those who remember Queen Alexandra say that the Duchess resembles her more and more, and at Ascot the resemblance was particularly striking. Hats large, hats small were worn; in some cases a few strands of velvet ribbon sufficed for headwear. Jewels were plentiful. The length of the frocks varied. Picture frocks were worn by several, but for the most part the dresses were of calf length. British materials were chosen to a large extent.

The scheme to popularise British materials for laces was helped a great deal by Lady Maureen Stanley, and the Queen wore a frock of biscuit-coloured Nottingham lace which she had chosen at a fabric party organised by Lady Maureen. This lace gown was very long, and mounted on very pale pink satin; but, on the other hand, both the Duchess of Gloucester and the Duchess of Kent wore short frocks, the former one of silk printed in shades of blue, pale yellow, red and green; while the Duchess of Kent's dress was of white matt crepe.

Studio Party.

The Marchioness of Dufferin's studio party in aid of the Invalid Kitchens of London was well attended. Prior to the dance she gave a dinner party in the Studios. Amongst those who took tickets for the dance were Lady Dufferin's mother-in-law, Brenda Marchioness of Dufferin; her sister-in-law, Lady Veronica Hornby; Lord Londonderry, Lady O'Neill, and Lady Maureen Stanley. Many of the guests came straight on to the party from Ascot, and a number of the Ascot hostesses brought their house parties. The Duke and Duchess of Kent came fairly late in the evening with the Duchess of Buccleuch and Lord Hugh Percy. It was a perfect night, and, naturally, many people preferred to stroll about the floodlit garden to remaining indoors.

The Linen Queen.

THE Linen Queen, Miss Maude Clarke, made a tremendous impression on everybody in Brighton this week. Her lovely natural colouring, her unsophisticated ways, her pleasantness were all remarked upon, and at the formal lunch at which important speeches were made by the civic heads of Brighton, Major Herdman, and Mr. Milne Barbour, many tributes were paid to her. It was the first time Maude had been away from Ireland, and the ways of English people on at least one occasion, seemed strange to her.

She saw a man pushing a perambulator, and she burst into fits of laughter. Apparently in Ulster men do not push the pram. There, looking after the baby, is entirely the woman's affair, and so accustomed to that was she that she could scarcely reconcile the sight of a man taking his share in the bringing up of baby with her ideas of what is normal and fitting. The frocks, all of linen of course, and the hats and gloves which she brought with her were very attractive, and I heard one lady who lives in Paris say she had never seen anything so good and so pretty as the linen lace gloves which Maude had.

Praise from France on such matters is surely praise indeed. The Linen Queen has had a very busy week in Brighton. She attended dances and distributed prizes of linen handkerchiefs. What is very important is that wherever she went she made friends, and, I am sure, proved herself an extremely good ambassadress on behalf not only of Ulster linen, but of Ulster in all its aspects.

Women's Freedom League.

THE Women's Freedom League were very disappointed that, owing to illness, Mrs. Despard was not able to cross from Ireland for the party they gave to celebrate her 94th birthday. They were not, however, more disappointed than Mrs. Despard herself, and up to the last moment they thought she would defy doctor's orders and cross. They held the party without her, made speeches, and sent her a telegram of good wishes. The party, which was the biggest the Women's Freedom League had ever given, was attended by men and women prominent in the social and public life of the nation.

ULSTER'S LINEN AMBASSADRESS

Fine Weather Ailments by The Matron

EAGERLY awaited though the summer is by the great majority of people, in a certain section of the community the approach of this delightful season arouses concern and even apprehension.

This section is formed by those individuals who happen to be subject to attacks of that peculiar malady known as hay-fever.

Similar to this harassing complaint, though attended by symptoms of a more severe and injurious nature, is asthma. Both illnesses are identical in two characteristics. They occur periodically, and are only contracted by persons constitutionally prone to them.

This predisposition is sometimes apparent from an early age. In most cases, however, it develops gradually and imperceptibly, eventuating in sudden manifestation. A person with no suspicion that he possesses asthmatic tendencies may, at any time, begin to experience periodical seizures of asthma or hay-fever.

Hay-fever resembles a severe cold, being accompanied by copious discharges from the nose, violent sneezing, headache and feverishness. Often acutely uncomfortable, it may also prove considerably hampering to a person's ordinary activities.

Asthma, actually caused by a contraction of the bronchial muscles, is a particularly distressing complaint. The sufferer is apt to be seized with paroxysms, varying considerably in duration, in which he experiences a constricted feeling across the chest and has to struggle for breath. This difficulty in respiration, apart from the unpleasant stifling sensation, constitutes a danger through the strain it imposes on the lungs.

A propensity to asthmatic ailments, however, does not materialise in illness unless the person possessing it comes into contact with some aggravating factor. Such stimulants, unfortunately, are very prevalent, and exist in various forms. A further complication is that different people are susceptible to different stimulants. Hence, while it is possible for a sufferer from asthma to escape its recurrent attacks by avoiding the influence which collaborates with his sensitivity to the disease, it is sometimes difficult to discover what, in his case, the particular influence is.

For instance, attacks of asthma are frequently brought on by the consumption of some article of diet containing proteins. These protein foods are quite common, the principal ones being fish, eggs and milk, though there are many others, such as oysters or strawberries.

It is quite simple for a person to eliminate from his diet any food which he finds habitually excites a spasm of asthma. Other causes, however, are less easy to remove.

A very frequent one is the inhalation of some irritant from the air, such as scraps of fluff from an animal's hair, or, more commonly, flower pollen. The latter explains why outbreaks of hay-fever generally occur in summer.

COOKING becomes a DELIGHT with VERITAS PERFECTION and QUICK-MEAL oil COOKERS

Wonderful cooking can be done on these stoves with very little expenditure on oil. No smoke or odour is produced. The streamline design makes it very easy to clean and eliminates corners which trap dirt and grease. Embodied in these ovens are bakers' arch tops which ensure perfect results with small or large bakings.

WOMAN HELD IN U.S. SPY RING CASE

ON RETURN FROM GERMANY.

QUESTIONED AT ELLIS ISLAND.

NEW YORK, Saturday.—Mrs. Catherine Moog, mother of Mrs. Kate Moog Busch, one of the witnesses in the spy investigations, was detained by immigration and Customs officials on her arrival here to-day in the German liner Hamburg from a visit to Germany.

She was held temporarily on Ellis Island while the officials qustioned her in connection with the case.

Mrs. Busch, a beautiful blonde nurse, is a friend of Dr. Ignatz Griebl, who left suddenly for Germany in the liner Bremen on May 10 after G-men had begun inquiries into the "spy ring."

He was regarded as one of the Government's most important witnesses. —Reuter.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

MISSIONARIES "WELCOME HOME."

There was a large attendance at Great Victoria Street Baptist Church on Friday evening when a "welcome home" re-union was given to Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Bennett, the Baptist Union of Ireland missionaries in the Argentine (South America).

Mr. P. Ewing, president, occupied the chair. He said they were pleased to see Mr. Bennett after six years' hard work, and they gave the old Irish welcome to Mrs. Bennett, who had come to Ireland for the first time. (Applause.)

Mr. F. H. Forbes, secretary, Baptist Union; Pastor J. Ravey, chairman, Foreign Mission Society; Mrs. M'Kelvey, Women's Missionary Auxiliary; Pastor D. Henderson, Pastor J. Shields (Kilkeel), Mr. A. W. Tweedall and Mr. Robert Arnold also joined in the welcome.

Regret was expressed that the hon. secretary of the Foreign Mission Society, Pastor F. W. Gracey, of Cork, was prevented through illness from attending, and a message wishing him a speedy recovery was forwarded.

Mr. Bennett returned thanks on behalf of his wife and himself. He gave a short account of his work as the only Protestant missionary in his district, and said he rejoiced in the fact that Christian churches were being formed in the Argentine.

ROYAL MATERNITY HOSPITAL.

At the monthly meeting of the Committee of Management it was reported that there had been during the month of May 153 patients admitted and 129 babies born. The highest number of beds occupied was 96.

The following donations were received for which the committee returned thanks:—British League of Unitarian Women, Belfast (1st House) Branch, £1 1s; Miss E. F. Wilson, 5s 1d; The Services' Club, proceeds of collection at concert, £3 10s 3d; Mrs. M. L. Trueman, £1; Mr. R. S. Lepper, 10s; Dr. D. A. Chart, £1. Per the Ladies' Guild—Mrs. M. Maxton, 10s; Mrs. Harpur, £1 1s; Mrs. D. Wilson, £1 10s; A Friend, per Mrs J. A. Mackie, 7s 6d. Thanksgiving Fund—Lady M'Connell, £7 17s; Miss A. M'Mullen, £3 0s 6d; Mrs. J. M'Ildowie, £6 10s 5d.

MASS POISONING.

EPIDEMICS IN RED ARMY.

"WRECKERS" AND SPIES BLAMED.

MOSCOW, Saturday. — Spies and "wreckers" are accused of causing wholesale ptomaine poisoning and epidemics among Red Army units in an article published in "Krasnaya Zvezda" (Red Star), organ of the Red Army.

The article states that recurrent outbreaks of intestinal diseases in various White Russian garrisons last winter were traced to "Trotskyist and Bukharinist enemies of the people" who worked in the Medical Corps and Commissary Departments, and who deliberately fed the soldiers with spoiled tinned goods.

In one Ukrainian regiment metal shavings were served in the chopped meat for the officers' mess, and in others ground glass was placed in the mashed potatoes. There were also instances when kerosene, acetic acid, and contaminated water were poured into the soup.

POISONED UTENSILS.

In a Far Eastern regiment lead poisoning was caused by using pots and kettles made of an alloy with a high lead content. Elsewhere poisonous mushrooms, strychnine, and arsenic were put into the stew, the article states.

In the summer of 1937 spies who worked in the chemical defence organisation, under the pretext of exterminating cockroaches, sprayed the cooking utensils in the kitchen of a Leningrad regiment with deadly poison.

In the North Caucasus, the writer says, the stock for slaughter were inoculated with deadly bacteria, causing several deaths among those who ate the flesh.

The appearance of the article coincides with the publication of a speech by Khozin, the new commander of the Leningrad military district, in which he deals with the purge inside the army, and says in part that recent experiences "have taught us that we must be prepared not only to ward off chemical attacks, but bacteriological warfare as well."—Reuter.

OLYMPIC OARSMAN ENGAGED.

Mr. Jack Beresford, the Olympic oarsman, is to marry, according to an announcement to-day.

His bride-to-be is Miss Beryl Ruth Winter, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Winter, of Hove, Sussex.

Mr. Beresford in over twenty years of international sculling and rowing has won almost every prize that amateur sculling has to offer.

He met Miss Winter on holiday at Torquay.

CAROL S EX-QUEEN IN LONDON

ON VISIT WITH HER SISTER.

OTHER NOTABLE ARRIVALS.

Princess Helen of Greece, former wife of King Carol of Roumania, who arrived in London on Friday night, is, it is understood, in London on a holiday visit.

Accompanied by her sister, Princess Irene, she is maintaining strict privacy.

The Royal sisters are occupying a large suite of rooms at a hotel overlooking Hyde Park.

They went shopping in Regent Street this morning.

Sir Reginald Hoare, British Minister in Roumania, arrived in London to-day for his annual leave.

M. George Tatarescu, former Prime Minister of Roumania, who is now King Carol's close adviser, will also arrive in London to-day.

Although the Roumanian Legation in London is specifically informed from Bukharest that his visit will be of a private nature, the Press Association understands that M. Tatarescu will meet Lord Halifax, the Foreign Secretary, and possibly other members of the Government.

As a member of the Crown Council, M. Tatarescu still holds an official position in the Roumanian Government.

"You may be quite sure that these visits have no connection whatever with any possible reunion between Princess Helen and King Carol. It is pure coincidence that they are all happening at the same time," said a Legation official.

THE CZAR'S NIECE A BRIDE.

TO WED RUSSIAN COUNT.

The Grand Duchess Xenia, sister of the late Czar of Russia, will attend the wedding in the Russian Chapel in Rome to-morrow of Princess Irene Yussoupoff, the Czar's niece, to Count Nicholas Tseremetieff. The Queen of Italy is expected to attend.

The bride is a daughter of Prince Yussoupouff, in whose house in St. Petersburg an attempt was made to assassinate Rasputin, the Siberian monk, during the war.

The Grand Duchess Xenia has been staying at Windsor.

ST. ANNE'S EXCURSION.

The annual excursion of St. Anne's (Belfast) Unionist Municipal Association, which took place this afternoon, was a circular tour embracing some of the prettiest scenery in Co. Antrim.

Five buses were required to accommodate the party of over 200, which left the Unionist Headquarters, Glengall Street, Belfast, at 3 o'clock for Woodburn Demesne en route to Larne for tea at the Crown Hotel.

The party was accompanied by Mr. E. S. Warnock, K.C., M.P., for the St. Anne's Division, and Mrs. Warnock; Alderman Mrs. Coleman, Councillor Fred Lavery and Councillor Cecil M'Kee.

The arrangements were admirably carried out by Mr. R. Rankin, hon. secretary of the Association.

FATHER RESCUES HIS BOY.

DOG PULLED HIM INTO WATER.

A plucky rescue was witnessed at Donegal Pier on Thursday evening, when Sergeant M. J. Hughes saved his son, Gregory, who is aged eight years, from drowning.

Holding it by the collar, the lad was playing with a dog, and when the animal jumped into the water it took Hughes along with it.

Sergeant Hughes was quickly on the scene, and divesting himself of his tunic, he plunged into the sea, and was not a moment too soon in rescuing the boy, who was just sinking when his father caught him. It is believed that the boy held on to the dog's strap, and this enabled him to keep afloat for a longer period than he otherwise would have.

MARKHAM COLLIERY DISASTER FUND.

BELFAST MIDNIGHT REVUE

BY THE 37TH BOY SCOUTS.

In the Orange Hall, Albertbridge Road, Belfast, on Friday night a midnight revue was given by the members of the 37th Group of Boy Scouts from East Belfast.

The main idea of the revue was to aid the funds being raised by the Mayor of Chesterfield to provide support for the relatives of the men who lost their lives in the terrible pit tragedy some time ago, and when the idea was taken up by Group Scoutmaster Wm. Hollywood, M. of M., he had at once the support of his lads and the co-operation of the trustees of the Group.

At the opening, the Chairman of Trustees (Mr. S. Johnston), thanked the large assembly for their support in such a good object, and he also thanked Mr. and Mrs. N. Goorwitch for their help and presence that night along with their friends. (Applause.)

The hon. secretary of the Group (Mr. J. Ritchie), read a letter of appreciation from Sir Crawford M'Cullagh, Bart., Lord Mayor, warmly commending the Scouts on their initiative and expressing the hope that their efforts would prove successful in such a splendid cause.

Mr. J. H. Norritt, District Commissioner for Scouts for East Belfast, also expressed the thanks of the Scout movement in Belfast to the 37th Scouters and boys for their good turn, and assured those present that in every good work, Scoutmaster Hollywood and the 37th were ever to the fore.

The programme was splendidly performed, the various scenas, sketches, pageant movements, and vocal items all being fully enjoyed. Billy Hollywood, as he is popularly known, was to the fore in every item, a real mountain of fun and good humour, and of irresistible charm in his innumerable character sketches.

The music was excellently carried out by a happy band of friends, consisting of Miss Stewart, Mr. Donnelly and Mr. Evans; whilst the music prior to the show was capably performed by the St. Patrick's Accordion Band. The following gentlemen acted as stewards:—Messrs. S. Reid, F. Norton, H. Towe, W. Bell and L. Watters. Amongst those present were Assistant D.C. D. M. Newburn, Major J. M. Henderson, Messrs. Norman Nesbitt, D.R.L.; Wm. Johnston, LL.B. (North District) and many other scouting friends. A feature of the evening was the receipt of a telegram of good wishes received from Scoutmaster Arthur Willet of the 1st Llandudno Troop, North Wales, an old friend of the 37th whilst camping in his district.

Sales of sweets and chocolates, ice cream, etc., helped to augment the funds and it is anticipated a very substantial sum will be realised for the Colliery Fund as a result of the effort.

THANKS FROM R.U.C.

B.B. DISPLAY AT THE RECENT TATTOO.

BATTALION SWIMMING CUP.

LOOKING FORWARD TO GANAWAY.

The following letter, received at Belfast Battalion Headquarters this week from the organiser of the recent R.U.C. tattoo, pays generous tribute to the success of the physical training display given by the battalion. We are glad that it particularly mentions 55th Old Boys' Band, as there is not any doubt that the efficiency of this combination contributed a great deal to the success of its item:—

"Will you please convey to your instructor, your band, and the boys my appreciation of the excellent display given by the Boys' Brigade at our tattoo. The display was a very fine one from every point of view. The boys marched well, their dressing was good, their exercises performed efficiently, and their march out very well done indeed.

"The band of the 55th Old Boys deserves special praise for their music, and for their timing of the exercises, which is a most difficult thing. On the whole the display was equal in popularity to any display given by the military or police, and was worthy of the best traditions of the Boys' Brigade. I look forward to having the Boys' Brigade again in a future tattoo.—Yours sincerely —(Signed) T. D. Morrison."

Once again the Battalion Swimming Trophy has been won by 66th Belfast Company. This trophy is awarded for a competition that extends throughout the entire session, points being awarded for every certificate and badge won, and also for successes at the battalion gala. At the end of the session these points are balanced out on the strength of the company, so that a very large company has not any advantage over a smaller one, points per member being the deciding factor.

66th Belfast is a particularly keen swimming and life-saving company, and this is the fourth year in succession they have won this compeition. 39th Belfast managed to give 66th a closer run than they have had for some time, and 82nd Belfast was a good third. Marks were as follows:—66th Belfast, 268 points; 39th Belfast, 202 points; 82nd Belfast, 182 points.

THE ANNUAL CAMP.

"I wish it was this Friday we were going." So said a member of one of our companies on Sunday morning last when paying an instalment on his camp charge. This wish, although possibly not expressed, will be echoed in the hearts of hundreds of other boys to whom the battalion camp is undoubtedly the great event of their lives. The Belfast Battalion Camp is probably the best-known throughout the Brigade. There are few people that speak of "the Belfast Battalion Camp at Ganaway, near Millisle, Co. Down." With most people it is sufficient merely to say "Ganaway."

Ganaway is more than a camp site, it is an institution. Few boys speak of going to camp; they say they are going to Ganaway. We have often spoken of the Belfast Battalion putting Ganaway "on the map," but now Ganaway has literally put the Belfast Battalion on the map. The latest issue one-inch ordnance survey map of Belfast shows the Ards Peninsula, and on it is clearly marked, "Camp Ground, B.B." We wonder if there is any other case of the Boys' Brigade being "on the map" in the literal sense?

There are a few changes in the camp staff this year, but that camping veteran, Mr. Dorward, will again be in command and will be assisted again by Mr. Harry Fair and Mr. S. J. Boyd, as major and adjutant respectively. This is a team that has been well proved in past years, and in which we have the utmost confidence.

STAFF CHANGES.

Mr. Jack Wilton is unable to act as quartermaster this year. It would not be easy to calculate the service that Mr. Wilton has given the battalion camp in that and other capacities, and there was real regret when it was learned he could not act for this year.

The battalion has been fortunate in securing as his successor Mr. Malcolm M'Kibbin, who is admirably fitted for this post. Many years ago Mr. M'Kibbin's late father was one of the stalwarts of the battalion. He was a very keen camper, and in his day served as quartermaster at the battalion camp. It is fitting that his son should follow in his footsteps. Mr. M'Kibbin has special training that peculiarly fits him for this position, and has been a Ganaway camper for many years.

Another important new appointment is that of sports officer, a post that will be filled by Rev. J. W. Johnston, M.A., chaplain 29th Belfast Company. Mr. Johnston is a very versatile person. His first introduction to Ganaway was as speaker at the Sunday evening drumhead service, when he gave a thrilling address that will not soon be forgotten. Not long after this he was found with a sledge driving in heavy pegs, and it was soon seen that he was, to use a popular country phrase, "a bully worker." His present position follows the great interest taken by him in the sports side of camp.

This year's transport officer will be Mr. W. Addis, lieutenant 2nd Belfast Company, also a camper of long experience, and one who has a very strong sense of duty. His department is a most important one, and is in excellent hands. It is not yet possible to say what this year's figures will be, but there is little doubt that there will be a decided increase over last year.

GREETINGS.

Greetings have been received from Mr. A. E. Ferguson, former captain of the 146th Glasgow Company Boys' Brigade, who is now in Insein, Burmah, India. Mr. Ferguson for several years camped with the Belfast Battalion at Ganaway and made a host of friends. He wishes to be remembered to his many Ulster B.B. acquaintances, and wishes for the 1938 camp good weather, record numbers and every success. Through the "Belfast Telegraph" we reciprocate the hearty greetings to our good friend overseas.

GERMANY'S LAPSE.

WHILE there is every desire in this country to make allowances for the difficulties with which the present Government of Germany has been confronted and the difference between the prevailing attitude of the people of that country towards questions of to-day and that taken by ourselves, there are aspects of the State's policy there which are wholly repugnant to our ideals of justice and fair play. The attempt to make the State the supreme authority over the Churches, even at the cost of keeping men like Pastor Niemoeller in prison for indefinite periods, has been strongly reprobated here by people of all religious beliefs, but still worse is the treatment accorded to Jews on racial grounds. Herr Adolf Hitler from the earliest days of opening his campaign for "National Socialism" made anti-Semitism a plank in his platform. This, which is to us the least understandable part of the Nazi programme, has been, as it seems, vociferously endorsed by a large number of the fanatical followers of the Fuhrer. The belief that no people not of true "Aryan" race should be permitted to live on German soil except on sufferance has been sedulously promulgated. Scientists tell us that in the modern world "racial purity" is virtually non-existent. The modern German, in fact, is known to be a mixture of the original Teuton with Celtic, Slav, and other elements.

Based though it evidently is on a fiction, the glorification of racial pre-eminence is carried to extremes in Germany at the present time. The worst feature about it has been the oppression which has befallen the Jewish citizens of Germany, many of whom gave good service during the war, and have otherwise proved their loyalty to the country in which they live. Their treatment can only be described as persecution. They are interfered with to an intolerable extent in the exercise of their particular professions or trades. Patients of Jewish physicians and clients of Jewish lawyers are compelled by intimidation to have recourse to someone else. If picture-houses or restaurants happen to be owned or managed by Jews, people making use of them are threatened or assaulted, while no protection is given by the authorities. At the same time, it seems that every possible obstacle is put in the way of Jews desiring to leave Germany. At any rate, in most countries in Europe to-day the spirit of rigid exclusiveness prevails to such a degree that the immigrant is not welcome and a fugitive has little hope of finding a refuge in any of them. A sinister development of the agitation has been the wholesale number of arrests of persons, mostly Jews, in Berlin during the past few days. It is asserted that these arrests are mainly of a protective nature to secure the safety of those concerned against possible attacks by rioters, but this seems scarcely credible. The world is confronted with a twentieth century reversion to the spirit of the Middle Ages, which is especially remarkable in the case of a country where the level of intelligence is high, and educational opportunities are widely extended among the people. We can only look on these recent developments as part of the amazing transformation which has taken place in the world since the Great War and hope that they may prove to be a mere temporary phenomenon to be regretted in days to come when the German nation returns to a more rational and sober frame of mind.

Thoughts for the Times

PLAYING THE GAME

by

Dr. A. D. Belden

ALL Britain has been deeply stirred by the recent Test Match, and there is a general feeling that the reputation of British sport had been magnificently upheld, not by the English side alone, but also by the Australians. Don Bradman is well suited in his Christian name, whether it be taken as short for Donald—which means leader, or whether it be interpreted in its Spanish usage. He is "Don" Bradman indeed, a Lord of the Willow.

There is nothing of which we may be more proud as a people than of that fine chivalry, which is known in common speech as the sporting spirit, or the spirit of the game. It epitomises the noblest qualities of which the human soul is capable, courage, endurance, enthusiasm, skill, and a sublime selflessness.

For the true sportsman the team is always more than the man; the game is always more than the prize, and the unbeaten spirit is always more than victory. One of the finest stories in English sport is that of a famous sculler who, in a critical contest with an overseas opponent on the River Thames, was winning handsomely. Suddenly his opponent's craft upset and tipped its occupant into the water. The Englishman at once shipped his scull and waited until the other man had recovered himself. They then renewed the race, and after a strenuous contest, the other man won. The Englishman, however, evidently felt that it was better to lose the race than to lose chivalry.

IN these days when we hear so often that chivalry is dead, and when certainly there seem many indications that manners are at a discount, it is good to feel that the English character still rings true in this realm, at least, for there is always the possibility of that fine spirit becoming contagious to the rest of life.

Long years ago there stood in the market-place of an Eastern city a Man Who was watching the children at play. As He looked some of the children grew hot, tired and cross and began to sulk, crying, "I shan't play any more." The others good-naturedly tried to change the game, hoping to awaken keener interest. "Let's play at weddings," they cried; and they took hold of sticks and used them for flutes. Very patiently they blew away, calling upon the others to dance. It was of no use, however, the children only grew more sulky. But the others did not give up.

"Very well, then," they said, "let's play at funerals instead." And they changed their fluting and piping for the low moaning of the Eastern mourner, but still the surly ones would not join in. The man turned away sadly. "How like these children," He said, "are the grown-up folk. There is no pleasing them. John the Baptist came fasting, and I come 'eating and drinking.' He was like a funeral; I am more like a bridegroom. Yet the people will not be pleased; they will not play the game."

* * *

THE spirit of the game comes very close to the Spirit of Christ. Whenever we truly conquer self we give Him victory within ourselves, and in the last resort it is only this spirit that makes life really worth while, that enables us not only to play, but to enjoy the greatest game of all.

One of the finest cricket stories I know is that of an English County cricketer who gave his boy a most careful training in the game and who was unfortunately stricken with blindness before his lad came to his true proficiency, so that the father never saw the boy play. Just before the boy was due to play in a very big match, his father died. Everybody thought the son would cancel himself out of the match.

To their surprise, however, the son turned up to play, eager for the game, and the captain said to him, "We hardly expected you!" But the boy replied with a thrill in his voice, "Don't you understand, this will be the first match in which my father will see me play?"

There is a story that carries the spirit of the game over into that Greater Life which we all have to face at last, and where there will be, perhaps, still greater games to be played and won.

On the eve of the 400th anniversary of the Open Bible this article describes

An Ulster Cathedral's Bible Treasures

WHERE in Ireland to-day is the oldest printed Bible? Such a question is rendered pertinent by the fact that tomorrow is Bible Sunday. Doubtless there would be many claimants to the title in this year when the fourth centenary of the Open Bible in the English Reformed Churches is being so widely celebrated. Yet the claims of either of two Bibles housed in the Lisburn Cathedral would take some beating. Both are of the seventeenth century, with one printed in English and the other (two volumes) in French.

The English book is dated 1631, which is exactly twenty years after the Authorised Version was translated by the scholars appointed by James I. to give the Bible to the English people in their own language. The title page of the New Testament states that it was published by Robert Barker, London, printer to the King's Most Excellent Majesty and by the assignment of John Bill.

From a glance through the well-preserved pages (everyone of which is complete, which shows that considerable care has been taken of it), it will be seen immediately that this is no ordinary Bible. True, its wording is the same as that used in the churches to-day, but the addendums make it most interesting.

* * *

FOR instance, when we open it we find the first twenty pages or so devoted to connecting Adam with Christ by means of an elaborate genealogical tree, which could only have been finished after years of thorough study and far-reaching research. In this Bible is included the Apocrypha or those books of the old Testament which are now deemed unauthentic.

At the end we find the metrical version of the psalms set to the music of Sternhold and Hopkins. These were formerly used in the English Reformed Church, and later were embraced by the Scottish Presbyterians.

Interesting as this book is, one lingers with even greater reverence the two volumes of the Sacred Word used formerly in the Huguenot Chapel in Castle Street, Lisburn. In such good state are they, with their strong binding and clothlike paper, that it is difficult to believe they were produced in the 17th century, yet the title page states that both were printed by Chez Louys and Daniel Elzevier in Amsterdam in 1699—nine years after the Battle of the Boyne.

What is more likely, then, than that some follower of the Prince of Orange from the Continent, having settled in Lisburn after the Irish campaign had come to a successful conclusion, sent for these two books of the Bible and had them presented to the little French chapel in the town.

* * *

THE two volumes are necessary to carry the whole of the Bible story and the Apocrypha. Though approximately 21 inches long by 14 inches wide, very large type is used for the text, with marginal notes in abundance in smaller lettering as a surround. There is a very wide margin to each page. Interspersed throughout these rare volumes are most impressive engravings, which are clarity personified.

One lingers for some time examining the remarkable map of Jerusalem of Old Testament times, which marks the various places of interest in and about that city. A decorative border around the map (which stretches over two pages) includes a sketch of Solomon's Temple, the vessels used in the service, such as the altar of incense, the seven-branched candlestick, and the tabernacle, while prominent in this border are striking drawings of the High Priest in his robes of office and King Solomon himself. Several large-scale maps are also included as that which shows the routes followed by St. Paul and the other Apostles in their journeyings to and fro in the Mediterranean basin.

Entitled La Sainte Bible, the two volumes are printed throughout in the French language, which was used for the liturgical service in that small Lisburn church.

It was in 1820 that the chapel in Lisburn closed its doors for the last time, and the few who had remained true to the faith of their fathers were incorporated in the Church of Ireland, in which denomination the last cleric of the Huguenots laboured for many years after the amalgamation. The two volumes of Holy Scripture passed into the custody of Rev. Snowdon Cupples, D.D., then rector of the Cathedral, whose descendant, Miss Corken, of Ingram, Lisburn, subsequently presented them to their present owners.

So these two volumes remain in Lisburn as probably the last remaining link with a stalwart band of men and women in whom the reformed faith burned fiercely. The passage of the years has woven their descendants into the Ulster fabric of citizenship, but such names as Refausse, Sinclair, Waring and Dubourdieu in modern Lisburn still bear witness to a zeal which glows brightly across the years, reminding us, of the present generation, of a company of enthusiasts for Protestantism, who, having endured hardship and persecution in their native land, were eventually compelled to seek life anew in another country.

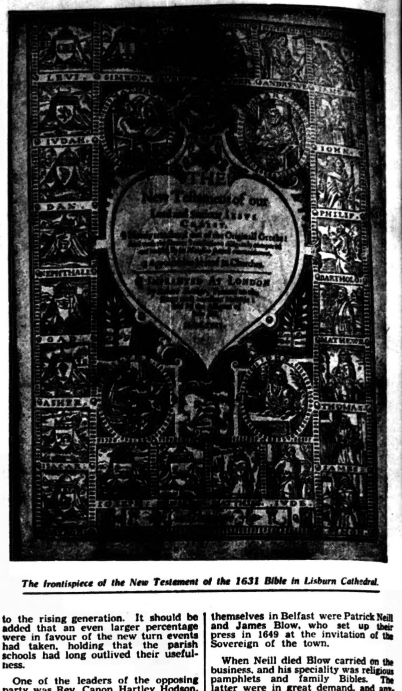
Taking up the threads of their existence principally in Ireland, their assiduous craftsmanship and their capacity for work enabled them to fashion for Ulster that linen industry which to-day is pre-eminent in the land of their adoption.

* * *

HERE, then, are the two Bibles which have such a strong claim to the title of the oldest in Ireland. However, if that title is denied to them there is another to which they can lay hold, namely, being two of four remarkable Bibles probably unparalled in any cathedral or church in the country.

The third member of this collection is what is known as a Polyglot Bible and was printed in London in 1831 by Samuel Baxter. In the days before linotypes were known this gentleman set himself a task which commands wide admiration. On each double page the text of the Bible is printed in no less than six languages—Latin, Italian, German, French, Spanish and English. An immense volume, it would be doubly appreciated by the student of languages, who, having conquered the Bible in these six, would probably stumble over the Arabic version at the end (more like shorthand characters than anything else) to read which he would have to turn to the end of the Book and read backwards.

How this Bible came into the possession of the Lisburn Cathedral is a story in itself. In the days when the Government was accepting responsibility for the education of the children and closing the old church schools, there were found clergy amongst the Church of Ireland pastors who were strenuously opposed to the establishment of the National Commissioners of Education in Dublin and the displacement of these church schools, hitherto the only means of imparting knowledge to the rising generation. It should be added that an even larger percentage were in favour of the new turn events had taken, holding that the parish schools had long outlived their usefulness.



The frontispiece of the New Testament of the 1631 Bible in Lisburn Cathedral.

One of the leaders of the opposing party was Rev. Canon Hartley Hodson, D.D., rector of the Lisburn Cathedral, and when the battle with the Government was fought and lost his admirers in Belfast (principally Sunday school teachers) subscribed and gave him this Polyglot Bible as a token of their appreciation and regard. It was in 1931 that his two daughters, who are residents of Lisburn, handed the Bible over to the Cathedral.

The fourth treasure in the collection is a copy of the "Blow Bible," published in Belfast in 1751, and printed at Dublin by James Grierson, the King's Printer, and ancestor of the late Lord Bishop of Down and Connor and Dromore. The story of the "Blow Bible" is known to some, but it bears repetition. The first printers to establish themselves in Belfast were Patrick Neill and James Blow, who set up their press in 1649 at the invitation of the Sovereign of the town.

When Neill died Blow carried on the business, and his speciality was religious pamphlets and family Bibles. The latter were in great demand, and anyone aspiring to social position in Ulster had to possess a "Blow Bible." The last of these printed bears the date 1751. Despite its popularity in those days, copies remaining to-day are few and far between, and that in the Lisburn Cathedral is cherished as much as any of the other volumes.

Strange though it seems, few people in Lisburn are aware that such priceless books are in the very centre of the town, but on Sunday they will have a chance of inspecting these "pearls of great price," for they are to be on view in the Cathedral as part of the general thanksgiving for the Open Bible.

Dour Dictator— or Brilliant Businessman?

A VIVID PEN-PICTURE OF SIR JOHN REITH, THE £10,000 A YEAR ENIGMA WHO WILL CONTROL THE EMPIRE'S AIRWAYS.

WHEN the British Government announced that they would accept the advice of the Cadman Committee and appoint a whole-time Chairman of Imperial Airways, there was speculation all over the world about the name of the man who would receive this £10,000-a-year "plum."

The names of a hundred famous business men were suggested, but that of Sir John Reith did not figure in any list of forecasts. The announcement that the man who for sixteen years had ruled British broadcasting would very shortly become the virtual dictator of British commercial aviation took thousands completely by surprise.

And yet, if the position had been carefully examined, Sir John Reith was the ideal choice, the man made for this, one of the biggest jobs in the world. In the years he has been building British broadcasting into the largest and finest organisation of its kind in the world, Sir John Reith has had critics in plenty. He was a martinet for discipline, he loved red-tape, he regarded himself as above criticism, he was unapproachable, he was dull—these and many more charges were levelled against the man who sat guarded by four secretaries in his room in Broadcasting House, rarely seen by more than a handful of the 3,600 men and women who worked under him.

The listening public's picture of him varied between a dour Scot as hard as the granite of his native Aberdeen and an Ogre who filled his staff with terror and made the programmes as dull and educational as possible. It is not surprising that millions of people in the Empire are probably asking "What does Sir John Reith know about aviation? How does sixteen years of broadcasting qualify him to run the biggest and most important flying company in the world?"

* * *

TO answer that question requires an appreciation not only of the character and qualities of Sir John Reith, but also of the fundamental change that has taken place in what is commonly called "big business." To-day, the biggest businesses in the world are Government owned. The days of the Rockefellers and the Carnegie's are rapidly passing. In the old days, brilliant business men made fortunes far beyond the power of their spending by using their gifts to acquire a virtual monopoly in some commodity. To-day the biggest industries are virtually in the hands of the Government. It has taken a monopoly in broadcasting, it controls civil aviation, the sale of milk, pigs, bread and many other of the most important commodities.

And with this change has come a new type of business man, the business man appointed and virtually paid by the Government. He cannot make the fortunes amassed by the successful manufacturers and financiers. He is paid certainly not more than £15,000 a year, although "in the city" he might make ten times this sum. He has much the same qualities as the successful manufacturer or financier—he is an organiser, something of an idealist and a man able to see more than three weeks ahead. But because he is not concerned with making money for himself or his shareholders, he can take a more independent view of his task. He does not have to give the public what they think they want beyond a certain point. He can give them what is found to be best from the widest national or social point of view.

OF this new type of business man, Sir John Reith is, perhaps, the ideal example. There are many others, not so well-known because they are concerned with work of less spectacular importance than broadcasting. The principles of organisation, of vision, of policy remain the same whether they are applied to broadcasting or to commercial aviation.

Sir John Reith may not be able to fly an air liner—but he will have available scores of pilots who can do this for him, traffic managers who know all about ground organisation. His task will be to make the Empire air routes the best served in the world, to build up an organisation of the finest flying machines, backed by an efficient and contented personnel. In the course of his work he may fly the Empire air-routes—just as in the course of his work at Broadcasting House he listened in to various stations every evening.

When sixteen years ago John Reith saw an advertisement for a general manager of the new British Broadcasting Corporation he knew nothing about broadcasting. There was no one in the world who knew much more. John Reith had been educated as an engineer in Glasgow, had served as a major in the Royal Engineers, taken charge of British munition contracts in the U.S.A., and been general manager of a firm of engineers. None of his experience was with wireless, much less broadcasting. The only apparent qualification for dictatorship was a scowl—mostly accounted for by a wound on the face in the war.

He started work in one room with a staff of four. There were only a few thousand listeners in the country. His entry into the little offices of the B.B.C. in Kingsway was unnoticed by the public. It was probably not until 1927, when he became Director-General of the newly-created British Broadcasting Corporation, that the public began to hear of him. The picture of the dictator, of an almost sinister figure behind the scenes, was built up during the years that followed. The man who provided hundreds of hours of broadcasting a week was himself rarely heard, and even then unrecognised. Only a handful of listeners knew the rasping voice that introduced ex-King Edward VIII.'s farewell broadcast as that of Sir John Reith.

There are those who will tell you that Sir John Reith surrounded himself with mystery and secretaries because he likes power or because he felt himself above criticism and normal human relationships. That is, frankly, nonsense. Sir John is just as human as the next man. But he faced a tremendous task—that of building up the reputation of a public corporation in the face of continued criticism and opposition from a dozen different sources, including the public, certain trades unions, many members of Parliament, the theatre, and the cinema. He was an Aunt Sally for anyone with a brick to shy.

WHAT would you do in the circumstances? Put your head out of the window as a target for any passer-by or close the door and institute a routine that ensured only those with something worth while to say occupying your time? Sir John has won every fight—he has obtained a larger share of licence money for listeners, made friends with the theatre, weathered storms amongst his staff.

The vision of Sir John Reith has been clearly shown during the last four years, when he has largely delegated his powers to a committee of four. He realised that although Sir John Reith and the B.B.C. were regarded by many as one and the same thing the day would come for a change, and he prepared the way so that the machine he had built would continue to work smoothly even when the man who had built it and guided it for sixteen years was gone. Probably he also realised that the B.B.C. had become too big to be ruled by one man, even a superman. He has been wiser than other dictators, and his going will not mean a revolution.

The methods he will employ at Imperial Airways will probably be the same, and those who know him well will be disappointed if within five years Imperial Airways does not set a standard for efficiency to the whole world. You will not, I think, find Sir John chatting to his pilots on the aerodromes. His work will be done in an office—and he will probably work as before, from nine till six, no more and no less. He will probably attend the same small number of public functions and be as little photographed and interviewed.

THE charge that Sir John is dour inhuman and humourless is repudiated by the few who know him well. He can tell a good story. After returning from the U.S.A., he recounted that during a storm he went on deck and commented on the view to the ship's officer. "It will be better," replied the officer, "when the moon comes up." From a huddled form against one of the boats came the groan, "Good heavens, has the moon got to come up, too."

Nor is Sir John a "highbrow." No doubt if he had consulted his personal tastes he would have cut down chamber music and symphony concerts to a minimum. He prefers a brass band, and is no enemy of dance music. His private life he has kept private. He does not think that because he is one of the most powerful men in the country he should be asked what he has for breakfast, whether he believes in co-education, and how many hours sleep a night are necessary for success.

The one glimpse of his private life he has given is that he has kept a diary every day for the last 25 years that covers every event in his crowded life. It is like Sir John Reith that he should have added that the diary will never be published.

Uncommon Sense

Supplying The Need—By JOHN BLAKE.

SOME years ago I went fishing with a friend. We went to a lake, rented a boat and spent the day angling. We came back rather late, both tired and hungry.

As we entered the boat-house that evening my friend and I saw with disappointment that we could get nothing to eat there. We had to take a long drive to satisfy our hunger.

• • • • •

"That gives me an idea," my friend remarked. "There should be a place to eat at that boat-house. I shall start one some day. Other people have been through what we experienced. It is a [illegible]ular place to fish. If I don't start it [illegible]y soon somebody else will."

[illegible]s summer I visited the lake again. [illegible]d a restaurant there doing a good business.

My friend is not the proprietor. He has gone elsewhere. But I remembered our conversation of a few years ago.

• • • • •

That is the way successful business projects often start. Someone lacks something. The discovery that others are in the same position suggests the idea of starting a business to supply the need.

The more universal the need the greater, of course, the business may become.

If you can find a way to cure a headache or make life pleasanter you may have the entire world for your customers.

And on a smaller scale, if you start a business where there is a need for one you have customers from the very beginning.

• • • • •

For a man with little experience this is one of the best ways of getting a start. He has his customers at the outset. He can learn his business while supplying their needs.

Getting in on the ground floor is considered difficult. One hears that everything has been thought of already.

And yet, in reality, the opportunities of creating new businesses are increasing every day. Entirely new businesses are starting up to supply the ever-increasing needs of mankind.

• • • • •

We hear a great deal about the keen competition in modern business—in modern life.

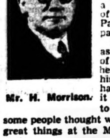
Going into a business that many already are engaged in subjects one to that sort of competition. But the man who can think of some way to supply a need will always have room to exercise his profession.

When you lack something, and you discover that others lack it too, you may have hit on just such an idea.

London Day By Day

Herbert Morrison in Politics.
"Dictator" Role Prejudical.

LONDON, Saturday.



Mr. H. Morrison.

IT is perhaps a little astonishing that Mr. Herbert Morrison has not got further than he has in politics. There was a time when he was spoken of as a potential leader of the Labour Party, but it has passed.

Even his success as the "dictator" of the L.C.C. has helped to prejudice his chances. It has confirmed, or it has been believed to confirm, what some people thought when he was doing great things at the Ministry of Transport.

Since the Labour Government of 1929-31 came to an end Mr. Morrison has not enhanced his reputation. He has only led people to believe that though he may be a good administrator his best work will always be done as a departmental chief.

Money In Plenty.

THERE has been no shortage of money at Ascot this year either in the betting rings or on the tote. The Royal meeting has always been a happy hunting ground for the tote, whose takings have steadily increased year by year.

Five years ago the gross takings for the four days were £298,945; this year, after breaking all previous records for the meeting every day, they have easily topped the half million mark.

The bookmakers on the other side of the picture have found no dearth of big money, and on some of the races very heavy sums have been wagered.

The most surprising instance perhaps was the race with a small field for the Rous Memorial Stakes. Major T. G. N. Bardwell's Puzzler was regarded by many as a cast iron certainty, and he opened in the betting at 9 to 4 on. In spite of this short price strong support continued to come for him, the "blower" alone bringing £10,000 on to the course, thus shortening his price to 4 to 1 on.

There must have been a good deal of heartburning when the Aga Khan's Khan Bahadur, with Richards up, pipped him on the post by a neck.

On a Volcano.

TO climb Mount Cotopaxi, the world's highest volcano, has been the lifelong ambition of Mr. Guy Bullock, the British Consul-General in Ecuador. Now he has realised it in company with Mr. Andre Roosevelt, an amateur explorer, cousin of the United States President.

Mr. Roosevelt has been a friend of his since the early days of his career in New Orleans, and it is safe to assume that the early days of their friendship led to this expedition.

True enough, Mr. Bullock has been talking about it for quite a number of years. Every time he came to London he would be asked by his friends, "How about that volcano?"

Mr. Bullock first saw Cotopaxi during his spell in the Consular service in Lima. Movements to Abyssinia and some of the Central European States took him farther away from his objective, but a year ago he was sent from Lille, the silk town of France to Quito. Roosevelt was there, delving into the jungle and fully experienced in its ways; he was the only possible companion for the ascent.

They Are "Surplus."

SOME 50 or 60 spinsters, all middle-aged or elderly, are filling the benches of one of the High Courts of Justice, where the Spinsters' Pensions Committee opened its public session this week.

Evidence was being given on behalf of the Spinsters' Pensions Association by Miss Florence White, who, with her sister, keeps a shop in Bradford, and has given many years of her life working for just such a day as this.

Frequently there were subdued "hear, hears," and one clapping started, only to be quickly suppressed at a stern word from the committee chairman, Mr. Le Quesne. Pensions at 55 is the slogan of these single women, who feel that at least they should have the same treatment from the State as widows.

The two women members of the committee were very silent all day. The men asked all the questions, and throughout the day Miss White was supplying the answers, except for one short period when a working woman of 48 stood up and spoke simply and bluntly of her fears for the future under the present system, whereby spinsters must wait until they are 65 to qualify for a pension.

"Why should we be penalised because there are not enough men to go round" was the unspoken question underlying every word of the association's case. I must confess that I do not know of a satisfactory answer.

Ascot's Tote Takings.
All Previous Records Broken.

Some "Hustle."

SINCE "hustle" became an accepted description of modern developments the United States has always been recognised as its home. But the fact that a man could be divorced twice in a single day has created astonishment.

In recent years there has been a considerable relaxation of the marriage laws of England. Sometimes great credit has been taken for the fact that release from the marriage bond could be obtained in seven days, and at no greater cost than is involved in taking out a dog licence, but it has to be admitted that in this type of "progress" the United States is far in advance of the United Kingdom.

PREMIER AND SPAIN

FRESH ATTACKS ON HIS POLICY

NEXT WEEK IN PARLIAMENT

CALL FOR "LESS HOMEWORK"

THREE things stand out prominently in Parliament's programme for next week (writes the Press Association's Lobby correspondent).

1.—IMPORTANT PROGRESS WILL BE ANNOUNCED ON MONDAY IN THE FITTER BRITAIN CAMPAIGN, AND MR. KENNETH LINDSAY (PARLIAMENTARY SECRETARY TO THE BOARD OF EDUCATION) WILL REVEAL THAT THE NUMBER OF ORGANISERS OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION HAS BEEN INCREASED FROM 182 TO 315;

2.—ATTACKS ON THE GOVERNMENT'S POLICY—PARTICULARLY BECAUSE OF OUR ATTITUDE TO THE BOMBING OF BRITISH SHIPS IN SPAIN—WILL BE MADE ON TUESDAY, AND THE PRIME MINISTER WILL DEFEND THE LINE HE HAS TAKEN; AND

3.—EFFORTS WILL BE MADE BY THE OPPOSITION ON WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY TO ALTER THE BUDGET, THE TWO MAIN AMENDMENTS BEING AGAINST THE INCREASED PETROL DUTY AND THE EXTRA TAX ON TEA.

FUSILLADE OF QUESTIONS.

Mr. Chamberlain will face the fusillade of foreign affairs questions.

Has he anything to say about the proposal for sending an International Commission to Spain to report on the damage done by the bombing?

What report has come from the British Minister at Barcelona on the presence of military objectives in Granollers?

Has Japan replied to the British protest against the bombing of civilians in Canton?

Those are three queries on the paper from Mr. Arthur Henderson.

Mr. Noel-Baker, opening Thursday's debate—which arises on the Foreign Office vote—may allege that Britain is losing prestige by not taking stern action over the continued bombing of her ships in Spain. There are some Conservatives also who feel that an emphatic declaration by Britain that reprisals will follow any further incidents would bring such attacks to an immediate end.

Others regard the attacks as a comparatively minor aspect of a serious situation, as they say that the owners of the ships are being well paid for running risks that are known to everybody, and which need not be run.

GOVERNMENT VIEW.

Mr. Chamberlain will review the situation after Mr. Noel-Baker has spoken. The Government view is that retaliation, in whatever form it might be suggested, would be most unwise at present. Firing on approaching aircraft would be construed as taking part in the Civil War, and as a contravention of Britain's non-intervention policy.

Much may be heard of the possibility of providing safety zones for shipping in certain harbours, or of setting aside a port—outside the fighting area—which could be used by British ships on the strict understanding that they were not conveying arms.

Sir Archibald Sinclair and Mr. Wilfrid Roberts will speak for the Liberals; Mr. Grenfell will wind up for Labour, and Mr. R. A. Butler (Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs) for the Government.

Reports in some American newspapers that the Prime Minister's "differences" with Mr. Eden, who resigned the Foreign Secretaryship, concerned the attitude to be taken by Britain to certain matters affecting United States are to be raised by Mr. Geoffrey Mander.

These reports are said to have come from London following a luncheon which Mr. Chamberlain attended, and Mr. Mander will ask for the facts.

In reply Mr. Chamberlain may say that what appears in the newspapers of another country is no responsibility of his.

FITTER BRITAIN PROGRESS.

Broad-shouldered, good-humoured, football-playing Mr. Kenneth Lindsay, will have some cheering things to say when the Board of Education vote is considered on Tuesday. He will tell the House that proposals for capital expenditure of over £1,500,000 have been submitted to the National Council dealing with physical training and recreation, and these proposals are being dealt with as expeditiously as possible. The number of local authorities employing physical training organisers for schools has been increased from 124 to 240, a point which Mr. Lindsay will stress with some pride. He will also report that about 80 schools have been removed from the "black list."

Homework is another aspect which is linked with physical development, and Mr. Lindsay may mention that the Board of Education has had evidence from all over the country that a reduction of homework is desirable. Already in a number of areas the recommendation of the Board's inspectors that there should be no homework for children under 12 is being carried out.

Sir Percy Harris will raise the problem of classes which are too big for a teacher to cope with. In some London County Council areas there are 40 in a class, whereas a preparatory school may have only 13. Proper equipment in senior schools is regarded by Sir Percy as particularly necessary with the raising of the school-leaving age to 15.

SCHOOL EXEMPTION.

Local authorities may exempt children from school at 14 for certain occupations, but may not injustices occur if one authority gives exemptions more readily than another? That and similar questions will be put forward by Sir Percy, Mr. Lees-Smith, Mr. Morgan Jones and others.

Sir Robert Gower, chairman of the R.S.P.C.A., will on Monday introduce a Bill to make it an offence to possess any animal "trained, prepared or intended" for cockfighting, or any instrument intended to be used for such purposes. At present cockfighting is a penal offence, but the law does not prohibit the preparation of birds for such fighting.

An interesting amendment to the Finance Bill, which will be dealt with in committee on Wednesday and Thursday, comes from Mr. A. M. Lyons, K.C., and Mr. Herbert Williams, who feel there should be a tax allowance for "human wear and tear" just as there are allowances for depreciation of machinery. That is to say, if a person had much expense through illness and disability, he should get an income-tax rebate.

Mr. Pethick-Lawrence and Mr. A. V. Alexander will be principal Labour spokesmen on the various aspects of the Bill, and the Liberals, who will have much to say, will be represented by Mr. Graham White, Sir Archibald Sinclair, Sir Percy Harris, Sir Hugh Seely and Major G. Owen.

HAILE SELASSIE BILL.

Under the ten-minute rule on Wednesday, Mr. Arthur Henderson will introduce a Bill to safeguard the interests of Haile Selassie, Emperor of Ethopia. The point is that certain money is due from Britain to the Emperor in connection with matters which occurred before the Italian conquest of Ethopia. Mr. Henderson is afraid that if Britain decided to give de jure recognition to the conquest, then that money—really due to the Emperor—would legally have to be handed over to the Italian Government instead. This Bill is designed to ensure that Haile Selassie receives any payments due to him in connection with contracts made before the conquest.

Business for Friday has not yet been decided.

Lord Eltisley, in the House of Lords, will on Monday ask that his motion which was to have been discussed on July 6 shall be taken next Thursday instead. This motion refers to the Bressey Report, and, in view of the urgency of relieving London road traffic, asks what steps the Government are taking to implement the recommendations.

Report of amendments to the Coal Bill and a number of smaller measures from the Commons will also be taken in the Lords during the week.

Sir John Simon's Liberal National Party have an interesting conference in London on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

BELFASTMEN FOR TRIAL

AT DUNGANNON SESSIONS.

At a special court at Cookstown, before Mr. Geo. Ramsay, J.P., two Belfast men, Thomas Hughes, Eglinton Street, and Wm. M'Allister, Kyle Street, were charged on remand with unlawfully obtaining credit by fraud from Miss M'Keown, owner of a Cookstown boarding house on June 8 and 9 and on a second charge of obtaining credit by fraud from Mrs. Badere, owner of a cafe and boarding-house in Quay Street, Bangor, between June 14 and 16.

Evidence was given by Miss M'Keown that the accused came to her premises on the night of June 8, and left next morning, stating that they would be back for lunch. They did not come back.

Two other boarding-house owners, Mrs. M'Ardle, Lower Scotch Street, Dungannon, and Mrs. M'Ginn, Thomas Street, Portadown, also gave evidence that the accused men stayed at their houses for short periods, leaving without paying what was due.

Mrs. Badere stated that the accused men came to her on June 14. M'Allister stated that he was a friend of the lady who owned the premises previously and a friend of one of her boarders. On these statements she took the men in. They came in next morning at about 12-30, and when asked why they were so late one of them (M'Allister) said they were "at the Princess" looking after their guests. He gave her to understand he had something to do with the business there. That evening she told them to go, as she had let their room to a lady and gentleman. M'Allister said he would not go, and said he would send for his friend, Sergeant Brown. Witness herself sent for the sergeant. She added that the accused each owed her 10s, and had not paid anything.

In reply to a question by M'Allister, Mrs. Badere said she found out they were undesirable people for her to have in her house.

Both accused were returned for trial to Dungannon Quarter Sessions on bail of £10, with one surety of £10 each.

NEWCASTLE PETTY SESSIONS

WOMAN ON FIREARMS CHARGE.

At Newcastle Petty Sessions, before Major M'Callum, R.M., Thos. Finnegan, Dundrum, was fined in 20s and 2s costs under the Betting Acts, and five men found on the premises were fined 2s 6d and costs.

James King, milk vendor, Castlewellan, was discharged under the Probation Act on payment of 18s 6d costs for selling new milk which was deficient in milk fats.

Mrs. Margaret Killen, Clough, was accused of having a shot gun in her possession on April 11 without a firearms certificate.

Without evidence being given, Mr. Johnston, solicitor, stated that the woman's husband, an ex-Serviceman at Ballykinlar Camp, owned the gun, and had both a firearms certificate and a licence. The woman put a blank cartridge into the gun and discharged it into the air to frighten boys who were stone throwing.

On undertaking not to use the gun again she was ordered to enter into personal bail of 5s and keep the peace for two years.

CHAMBERLAIN MOVE

NEUTRAL COMMISSION FOR SPAIN

ON BOMBING OF CIVILIANS.

TO INVESTIGATE "FUTURE RAIDS."

During the week-end a supreme effort will be made to establish a basis of agreement among the Non-Interventionist Powers on the plan for ending foreign intervention in Spain, writes the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" diplomatic correspondent.

The British Government is pressing forward with its endeavour to limit the horrors of war in Spain by securing a limitation of aerial bombing to military objectives.

In the hope that world opinion, if mobilised, will induce the two sides in Spain to agree to rules for sparing civilian populations from air attack, arrangements are proceeding for despatch of a neutral commission to investigate future raids of this character.

It is understood that the Prime Minister will be in a position to announce developments next week.

The possibilities of procuring a truce in the Spanish hostilities and thereafter promoting a negotiated settlement are still being carefully examined both in London and Paris. While, however, there are some encouraging indications that this stage might be reached at a future date, it does not appear likely that an immediate cessation of hostilities can be looked for.

Further examination of General Franco's suggestion that a free port might be nominated by the Spanish Government, in which merchantmen could discharge their cargoes free from the menace of air bombardment, supports the British view that little is to be hoped for along this line.

It has been submitted to the Government that to accept this suggestion would be tantamount to the recognition of belligerent rights. This step the British Government is pledged not to take until an advanced stage has been reached in the actual evacuation of foreign auxiliary forces from Spain.

THE CO. DOWN ROAD ACCIDENT.

INQUEST ON CYCLIST.

NO BLAME ATTACHED CAR DRIVER.

A verdict of death from fracture of the skull and that no blame attached to the driver of the car (Mrs. Cooke, wife of ex-District-Inspector Cooke, Warrenpoint) was returned at an inquest held at Newry on Friday evening by Mr. M. O'Connor (coroner) touching the death of John Irwin (64), of Narrowwater, who was injured on Thursday when cycling through the entrance gates of Narrowwater Castle on to the public road.

Mr. H. A. Rutherford represented Mr. Cooke, the owner of the car, and Head-Constable Henry conducted the proceedings.

Charles Bailey, a boatman at Narrowwater, said he was coming out from the entrance gate when he recognised deceased by his voice behind him. Deceased said "Hello, Charlie," and at the same time the witness saw a motor-car a short distance away coming from the direction of Newry, and told deceased to mind the car. The car was on its proper side going towards Warrenpoint at a normal speed. He next heard a crash and saw deceased lying on the road.

Other evidence showed that Dr. Flood, Newry, and a doctor from the Isle of Wight attended to deceased, who was removed to hospital, where he died on Friday morning.

Constable E. Burke, assistant inspector of P.S. vehicles, said the fittings and brakes of the car were in perfect order, but the brakes of the bicycle were very defective.

Dr. J. P. M'Cormick ascribed death to a fracture of the skull.

Mr. Rutherford said Mrs. Cooke, who was driving the car on the occasion, was so distressed over the accident that he took the responsibility of not producing her, but that Mr. Cooke would give evidence.

Mr. Cooke said he and his wife were driving home from Newry, his wife being at the wheel, when the accident occurred. The car was in third gear. His wife, who had 14 years' experience, drove out to the right to avoid deceased, who wobbled as he came out of the gate and then shot straight ahead, with the result that he was struck by the car and was thrown on top of the bonnet and fell on the road. Had witness been at the wheel he could not have done anything more than his wife did to avoid the accident.

The jury returned a verdict as stated, and exonerated Mrs. Cooke from all blame.

MILITARY LAW FOR AUSTRIA

NAZIS CURBING THEIR LIBERTY.

BERLIN, Friday.—German military law is introduced into Austria by a decree promulgated to-day in the "Reich Law Gazette," above the signature of General Keitel, chief of the German High Command. This means that, beginning with this summer, Austrians will be called up for two years' military service on the same system as other Germans, states the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" correspondent.

Property rights in Austria will also now be liable to restriction in the interests of national defence. At the same time, the military authorities are given far-reaching powers to obtain suitable land for barracks, training grounds, and shooting ranges.

General von Brauchitsch, the Commander-in-Chief of the German Army, will visit Austria towards the end of this month to inspect the progress being made in the incorporation of the Austrian Army by the German forces.

FELL OVER A BALCONY.

AUGUSTUS JOHN'S MOTHER-IN-LAW

Mrs. Augustus John, wife of the famous artist, of Fryern Court, Fordingbridge (Hants), was present at the inquest at Salisbury on Friday afternoon on her mother, Mrs. Kate Florence M'Neill, aged 85, who died as a result of falling over the balcony of her bedroom at Fryern Court.

The Coroner (Mr. A. M. Wilson) recorded a verdict of accidental death.

Mrs. John did not give evidence.

Mrs. Kate Florence Lethbridge, sister-in-law of Mr. Augustus John, said she and her mother lived at Bramshaw (Hants), and they went to stop at Fryern Court, because her mother had been unwell.

A month ago her mother fell over the balcony of her bedroom, and was removed to a Salisbury nursing home, where she died early that morning.

Questioned by the Coroner, witness said she did not think there was any reason why her mother should have thrown herself over the balcony. It was possible that her mother leant over the balcony, felt giddy, and overbalanced and fell.

Dr. A. H. Watson said death was due to old-age, accelerated by the accident.

The Coroner said there was no reason to think that Mrs. M'Neill threw herself over the balcony. He could only assume she leant over and had an attack of giddiness and, being an old lady, it would have been easy for her to fall over.

FLOWERS SHOWERED

BY WOMEN ON "LOST DIVISION."

MINISTER'S WELCOME.

TALK OF PROTEST TO FRANCE.

BARCELONA, Saturday. — Senor Alvarez del Vayo, Republican Spain's Foreign Minister, welcomed men of the 43rd ("Lost") Division in the Plaza del Independencia on their arrival in Gerona from France.

Flowers were showered on the men by women from balconies as they marched through the streets bound for Barcelona, where they will spend a month's special leave.

According to a Spanish Press Agency message Senor del Vayo referred in his speech to having protested to the French Government on the conduct of the "plebiscite" among the men of the 43rd Division. This presumably refers to the question asked each man by the French authorities as to whether he wished to return to Republican or insurgent Spain.

Senor del Vayo also bestowed high praise on the troops.

"All that is best and eternal in the Spanish nation lives in you, fighters of the 43rd Division," he said.

"You crossed into France not vanquished but as active soldiers of Spain nobly fighting for your country's independence, eager to get back into the trenches to fight for the future of Spain."

The insurgents, in a communique issued at Salamanca, declare that Republican attacks against insurgent positions in the Castillo de Villamanfa sector have been repulsed.

They state that they have captured the Republican base after inflicting heavy losses on them.

The Republicans assert that after fighting of extreme violence in the Castellon sector their forces have blown up the bridge over the Mijares and have captured Villareal, except for the cemetery and a few isolated nests.

They add that in the Puebla de Valverde their forces in a brilliant attack retook a number of hills and captured many prisoners and a large amount of war material.—Reuter.

QUEEN'S SENATE.

BILL TO ADD MEMBERS.

APPROVAL BY CONVOCATION.

At a special meeting of Convocation of Queen's University, Belfast, held yesterday in the Physics Lecture Hall, Right Hon. Mr. Justice Brown presiding.

A Draft Bill providing for an alteration of the Constitution of the Senate of the University by the addition of ex-officio seats for the honorary treasurer and the secretary of the Academic Council (if a member of the Academic Council) was submitted in the report of the standing committee.

It was resolved that Convocation approve of the alteration as proposed on the motion of the chairman, seconded by Dr. Hunter.

At the invitation of the Chairman prior to the consideration of the report by Convocation, Mr. F. W. Ogilvie, M.A., Vice-Chancellor, made a statement explaining the necessity for the proposed change which, he said, was in the interests of the University and a matter of some urgency. Major Shillington, the former hon. treasurer, having been appointed to the Ministry of Labour, had felt it incumbent on him to resign the post, but he was desirous of continuing to serve on the Senate. It was not easy to find among the members of the Senate an hon. treasurer who had sufficient business experience to be qualified for taking up the work which was of great importance to the University, and they wished to be able to obtain a successor who would be an ex-officio member of the Senate.

Professor Henry, who had been secretary of the Academic Council for 27 years, had resigned the secretaryship of that body, and remained a member of the Senate, and they wished to be able to offer his successor a seat there. This post was one requiring high academic qualifications, and the matter, like that of the hon. treasurer's seat on the Senate, was one that required to be seen to with a view to the future.

COMPOSITION OF THE SENATE.

The Senate, as at present constituted, consists of the following ex-officio members:—

The Chancellor, the Pro-Chancellors, the President of the University (who is ex-officio Vice-Chancellor), the Registrar and the President for the time being of the Students' Representative Council, if a graduate of the University.

Nominated members — Four persons nominated by his Majesty the King, of whom one, at least, shall be a woman.

Elected members—Six Professors of the University, elected by the Academic Council. Eight members of Convocation, elected by Convocation. Three persons elected by the Executive Committee of the Better Equipment Fund. A person elected by the Education Committee of the Corporation of Belfast to represent the Belfast Municipal College of Technology. A person elected by the Corporation of Belfast, a person elected by the Council of the Belfast Chamber of Commerce, a person elected by the Board of Management of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Belfast; a person elected by the Corporation of Londonderry, and six persons, one elected by each of the six county councils in Northern Ireland.

Co-opted members—Persons not exceeding four co-opted by the members of the Senate for the time being. Members elected by the Corporation of Londonderry and the county councils hold office for one year.

CATHLEEN NESBITT FINED.

CAR STRUCK A MILKMAN.

Mrs Cathleen Mary Ramage, better known as the film and stage actress Cathleen Nesbitt, was fined £3 at the Beaconsfield Police Court yesterday for driving a car without due care and attention. Her licence was endorsed.

It was stated that she collided with a milk float in Beaconsfield and failed to stop.

It was pleaded for Mrs. Ramage that she knew nothing of the accident.

CLERGY'S DUTY IN AIR RAIDS

— AS BISHOP SEES POSITION.

The Bishop of Lincoln (Dr. Nugent Hicks), in his address to the diocesan conference in Lincoln, said that in the event of air raids the first and obvious duty of the clergy was to render spiritual and personal aid to the wounded, the dying, and the distressed.

"This does not mean that the clergy will not be on the spot and as much in the danger zone as any enrolled for service under A.R.P.," said the Bishop.

"The position, as I see it, ought to be that of Army chaplains in the front line during the war as compared with that of their combatant fellow officers."

BABIES ORPHANED

BY AYRSHIRE MOTOR-CAR WRECK.

COLLISION WITH A BUS.

FARMER AND HIS WIFE KILLED.

When on their way home to Dalry from Kilmarnock late on Friday night, Thomas Craig (38), farmer, of West Middle Bank Farm, and his wife, Mary Craig (31), were killed when their car collided with a bus about three miles from Kilwinning, Ayrshire.

Other occupants of the car, Peter Ferguson and Hugh Gilbert, were seriously injured and removed to Kilmarnock Infirmary.

The car was turning from a side-road on to the main highway when it came into violent collision with a bus.

The car was struck broadside on and wrecked, Craig being thrown out.

His body was found later below the wreckage.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig leave two children, one aged three years and the other four months.

TRIED IN ABSENCE.

CORK MAN DEFIED COURT.

SENTENCED TO SIX MONTHS.

John M'Grath, a returned American, was removed from Court at Cork and tried in his absence. He was charged with wounding another man, and this was his third appearance before Judge O'Donnell. Last time he refused to recognise the Court and told the Judge he had no power to try him. He was committed for contempt of Court and had spent three months in jail. He was without legal assistance. When a Court official read out the indictment to him he persisted in interrupting and drowned the voice of the official with his shouts. When asked to plead he replied "Bunk," and had to be forcibly compelled by prison warders and Civic Guards to sit down in the dock. His Lordship decided to take the reply of accused to the charge as a plea of "not guilty."

The prosecuting counsel submitted that as accused had persisted in creating a disturbance his Lordship was entitled to make an order that the trial proceed in his absence.

This was done. Accused was removed, protesting loudly, and evidence was taken in his absence.

A man named Sheehy described how M'Grath stabbed him in the back.

When the evidence had concluded, accused was brought back to the dock and asked if he had anything to say to the jury in his defence.

He declined to give evidence. He was removed again, and his Lordship addressed the jury, telling them he had done everything that was humanly possible to assist the accused, but he refused to be assisted.

The jury found M'Grath guilty and strongly recommended him to mercy.

His Lordship sentenced accused to six months' hard labour, stating that without the recommendation the sentence would have been doubled.

NEW ARMY POSTERS.

SPECIAL ONES FOR ULSTER.

The army authorities have recently been engaged in the task of bringing army recruiting posters up to date. Very shortly thousands of newly-designed posters will be sent out to take the place of those now on the hoardings of the country. Naturally with the army of to-day travelling mainly on wheels many of the posters stress the mechanisation side. The old-fashioned poster with a sketch of a man in uniform raising a beckoning finger has given way to attractive posters of army life of to-day.

Most striking of the new posters is the picture of the men of the Royal Artillery sitting comfortably in a tractor which is drawing a heavy gun and limber along a road.

Other posters show the Tank Brigade, light and heavy troop carriers, Austin Sevens, motor cycles, and other forms of transport in which the army of to-day does its travelling. Only one horse appears in the new sets in a poster urging men to join the Royal Scots Greys, one of the few cavalry regiments not yet mechanised.

Another new departure is a regional appeal—special posters have been printed dealing with the Yorkshire, Lancashire, Northern Ireland, Scottish and Welsh Regiments, and these will be concentrated more in the areas with which they deal. The Welsh poster, for instance, is printed in the language of that country. Similarly those depicting the mechanised army will be put up mainly in Sheffield, Leeds, Coventry and Birmingham and other areas where mechanisation plays a more important part.

In all there are nearly a score of new posters which will be distributed generally all over the country.

BOTH SIDES HELD TO BLAME.

BELFAST MOTOR ACCIDENT ACTION.

The suggestion that a 1928 car was valued at about £5, when there was a claim for £12 for repairs, was made at the Belfast Recorder's Court, when Douglas Aubrey Martin, 171 Alexandra Park Avenue, Belfast, sued John Milligan, a school-teacher, of Dundela Avenue, Belfast, for damages caused as alleged by the negligent driving of a motor-car on March 2 on Ormeau Road at the Embankment.

There was a counter claim for £6 5s 9d.

Mr. F. A. L. Harrison (instructed by Mr. T. M. Herron) appeared for Martin, and Mr. C. A. Nicholson (instructed by Messrs. N. and F. Tughan) was for Milligan.

Martin said the defendant cut right across the Ormeau Road towards the Embankment and gave him no chance to avoid an accident.

To Mr. Nicholson—Witness was summoned for having defective brakes on the occasion. He did not swerve because there was a tramcar to the right and witness thought to go to the left would have been dangerous owing to the number of pedestrians.

Mr. Nicholson—Would you agree the value of your car was about £5?

Witness—No, about £10. It was a 1928 model.

Wm. Spence, tram driver, said Milligan passed and swerved in front of his tram and he had to slow down. Having occupied the crown of the road for 30 yards and then his wrong side of the road for ten yards, Milligan stopped on the in-going tramlines. In witness's opinion, Martin had no chance to avoid an accident.

Milligan, in evidence, said his car was stopped on the tramlines and there was a space of 12ft. between it and the footpath. Witness thought Martin did not see his car as he came straight on and did not swerve. After the accident, witness drew Martin's attention to his traffic indicator, and Martin knocked it down.

Mrs. Milligan said she thought Martin had time to stop or pass in front of the car.

The Deputy Recorder (Mr. E. J. M'Kean, K.C.) dismissed the claim and the counter claim, saying both parties were equally to blame.

IF WIFE PERMITS.

When Stephen Long, of Kennetside, Reading, was summoned at Reading for keeping ducks and chickens which caused a public nuisance, Mr. Sidney Brain, the Magistrate's clerk, asked, "Cannot you sell the fowls in the market to-morrow?"

Long—"Yes, if my wife allows me."

ROYAL ULSTER SHOW

BIGGER SUCCESS

THAN IN PREVIOUS YEAR.

TRIBUTE TO PRESIDENT.

At the monthly meeting of the Council of the Royal Ulster Agricultural Society, held in the Grand Central Hotel, Belfast, under the chairmanship of the President, the Right Hon. J. Milne Barbour, D.L., M.P., great satisfaction was expressed at the outstanding success of the recent annual show, which, in spite of the bad weather on the second day, and notwithstanding competition from other important events held on or about the show dates, had yielded a higher profit than the show held in 1937.

It was intimated that the only real criticism received in regard to the show programme was in connection with the absence of a band, and the secretary explained that, although a contest had been specially run in the King's Hall for the purpose of selecting Northern Ireland brass and military bands to provide the programme of music at the show, it had not been possible subsequently to make satisfactory arrangements for the attendance of the selected prize winning bands in these sections. In connection with future shows, the society would, as in former years, make arrangements for the providing of band music in the show yard and jumping enclosure.

KING'S HALL FOR DOG SHOW.

The Finance Committee, having reported on the improved financial result of the recent annual show, dealt with the question of the display attraction for the 1939 annual show, in regard to which a report is to be submitted by the secretary following his visit to the International Horse Show at Olympia, London. The committee recommend (1) that the use of The King's Hall be granted on the usual terms to the Belfast Dog Show Society for the holding of their annual championship show, on September 14, provided the Hall would be available on that date; (2) that approval be given to the proposals by the Horse, Pig and Poultry Committees, in connection with the schedule for the autumn show and sale, to be held at Balmoral, Belfast, on September 21 and 22 next. The report also recommended action to be taken with a view to bringing about a better arrangement of dates for important events usually held on or close to the dates of the society's annual show.

The committee announced that donations towards the King's Hall chair fund had been received from Mrs. M. R. Bruce, Corriewood, Castlewellan, and Mr. E. T. Green, Marlboro' Mills, Belfast, for which they, on behalf of the society, had expressed most grateful thanks.

Following the adoption of the Finance Committee's report, Mr. Fullerton having referred to the deep interest taken by the President in the society's work, moved the following resolution, which was seconded by Mr. R. J. Pack-Beresford, and unanimously adopted:—

"That a record be placed on the minutes expressing our high appreciation of the President's valuable services during the recent show. His unselfish devotion to the interests of the society at all times, and his unfailing courtesy, have earned for him the respect and esteem not only of the Council, but of every member."

The President replied suitably, and referred to the efficient and painstaking manner in which the stewards had carried out their duties at the show, and, on behalf of the Council, he thanked them for their untiring efforts to ensure the smooth working of the show programme. He also expressed the society's high appreciation of the invaluable support so wholeheartedly accorded by the Press to the society's work. Cordial appreciation was expressed to the secretary-manager and his staff for their work in connection with the show.

ROAD SURFACES AND WIDENING.

The Horse Committee, in their report, which was adopted, dealt with correspondence from the County Councils in Northern Ireland replying to the Committee's communication concerning slippery road surfaces and road widening, and the Committee intimated their intention of suggesting to each of the County Councils that, in future, chippings at least ⅜in. in size and of a harder nature than those at present used, be applied for the roughening of road surfaces, in order to provide better footholds for horses.

The report also referred to further correspondence with the Northern Ireland Road Transport Board regarding improved transport of horses, and dealt with various suggestions which will be considered when the arrangements for the 1939 annual show are being made.

The Committee recommended that the classification for horses at the Autumn Show and Sale, to be held on September 21 and 22 next, be the same as for 1937. They appointed judges and stewards, and Mr. James King kindly agreed to act again as hon. auctioneer of horses.

The Pig Committee, in their report, recommended that the classes for the 1938 Autumn Show and Sale be the same as for 1937, with the exception of the class for Large White Ulster Sows, which is to be deleted. Mr. Hugh Dales kindly consented to act again as judge, and it was agreed to invite the stewards who officiated last year to act again in September next. Consideration was given to staging, at the Autumn Show in 1939, a carcase competition on lines successfully followed at English shows. This report was also approved.

POULTRY CLASSES.

The council passed the report of the Poultry Committee recommending that classes for the forthcoming autumn show and sale be the same as for 1937, with certain amendments of the conditions. The committee intimated that it had been decided to invite Mr. William Robinson, Florida Manor, Killinchy, County Down, to judge the poultry in September next, also to invite Mr. Raymond Allam, of Messrs. R. J. Allam, Ltd., Belfast, to act again as honorary auctioneer at the poultry sale.

Approval was given to a request from the Ulster Farmers' Union Poultry Clubs to include for their members, in the autumn show and sale schedule, three poultry sections with two classes in each, and two sections with one class in each, together with two classes for eggs. The entry fees to be 2s per pen and 1s per dozen eggs, the prize money to be provided by the Ulster Farmers' Union Poultry Clubs, who will appoint their own judge.

The following dates were fixed provisionally for the society's shows in 1939:—

Spring show and sale—February 21, 22, and 23.

Annual show—May 24, 25, 26, and 27.

Autumn show and sale—September 20 and 21.

Eighteen ladies and 37 gentlemen, duly nominated were declared elected to membership of the society.

HEARD IN CAMERA.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE.

TRAVELLER ACCUSED.

Press representatives and the public were ordered out of court at Nottingham yesterday when Charles Rusco (30), described as a traveller, of the cottage, Beck Road, Scunthorpe, Lincs., was charged with the manslaughter of Mrs. Kathleen Joyce Crossley (27), of Farnsfield Avenue, Burton Joyce, near Nottingham.

He was further charged with driving to the danger of the public.

Mr. P. C. Williams (chairman of the Bench) said—"In the event of the accused being committed for trial it is important, if he is to have a fair trial, that he should be tried by a jury having no prior knowledge of the case. The magistrates, therefore, have decided to hear the evidence in camera."

At the inquest, after sitting for nearly four hours, a jury returned a verdict of manslaughter against Ruscoe, who was driver of a car which was alleged to have struck Mrs. Crossley on a path between Burton Joyce and Lowdham, on the night of May 22.

When charged with manslaughter Ruscoe said, "I plead not guilty."

ENGLISH GIRL IN STATES.

GIVEN POLICE GUARD.

Miss Sylvia May Bradshaw, the 24-year-old Hove (Sussex) girl, who was recently cleared of espionage accusations in Louisiana, arrived in New York by air yesterday on her way back to England. She sails on Wednesday.

A police escort which she had requested by telegraph met her at the air port to guard her against possible anti-Nazi demonstrations resulting from feeling aroused by America's spy investigation.

Miss Bradshaw's wire to the police read, "Because of wholly unfounded accusations of Nazism against me I fear possibilities of demonstrations during my stay in New York. Please furnish me with police protection."

RESCUES FROM TRAWLER.

TRADE BOARD HONOURS WOMAN.

The Board of Trade have awarded a binocular glass to Mr. William Maceachern for the leadership and courage displayed by him in connection with the rescue of the crew of the s.t. Exmouth, which went ashore near Smaull Point on March 9, 1938, during a gale and heavy seas, and have made monetary awards to Mr. Allan Maceachern, Mr. Donald Maclellan, Mr. Jas. Brown and Miss Margaret Macfayden, all of Islay, for the services which they rendered on the same occasion.

The s.t. Exmouth, with a crew of 11, went ashore about 4 a.m., and was first sighted by Miss Macfayden. She aroused Mr. William Maceachern, who immediately summoned Mr. A. Maceachern, Mr. Maclellan and Mr. Brown. The four of them reached the Exmouth, which was lying about 75 yards from the shore, at about 6.10 a.m. Rescues were effected by rocket apparatus, but two members of the crew were lost.

"Steve" Tells His Story

"DONOGHUE UP," the autobiography of Steve Donoghue. (Collins, 10s 6d.)

HAVING ridden his last race, Steve Donoghue has now written his autobiography. Autobiography is perhaps an ambitious word to describe the great little jockey's first appearance in print, for it is primarily an account of the races he has ridden and the horses he has loved, beginning with his first entry into a racing stable shod in the clogs in which he had tramped from the north of England to Newmarket, and ending with his last race—a happy conspiracy which just failed to give him his wish of riding in a last winner. No doubt in his new role of trainer he will soon garner enough experience to furnish material for another volume.

It is, as is only natural, essentially a "horsey" book which is sure to find an appreciative public among the racing world, but whether deliberately or by happy chance, Steve has written a book which even the novice, with his twice yearly flutter on the National and the Derby, can read and enjoy. It is a sportsman's book told in a sporting fashion with no grousings against bad luck or indiscretions about famous personalities which serve no good purpose.

It is not hard to understand why Donoghue was the greatest jockey of his day when reading of his uncanny understanding and love for the horses he rode. His horses were never mounts; each was an individual which Steve with his amazing instinct for dealing with animals, was able to get the utmost out of in pluck and endurance.

It is an education to learn how the famous jockeys win their races. To the casual race-goer it may seem merely a matter of getting a horse with enough speed and staying power plus a certain amount of skilful nursing, or vigorous use of hands and whip to pass the post a winner. But Steve won his races days before they were actually run with carefully thought out and executed tactics that made a small plan of campaign in itself.

The great horses of the past 20 years come to memory again as their classic races are re-run—Tetrarch, the unbeatable, great-hearted little Humorist, and Brown Jack, who saved many an empty wallet at Ascot for six years.

Steve writes in a plain, simple manner without any attempts at literary style, but his book makes genuine reading.

A Sordid, But Realistic Novel

"JULIE," Francis Stuart. (Collins, 7s 6d.)

"JULIE," Mr. Francis Stuart's latest novel, is a book which will not please all his admirers. It is an uneven piece of work; its characters are almost without exception unattractive, its surroundings unpleasant and its general atmosphere depressing, and yet the book has originality and is not overpoweringly gloomy.

Mr. Stuart makes no attempt to romanticise or gain sympathy for his people; he neither praises nor condemns. It is this detached, matter of fact attitude that in some measure saves the story from being merely sordid, but "Julie" is never Mr. Stuart at his best.

Julie, a girl in her early teens, comes from South Africa with an elder sister to try a cure for terrible headaches and a slight deformity that have made her an invalid all her life. The sister makes friends with a young Jew also on his way to London in search of a fortune quickly, not caring by what means he may obtain it.

From the beginning Goldberg is shown as he really is—a flashy vulgarian, greasy and unscrupulous, lacking in all finer feelings, but with a supreme self confidence and a crude animal magnetism. His vitality invests him with an adventurous charm for the sickly child Her operation is a success and Julie becomes normal physically, but remains mentally and emotionally undeveloped for her years.

The elder sister soon settles down to married suburban respectability and is ashamed of her one time ship board acquaintance who has gone into business as a fire assessor and by dabbling in arson is at last making money. Julie becomes his secretary and accomplice. Seven years' penal servitude for Goldberg breaks up their menage and Julie is left alone in the materialistic London that she fears and hates.

An idealistic young Irish poet falls in love with her childish charm. At this stage in her adventures, with her black woollen stockings and her pet tortoise she is far from the popular idea of a feminine "fire-raiser." She visits her poet in his Irish home and here it seems likely that the bogies which have tormented her ever since her first terrified experiences as a sick child transplanted from an African veldt into the vast unfeeling mechanism of London streets will be laid at last.

This is the only interlude of lightness and charm in her sorry story. But peace and beauty, when finally experienced, fail to satisfy her. She pawns her host's favourite fishing rod—as heinous a crime as arson!—to raise the fare back to England, where Goldberg is having his first visiting day in prison. Only with him, although she sees him in his true colours, does she feel alive and in the midst of things. With his money she sets up another business for him when he will be free again.

Certainly not a pleasant story, but it brings out Mr. Stuart's great feeling for reality which makes him write of such a sordid subject not for its innate sordidness itself, but because of its inescapable reality.

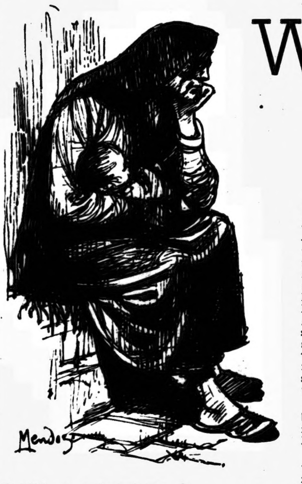
Women Don't Understand

Six Minute Story—No. 3: by CELIA DALE



LUCIA sat on the kerbstone. It was hot, very hot. The flies buzzed over the rubble and refuse in the shell-pitted road and over the face of the baby in her arms. As she sat she rocked her body to and fro, to and fro.

It was very hot and very still. Strangely still. All yesterday the guns had been firing, and at dawn they had begun again. Now they were silent. They had been silent for two, three hours, maybe. The silence was strange; it cowed the children, ten-year-old Tonia, five-year-old Ernesto. They huddled into her grimy skirt, and Ernesto whimpered a little. Tonia was silent, her huge eyes in her ancient, peaked little face watching the sun-washed sky.

• • • •

IT would be cooler in the house. But the house was no longer safe. All the upper walls had been blown away a month or more ago, and each time the guns started again a little more of it fell down.

There was the cellar still; but they had all — Papa, Mama, Lucia, and the three children —lived there since the bombardments began, and it was not very nice any more. Mama would not leave it. She had grown a little strange lately, and sat down there in the half-lit filth, mumbling and snarling, even at the children.

It was better to be in the street, in the sun, for a little.

Lucia sat on the kerbstone, rocking her body to and fro, to and fro. She did not think—she had never been one to think—but pictures kept coming before her eyes.

A picture of Manuel, her man, as she saw him last, one of many tramping away through the haze of white dust their boots raised about them. Manuel, her man. His square, swarthy face ablaze with rage. His fists crashing on the table. His voice, crying: "Tyrants, tyrants! We must kill the tyrants!" The ugly, burning faces of his friends, the roar of their answering voices.

• • • •

SHE had lost him then, before ever he went away with the others. He had been consumed with a holy rage that shut her out. Timidly she had asked, and he answered her with a lot of words about freedom, and honour, and democracy, and war. She had not understood at all.

Then he told her he was going to the war—"a war that we may live," he said.

She had not answered at once. Then slowly words filtered from her heart and from the child soon to be born (she rocked him in her arms now): "But is it not in peace that we find the way to live?"

Then he had answered her with many more words, and ended with: "Women do not understand these things."

No, Lucia had not understood. And now Manuel was dead, they said. She did not see how this could be so, but there had been no word from him. He went away with the others, singing, with the dust about his feet, and never saw the baby.

To and fro, to and fro she rocked. The baby was not well. He was pinched and weak and hardly cried. Because food was scarce her milk was almost gone, and he was too little for anything else.

It was very hot and very still, and the flies settled on her hair and on the baby's face.

• • • •

ANOTHER picture swam in the sunlight—of Alfonso, the eight-year-old, lying in the roadway after the explosion. Two angry men had taken his picture, had talked to her about a committee, of atrocities, of reprisals. But she had not heard because she was screaming—on and on, she could not stop. And they took Alfonso away and buried him.

That was a long time ago. She did not scream now. Yesterday, when hour after hour the bombardment crashed and splintered what was left of the town, she had crouched dumbly in the cellar with her dumb children—save Ernesto, who had been sick with the noise in his small ears, too small for such immensity of discord. And this morning, too, she had stayed dumb:

Then the noise had stopped. Silence dropped like a curtain over the quivering streets. Papa crawled out, old, wrinkled papa, who had cursed and wept all through the chaos. Later he came back, his rheumy eyes glittering, his voice cracking in the unaccustomed quiet.

"They are to enter the town!" he cried. "They think they have subdued the town! They have killed us all, save babies and the old. They think we are no longer worth bombarding. So now they are going to enter the town!"

"Will that mean peace?"

"They are to enter the town!" cried the old man shrilly, not hearing her, "but they shall not—not! They shall find we fight till none of us live. They shall not—they shall not!"

He went off babbling, a piece of spiked wood over his crooked shoulder, his old feet stumbling in the wrecked roads. That was some time ago. And still only the buzz of flies disturbed the silence.

Lucia frowned as she rocked to and fro, for she was trying to understand. All the men of her family were gone now, so it was important she should understand. But it was difficult. She heard again Manuel's voice, half-jeering, half-tender: "Women do not understand honour."

It was true. How should she? All she had learned to understand in her life was living—the bearing, the feeding, the cherishing of life. What else could there be but to live? She frowned and rocked while Ernesto made little trenches in the dust with his fingers, and Tonia watched the sky.

• • • •

SUDDENLY in the distance there was a scream. Lucia stiffened and raised her head. There came another, then another—pebble after pebble plunging into the depth of stillness, shattering and flickering through the heavy air, reverberating between the derelict houses. Screams not of pain but of hysteria, almost—but how could it be?—of joy.

She pulled herself to her feet, grasping the baby, clutching Tonia by the hand, listening, looking towards the sound. All the heavy, dead air seemed to be fluttering, pulsing with movement and tumult out of sight, from where the voices came.

Mounting and fluttering, bellying through the streets like a storm, screams and shouts, a snatch of song, and screams again, mounting and nearing.

• • • •

AT the bottom of the street two men appeared. They were dusty and weary. They carried rifles. They walked forward with heavy feet. Behind them came three others, and behind them many more, but they were difficult to see because about them, screaming, singing, weeping, embracing, were women.

They swarmed about the armed, advancing men, flinging their arms about them, catching their gunned hands and kissing them, weeping. A little sheepish, the men advanced among them up the street.

Lucia stared. Then a low, hoarse cry, half sob, half cheer, broke from her. Dragging Tonia, Ernesto clinging to her ragged skirt, the baby jogging at her empty breast, she began to run towards the men. As she ran the unfamiliar tears burned down her cheeks. The air was full of shouts and sobs and song.

She flung herself down on her knees in the rubbled road, and as the men who had killed her man marched over her, she kissed their feet and wept.

HOW THEY LAUGH IN TYRONE

REALLY happy look these two youngsters in this week's best snap in our Happy Childhood Competition. To Mr. James P. Duff, of Coagh, Co. Tyrone, goes the prize of half-a-guinea, which the picture wins.

Another 10/6 awaits the entrant of next week's happiest child picture. Address your entries to "Happy Childhood Competition," Belfast Telegraph, Royal Avenue, Belfast, and post them to arrive not later than first post on Wednesday, June 22. Enclose a stamped envelope if you want your snap returned.

Surname Sidelights—GRIERSON

FIRST came the esteemed baptismal name Gregory. From this were derived the names Grigor and Gregor. Naturally, Gregorson followed on, but Grier was in use as a shorter form of Gregor and, therefore, Grierson was inevitable.

Some have ascribed the name to the source of Grayson, and Grearson, as indicating the son of the reeve. One has declared that Yorkshire is the true early home of the name. Whatever may be said for this, it is certain that the majority of Griersons owe their name to the variant of Gregor.

The main stream came from the Griersons of Lag. Their ancestor was Gilbert, the second son of the Celtic thane, Malcolm Dominus de Macgregor, who settled in Dumfries-shire about the fourteenth century. Here we have evidence of the link of the surname with that of Gregor.

THE Sir Robert Redgauntlet of the novel by Sir Walter Scott was a notorious Grierson of Lag. This was Sir Robert Grierson, who harried the Covenanters without mercy; he also presided at the trial and execution of the Wigtown martyrs. The Martyrs' Monument at Dumfries shows that one of his name stood with those who suffered. The inscription states that "near this spot were deposited the remains of William Grierson and William Welsh, who suffered death for their adherence to the principles of the Reformation, January 2, 1667."

In the sixteenth century John Grierson, who was principal of King's College, Aberdeen, became Prior of St. Andrews and Principal of Scotland. There is at Dumfries a Grierson's Terrace which some visitors are apt to think got its name from the Laird of Lag or the Pentland Martyr. But it is simply the name of the John Grierson who built it.

SCOTT refers to Tom Grierson in the service of his father. He was a friend of Robert Burns and had hoped to bring the two poets together. One of the intimate friends of Dean Swift was Constantia Grierson, a lady of many parts, for she edited Latin classics for her husband, who was the printer to George II. in Ireland.

The late Dr. Grierson, for fifteen years Bishop of Down and Connor and Dromore, died three years ago. His family was of Scottish origin, the Irish branch being founded by Sir James Grierson, of Dumfries, who died in 1666. The late Dr. Grierson's brother is Sir George Abraham Grierson, K.C.I.E., the distinguished philologist, who is 87.

Sir Robert G. W. Grierson is the tenth baronet of Lag, and he served through the European War with the King's Own Scottish Borderers.

Next week: BUTCHER.

THE DOCTOR'S CORNER.

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION

THE most urgent matter in the treatment of an apparently drowned person is to apply artificial respiration.

The victim is laid face downwards, with arms stretched forward and head turned to one side. The rescuer kneels down and places his outstretched hands with the thumbs on each side of the spine below the shoulder-blades of the patient. Steady pressure is then exerted with the body through the straightened arms about fifteen times a minute, and pressure is completely relaxed each time.

This is continued by relays of helpers until recovery is apparent or a doctor advises that further treatment is of no avail.

A PLAIN MAN'S SERMON

What Are Morals?

MANY people imagine that morality and religion are much the same thing. Christianity has established such a close connection between them that they seem to us to be inseparable. Nevertheless you can have morality without religion, and religion without morality.

Few nations have paid more attention to religion than did the Greeks and Romans. Their lands were covered with temples, shrines and altars, where an array of gods and goddesses, numbered by the hundred, were worshipped. Religion played an immensely important part in both public and private life.

But it had no connection whatever with morality, and it provided no motive for right conduct. So far from this being the case, the gods themselves, according to popular mythology, were lacking in morality, and the fact that they were represented as being deceitful, vindictive and adulterous did not in the least trouble the mind of the Greek or Roman.

The most religious country in the world at the present time is India: but a visit to any Hindu temple will show at once that there is no conception in the Hindu mind that religion and morality have anything to do with each other.

Atheism

SO religion is clearly not the same thing as morality. On the other hand, it is possible for people of very strong character to be moral without practising any kind of religion. An atheist can be an entirely moral man. It seems, therefore, worth while to try to answer the question: Where does the difference between morality and religion lie?

The word "moral" comes from the Latin word "mores," which means customs. Quite literally, therefore, to be moral means to conform to the customs of the country, State, or society (in the widest sense of that word) in which one lives. So that there are different kinds and standards of morality, and conduct which would be considered moral in one country would not necessarily be so in another. It depends on what are the accepted standards of conduct amongst a particular people.

A Hindu and a Briton have totally different moral standards. So morality is essentially something relative, and it is, for all practical purposes, dependent upon what is called public opinion. An Arab with several wives is accounted a perfectly moral man. A Briton in the same circumstances would be considered immoral.

We must not forget to give to the word "moral" its true meaning; for the word has come to be restricted in most people's minds to one particular kind of wrong-doing. But the thief, liar, extortioner, glutton and drunkard are all equally immoral people.

Now it is obvious that there are many reasons for which a man may be moral. He may, for instance, be honest because "honesty is the best policy," and not because honesty is right in itself. Or he may abstain from vice because it is dangerous to health; or he may avoid crime because he is afraid of the police. There are many people who are moral, not from any really good motive, but simply because they lack the enterprise and daring to be otherwise.

So morality may be something which is merely negative, and quite uninspiring. It may be due to no better motive than the desire to be considered respectable, and to be thought well of by one's friends and neighbours. It can, in fact, arise from nothing better than enlightened self-interest.

Sincere

BUT it is quite otherwise with religion: by "religion" I am speaking of the Christian religion, and of religion which is sincere and genuine.

The derivation of the word does not seem to be quite certain, but it seems to come from a Latin root which means "to tie." It would therefore mean that which is a tie or a bond—in this case, between a man and his God. It is that which brings God into a man's life, and which gives Him a very definite place in it.

The conduct of a really religious man is regulated, not by what is believed to be prudent or advantageous, but by what he believes to be the will of God. The motive behind his conduct is not that of falling into line with public opinion, but of obedience to God. And that makes, not merely a difference, but all the difference.

For the Christian man God is known in and through Jesus Christ; and the Christian religion, in a nutshell, means trying to live such a life as Christ would approve. Christianity is really just one simple thing, a friendship with Jesus Christ.

So that the fundamental difference between morality and religion is that religion supplies a motive for doing right, which is the highest that there can possibly be. "The love of Christ constraineth us." That is the motive which regulates the Christian's conduct.

So far from doing right for reasons of prudence or policy or self-advantage, a Christian man's religion will often lead him to do right at great cost and sacrifice to himself. It also enables him to stand fast in the time of temptation, where the motives upon which the mere moralist relies would often not be strong enough to prevail.

We may sum up by saying that, whereas the moral man looks inward to himself and to his own resources, the religious man looks outside himself to Christ, from Whom he takes his orders, and to Whom he looks for strength.

REV. L. B. ASHBY

NAZI PERSECUTION OF JEWS.

THE OFFICIAL PRETEXT

FOR THE LATEST OUTRAGES.

VIENNA REFUGEES BLAMED.

Anti-Jewish demonstrations bearing a close resemblance to those organised in Vienna when Austria was annexed have occurred in Berlin. They were accompanied by violence.

It is officially denied that looting took place, although this is alleged by people of the Frankfurter Allee district in the east of the city.

The official explanation of the incidents is that "thousands of Jews have recently come from Vienna to Berlin. Their attitude has been so insulting and provocative that many people have shown increasing indignation. To prevent worse things from happening it has been decided to take a portion of the Jews into custody. This process will last a few days more until all cafes and boarding houses have been thoroughly combed out."

It is added that of the 6,746 doctors in Berlin 1,758 are Jews, but no reference is made to the fact that very few patients still dare to attend a Jewish doctor.

According to a semi-official statement the number of Jews arrested in police raids on Thursday was 143, of whom 26 were of no nationality and 51 were foreigners with defective identity papers.

"CRIMINAL ELEMENTS."

These persons, it is added, were "criminal and anti-social elements," and were to be distinguished from a certain number of Jews who had been taken into "protective custody" in view of "popular excitement" at the arrival from Vienna of undesirable Jews.

Official sources have not disclosed the number of recent arrests, but these probably total well over 1,000.

The demonstrations in the Frankfurter Allee district took the form of painting the word "Jew" on certain shop windows, which were then broken with stones.

Crowds which I watched on Friday (says the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" correspondent), though partly influenced by the general spread of the Nazis' anti-Semitic doctrines, were by no means in a demonstrative mood. The general attitude was more sympathetic than hostile to the Jewish victims.

In other parts of Berlin similar systematic attacks are being carried out. Jewish shopkeepers in the Kurfuerstendamm, the chief West End street, were ordered to paint their names on the shop windows and to retain the inscriptions above the doors.

Elsewhere epithets are being painted on pavements outside Jewish shops. This is done at the dead of night, and the police ignore it. This proves that there is Nazi authority for the actions.

QUESTIONS FOR PARENTS.

Another proof that the demonstrations are organised and carefully timed is afforded by the fact that in the schools the children were instructed to tell their parents that they must cease buying in Jewish shops.

The children have been encouraged to ask one another where their parents buy school clothing. Any boy or girl who admits that it comes from a Jewish shop must stand in a corner alone for an hour.

Children are forbidden to speak or play with Jewish children, and "Hitler girls" have been ordered to denounce their parents if they enter Jewish stores.

A decree published forbids Jews to take any part in horse-racing, but significantly excepts non-German Jews. Non-Aryan horse-breeders are also debarred from receiving bonuses.

TESTING THE PUBLIC.

The reason for the fresh outburst of persecution is hard to find. It runs counter to public opinion, at all events in Berlin. But there is little doubt that an important motive is the desire to test the public's reaction on the Jewish question, and, if necessary, to intensify the hatred which in some quarters had recently begun to abate.

The purpose is, of course, to have a scapegoat at hand when other difficulties arise.

Under present regulations Jews cannot emigrate from Germany without completely impoverishing themselves. Other countries then reject them because they have no means of subsistence. They must, therefore, remain and take what comes.

On Friday evening groups of young boys between nine and 13 years of age, egged on by youths and adults, marched along the streets of the East End of Berlin—in particular the Frankfurter Allee—carrying buckets of white paint and brushes

They made their way to shops pointed out to them as Jewish and proceeded to daub the windows with stars of David and in some cases with rough outlines of gallows

Jews were forbidden to enter the narrow park which fringes the Danube Canal curving through the centre of Vienna (states the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" correspondent). There have been several disturbances recently in this park, but they do not seem to have been provoked by Jews.

BARON STILL IN PRISON.

Baron Louis Rothschild is still confined in the Central Prison in Vienna.

His friends in Vienna understand that he is being held severely to account for the collapse of the Credit Anstalt, of which he was president, with enormous financial losses to Austria and repercussions thoroughout the financial world, especially in London.

A rumour that a specific sum of £2,000,000 is being demanded from the Rothschild family abroad as ransom for Baron Louis, and that, if this amount is forthcoming, he will be allowed to leave Austria, is not credited in Vienna.

The Credit Anstalt enterprises in Austria controlled more than half the important private firms in Vienna.

THE AUSTRIAN LOANS.

GERMAN PRESS VIEWS.

BERLIN, Friday.—The German Press to-day devotes its leading articles to the speech delivered yesterday by Herr Funk, the German Minister of Economics, who announced that Germany was not prepared to take over legal responsibility for the Austrian State loans, writes the "Daily Telegraph and Morning Post" correspondent.

A great part of to-day's comment is devoted to supporting Herr Funk's argument that all three of the loans concerned bore a political character, and were also "hostile to the Reich" inasmuch as they were intended to support Austrian independence, which is always described here as artificial and unnatural.

The "Voelkischer Beobachter," the chief Nazi morning organ, definitely states that "even apart from the legal point of view there can be no question of giving a full service on these loans." It adds, however, that "this does not in any way imply that the whole question of trade relationships between Germany and England cannot be discussed and solved in the course of the negotiations now proceeding."

The article continues:—"It was, we understand, evident at an early stage of the conversations that they could be made to include matters concerning both the exchange of goods and debts where the German Reich as distinct from Austria is concerned.

"Germany considers that agreement could be reached if goodwill is shown on both sides. If, however, the British still insist on a 'clearing' they will be obliged to arrange it unilaterally. They will hold back money from German exporters who are not their debtors. Whether that is fair or not is a matter which British traders can decide just as well as we can."

Other newspapers comment in similar terms and the expression, "anti-Anschluss loans," has now been coined to support Herr Funk's thesis. Some suggest that a compulsory clearing would be a bad thing for England in view of Germany's alleged economic stability and improving trade. Others are more realistic, but argue that a mere question of legal principle is not sufficiently important to justify the prospect of spoiling a possible agreement.

The German official news agency to-day gives a completely misleading account of the British attitude as expressed in the London Press this morning. The excerpts given are manipulated in such a way as to suggest that the views put forward by Herr Funk, the German Minister of Economics, in his speech yesterday are shared in the City.

Thus the only reference to the "Daily Telegraph" leading article is the following:—"The 'Daily Telegraph' points out that the declarations made yesterday by Herr Funk imply that though Germany denies legal responsibility she nevertheless is ready to seek a compromise in other ways. This statement by the Minister will certainly meet with a responsive action on the British side. No one in Great Britain wants to resort to a compulsory clearing if this can be avoided."

The newspapers which maintain their own correspondents in London give a fairer picture of the question.

THE BIBLE QUATER-CENTENARY.

RABBI'S REFERENCE.

ITS PART IN CIVILISATION.

HEBREWS' GREATEST GIFT.

Rabbi J. Schachter, M.A., made reference at the morning service in the Belfast Synagogue to-day, to the fourth centenary of the "Open Bible," which is now being celebrated by the people of Great Britain, in the course of which he said a commemoration of this nature, the subject of which was the Hebrew contribution to Western civilisation, nay, the Hebrew's greatest gift to humanity, could not but stir the heart of every Jew. There was a commonly known tripartite division of civilisation. To Rome the Western world owed its conception of law, to Greece its standard of æsthetics, and to Israel its religion and its ethics. This was too familiar to require any amplification. Still, in view of contemporary developments, new stress must be laid on the value of the essential principles of Hebraism, which formed the framework of European spiritual life.

Though so obvious, yet at that stage it suffered repetition, that it was the Hebraic heritage with its ideas of the value of human life, respect for the human mind and intellectual advancement—the sanctity of the home and the dignity of the marital relationship which passed through Jewish channels, even in a modified form to Europe and were now cherished by 650 million Christians throughout the world. It also formed the kernel of the creed of 220 million Moslems. But the chief of the Hebraic contribution to the everlasting truths of religion, that which was the quintessential embodiment of all philosophy was the idea of Divine Unity which necessarily extended itself to human brotherhood, since the one God must be the God of the whole of humanity.

PROPHETIC VISION.

The dogma of Monotheism also formed the background to the prophetic vision of universal peace which had stirred mankind down to our own day.

In the present age when some people had returned to the old notion that conquest was to be regarded as the natural right of the stronger, and victorious wars as the ideal of powerful States, it was no exaggeration to say that it was only in the re-affirmation of the Hebraic principle of equality of all before the one God in the conduct of human affairs that the future of civilisation depended. Along, however, with the Monotheistic idea, it was the overwhelming passion for righteousness and social justice as taught by Amos and Micah which must ultimately become part of the common heritage of mankind. Again the literary influence of the Bible was so enormous that it could not be sufficiently expressed in words.

With many people the Bible was the first book to be translated, and particularly upon the English people the stimulus of its literature was incalculable. The version "authorised" by James I. in 1611 had saturated and coloured their national mind and moulded their character. Indeed for the whole of Europe, especially for the so-called Nordic peoples, the Bible played an almost dominant literary role. Luther's translation into High German marked the beginning of modern German literature.

THE IRONY OF THE TIMES.

It was the irony of the times that the great Nazi orators, when they held their thousands of listeners spellbound by their command of the language, did not realise that they were making use of an instrument which became what it was to-day only through the force of the classic Book of the Hebrews, whose descendants they subjected to the inhuman passions of the mobs.

It is indeed a great commemoration. One which came as a potent reminder to the English speaking nations of the Bible's eternal contribution to British civilisation.

It was a timely clarion call to the world that in spite of the tidal waves of fear and hate, paganism, and barbarism which swept over countries abroad, life's fundamental ideals, namely, love for fellow men, justice, righteousness, and mercy, which were the guiding stars in the British Constitution, would continue to be revered as hitherto by both the individual and the nation.

"We live," went on the Rabbi, "it is true, in a broken world. Civilisation lies prostrate. A tempest of hatred and inhumanity has been loosed in some countries, not only against the descendants of the authors of the Bible, but against the Bible itself, which is now displaced by Teutonic myths and pagan beliefs."

INDOMITABLE: INSUPERABLE.

"The Eternal Book, however, has already imbued the soul of man with an indomitable, unconquerable, insuperable something that can neither be threatened nor cajoled, neither muzzled nor expelled. It is the small conscience, within the soul of man, which though temporarily dormant, will awaken in time to resist a common danger, to combat such doctrines which can have no other outcome than to plunge the universe into a co-operative suicide. This can only be prevented by the restoration of the Moral Code of Sinai."

SERIOUS DUNGANNON CHARGE.

At a special court in Dungannon, before Mr. J. O. H. Long, R.M., District-Inspector Duffy charged John Plunkett, Derryadd, Lisnaskea, and Mrs. Sarah Thompson, maternity nurse, Newtownkelly, Coalisland, with a serious offence. Mr. A. P. Orr appeared for Mrs. Thompson and Mr. J. P. Murphy for Plunkett.

Both were remanded for a week.

The district inspector strongly opposed the granting of bail to Plunkett stating that the police had been searching for him for six or eight weeks and when arrested in Belfast passports and tickets for New Zealand were found in his possession.

Plunkett was remanded in custody for a week, and bail was fixed at £200 for the woman.

GERMANY'S DEFAULT.

REMINDER FROM THE U.S.

WASHINGTON, Friday.—Mr. Cordell Hull, U.S. Secretary of State, revealed to-day that he sent a note to Germany on June 9 reminding that nation that no reply had been received to the demand for payment of interest on Austrian loans.

He declared that the United States while recognising that Germany was engaged in negotiations covering this question, regrets that the service to American holders has been interrupted.

Mr. Hull requested an early reply.—Central News.

WITH BOY SCOUTS.

NATIONAL WEEK OPENING.

BRITISH PARTY FOR SWEDEN

EAST BELFAST SPORTS.

National Scout week, which began to-day and will continue until June 26, is the first of its kind ever to be held in the British Isles. The week commences with big rallies in parks, sports grounds and other suitable places throughout Great Britain. Even the smallest of villages are arranging programmes of Scouting activities, concerts, dances, whist drives, physical training displays, and various other events. It will be a full week of activity for Scouts, during which they are trying to raise money in collections and donations for the Boy Scout fund. This nation-wide appeal has brought Scouting very much to the fore, and Lord Somers, Deputy Chief Scout, has sent a message to Scouts asking them to do their best to keep up the standard of our Scouting.

Mr. Ralph Reader, producer of the "Gang Shows" and "Boy Scout," and six of his Troop (20th Holborn Sea Scouts), left on Wednesday for the Empire Exhibition, having spent a week at Magheramorne, County Antrim. Mr. Reader is now one of Scouting's best-known personalities. It was with obvious delight that some 150 Belfast Scouts and Rovers attended at the 78th headquarters, Glandore Avenue, on Tuesday evening, at the invitation of Mr. Wm. Johnston, LL.B., to meet Mr. Reader and his boys. At the close of the programme the "Londonderry Air" was played on a mouth organ by Rover W. Pressagh, and all joined in the singing of Auld Lang Sang and the National Anthem. Those present included Mr. Arthur Black, K.C., M.P.; Major J. M. Henderson, and Commissioners J. H. Norritt, J. H. Britton, D. M. Newburn, R. R. Clark, and Mr. Ernest Moore, secretary for Ulster.

A wet Saturday did not daunt the ardour of the 46 Patrol Leaders of Belfast County at the week-end camp at Wilmont, Dunmurry, on June 11-12. The tents were pitched under a steady drizzle that upset the scheduled programme for the evening. A camp fire was out of the question, but at intervals during the evening small groups in tents indulged in sing songs. After breakfast the campers went to morning service in Dunmurry Presbyterian Church. In the afternoon the camp was visited by District Commissioner J. H. Britton.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SERVICES.

Methodist Boy Scout Groups will take part in the Methodist Conference Young People's Parade to the Grosvenor Hall to-morrow afternoon. The three Belfast Scout Districts will be under Acting-Scoutmasters, and the contingent will be under the charge of Group Scoutmaster A. A. M'Gladdery, 46th Belfast (Carlisle Memorial). The Wolf Cubs of North Belfast are also having a Church Parade to-morrow afternoon. At St. James' Church, Antrim Road, the service will be taken by the Rev. H. A. M'Kegney, Assistant County Commissioner for Londonderry.

District Commissioner J. H. Britton, who is to look after the Ulster Scouts in the British contingent to Sweden, is anxious to complete his party and get ahead with the final arrangements. Those who have already been accepted, and any others who wish to be included, will meet the Commissioner on Wednesday next at 75, Upper Arthur Street. The Ulster boys will leave Belfast on July 25 and return home on August 12.

The East Belfast District Scout sports are to be held at Gibson Park on Wednesday evening, June 22, commencing at 6-30 p.m. The programme includes events for Rovers, Scouts and Cubs, and prizes are to be awarded. In the Rover Scout section four of the five events will have direct bearing upon the selection of a Rover Scout team to represent East Belfast in the Belfast County Championships and the Glasgow Shield. Practically every Group has forwarded entries to Assistant District Commissioner Thos. M'Mullan. Other districts are invited to support East Belfast in this annual show.

At a meeting of the East Belfast Executive Committee, Major J. M. Henderson, presiding, there were 12 members present. All were sorry to receive the resignation of Mr. J. G. Humphries, and expressions of appreciation of Mr. Humphries' work were made. Miss M'Cormick, District Cub Mistress for East, reported a most successful outing at Carrickfergus, where a large percentage of East Belfast Cubs attended. A discussion took place in respect to accommodation for certain Groups in East. No decision, however, was reached, but the matter is still before the committee.

WHITEABBEY CELEBRATION.

The 23rd Belfast (Whiteabbey) Group of Boy Scouts' Ladies' Committee held a dance in the British Legion Memorial Hall, Whiteabbey, to celebrate the winning of the Belfast Boy Scout League Football Championship. Mr. Mills, S.M. of the 26th Belfast, was present with the members of the 26th team, who were runners-up in the competition. At the opening, G.S.M. J. White thanked the Ladies' Committee for the work they had done. Mr. J. Neally welcomed the members of the 26th, and Mr. Lloyd Campbell, president of the 23rd, presented the Whiteabbey boys with their medals. Patrol Leader Jim M'Crudden, captain of the team, on behalf of the Troop presented Mr. Campbell with the cup.

The recently-formed 80th Group is working very enthusiastically in Grovefield Old School, Woodstock Road, under the direction of Scoutmaster A. Galbraith, with Assistant Scoutmaster P. Newton Anderson. The Cubs are under Cubmaster Best, and Miss Jackson as A.C.M. At a special parade the warrants were handed over to the Scouters by District Commissioner J. H. Norritt. Camping arrangements are well in hand. The Scouts are going to Killyleagh, where Mr. Martin, J.P., allocates excellent camping facilities. Efforts are being made to form a Group Committee, and at the meeting several parents and friends offered their services.

ORANGEFIELD PARISH GROUP.

The 51st Group (Orangefield Parish) is also progressing steadily. Arrangements are well in hand for the annual camp to Magilligan, County Derry. The G.S.M., Rev. Geo. W. L. Hill, M.A., has given a splendid lead, and the church should be proud of its Groups of Scouts and Cubs. Mr. Walter Jones, who will shortly take out a warrant as Assistant Scoutmaster, will be welcomed.

The 18th Group (Willowfield Parish) continues to make excellent headway. Camp this year will be held at Aughengillan, the Glasgow Scouting ground.

The East District is glad to note the splendid development of the 9th Group (Mersey Street Presbyterian Church Mission) under the direction of District Scoutmaster Rev. W. A. Kennedy, M.A. The annual camp will be held at Aughengillan. Mr. Kennedy is holder of the Gilwell Wood Badge, the recognised efficiency mark of Scoutcraft.

The 66th Wolf Cubs (Cregagh Presbyterian Church) are preparing for camp, and Cubmaster Miss J. M'Cormick is busy making and selling marmalade to raise funds to help to pay the cost.

Mr. Ernest Moore, secretary of the Ulster Boy Scouts Association, and Deputy Camp Chief, leaves to-day for Gilwell Park, London, to assist in a training course, which commences on Monday.

The 26th Rover Scouts (Gibson Park) are just concluding a very successful session. Weekly meetings have been well attended, and on Friday next both active and honorary members will have their final indoor meeting.

CHURCH LADS' BRIGADE.

COLONEL COMMANDANT FRYER.

Colonel Commandant A. Fryer, M.M., has been appointed to the Reserve of Officers of the Church Lads' Brigade and will retain his rank. Colonel Fryer who was recently appointed Governor of Londonderry Prison was formerly Commander-in-Chief of the C.L.B. in Ireland. He commanded the Down and Connor and Dromore Regiment and was founder of Lambeg Jubilee Company. He was the youngest Colonel-Commandant in the movement and the first Irishman to hold high field rank.

The British delegation is headed by Mr. T. A. Warren, of Wolverhampton, president of the Rotary International of the British Isles; Mr. P. H. W. Almy, first vice-president and president-elect of the R.I.B.I., and Mr. T. D. Young, second vice-president.

During their stay in America the delegates will visit Chicago, Grand Canyon, Los Angeles, Toronto, and Niagara Falls.—Reuter.

"LET THAT VOICE CEASE."

COURT-MARTIAL INTERLUDE.

A court-martial was sitting at Brompton Barracks, Chatham, yesterday afternoon when a harsh voice was heard describing the beauties of blonde and red-headed film stars, green cheeses, and elephants—among other things.

The sound drowned the voices of witnesses.

The President (Major F. Spicer), trying to take notes of the evidence, finally gave it up and demanded, "What on earth is this voice? Let that voice cease at once."

N.C.O.'s went at "the double" across the parade ground, and the voice suddenly was silent.

The President was informed that the voice was that of an announcer, who was testing a loud-speaker erected for a veteran's parade by reading extracts from magazines.

DAIRY CATTLE INSPECTION

IN THE MAGHERA DISTRICT.

The annual inspection of dairy cattle was held on Friday at the following centres: — Maghera, Knockloughrim, Tobermore and Upperlands. Mr. M. J. M'Garry, Inspector from the Ministry of Agriculture, was present. Eighteen dairy cows were shown and all were passed for entry in the Ministry's Register of dairy cattle. This is a record for the association.

Mr. M'Garry congratulated several of the owners on the good type and formation of the animals.

The inspector allotted the points for body and udder formation in conjunction with milk yields to the four best cows in the association, four best cows registred this year, and the best first calving heifer.

Following is the order of competition:

Cows registered previous to 1938:—1, John Walsh—Cow Lily (300.41 points); 2, William Henry—Milkmaid (297.47); 3, J. P. M'Gurk—Armour (258.38); 4, T. V. Shiels—Whiteface (248.94).

Cows registered in 1938:—1, William Henry—Perfection (290.53 points); 2, Thomas Graham—Fannie (277.81); 3, Robert Porter—Heather (266.60); 4, James Henderson—Red Cow (265.32).

Best first calving heifer:—William Kyle, Culnady—Red Rose (242.50 points).

The arrangements for the inspection were carried out by the supervisor, S. T. M'Dowell.

COLERAINE UNION APPOINTMENTS.

NEW ASSISTANT MATRON.

MINISTRY AND CLERK OF WORKS.

At a meeting of Coleraine Board of Guardians to-day—Mrs. Kydd presiding—Miss A. M. M'Fetridge, Moneybrannon, Aghadowey, was appointed assistant matron in the workhouse.

Mr. H. Hezlett, J.P. (chairman), presided at a meeting of the Rural District Council at which a letter was read from the Ministry of Home Affairs adhering to their decision not to approve of the appointment of Mr. E. M'Math, Ballinteer, as clerk of works in connection with the scheme for the erection of 244 labourers' cottages. The Ministry held that Mr. M'Math did not possess the necessary qualifications.

The Council appointed to the position Mr. Robert Turner, Drumard, Kilrea, a previous applicant.

THE BOY WHO WAS ABSENT.

"YOU WILL NEVER SEE HIM AGAIN."

Addressing the 200 boys gathered for prize-giving at Middle Park School in the Eltham (London) district, Captain F. W. Beach referred to the absence of one boy and added: "I am afraid you will not see him again."

Captain Beech, a member of the L.C.C. was announcing the death of eight-year-old Roger Tegg. The boys stood in silence for a minute. Overnight the child was playing near the level crossing at Mottinghom when he came in contact with a live wire. A train struck him and he died in Lewisham Hospital.

HOLYWOOD'S NEW MINISTER

PRESBYTERIAN (N.S.) CHURCH.

There was a large congregation at High Street Presbyterian (N.S.) Church on Friday evening, when the Rev. Charles J. Montgomery, M.A., Colwyn Bay, North Wales, was ordained and installed as minister of the church in place of Rev. Edgar Lockett, who accepted a call to Glenarm.

The new minister is a grandson of the Rev. Charles James M'Alester, a former member of the congregation, whose great work is commemorated by a memorial in the church grounds.

The service was conducted by the Moderator of the Presbytery, Rev. J. Shaw Brown, of Clough, and the Rev. R. Hall preached the sermon. The charge to the minister and people was given by Rev. C. V. Cook; prayer was offered by Rev. A. M. Bell, M.A., and Rev. Dr. A. L. Agnew expounded the Non-Subscribing Church doctrine.

After the ceremony, the members of the Presbytery and visitors were entertained to tea by the ladies of the congregation.

Mr. A. W. Perry, J.P., clerk of the Londonderry Union, who to-day completed 50 years' service with the Board of Guardians. He succeeded his brother, the late Mr. W. L. Perry, who was appointed clerk in 1888 and who had entered the service in February, 1873, the two brothers therefore having 65 years' continuous service.

BELFAST THEATRES SURVEY.

SEEING ERROL FLYNN.

THREE STARS AT HIPPO.

CRUMLIN, CLASSIC AND RITZ.

Rafael Sabatini's "Captain Blood" opens a week's run at the Royal Cinema on Monday with Errol Flynn in the title role supported by Olivia De Havilland, Lionel Atwill and Basil Rathbone. The picture is on a very lavish scale, sixteenth century cities, pirate ships, slave ships and English and French men-o-war having been built specially for it, but outstanding is the performance of Belfast's own actor.

BELFAST HIPPODROME.

"Beg, Borrow or Steal," the first feature at the Hippodrome has Frank Morgan, Florence Rice and John Beal in the amusing story of crooks who pose as nobility on the Riviera and in which the marriage of Morgan's daughter is upset because she marries the wrong man. The second feature, "Love on Toast," has Stella Ardler and John Payne in a beauty contest (with marriage as its objective) comedy.

CRUMLIN PICTURE HOUSE.

Frauds on insurance companies through faked road accidents are the subject of an exciting film called, "The Scotland Yard Mystery," showing at the Crumlin Picture House on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Sir Gerald Du Maurier is the star. The week-end feature, "China Passage," is a drama of the Customs' Secret Service in Shanghai, which spreads via a liner to 'Frisco. Constance Worth is the principal secret agent.

CLASSIC CINEMA.

Nova Pilbeam, who flashed into the cinema sky in "Little Friend" and "Tudor Rose," will be seen at the Classic next week in a grown-up role in, "Young and Innocent," in which she is faced with the dilemma of handing over her lover to justice or allowing him to escape. "Alcatraz Island," the second feature, stars John Litel and Ann Sheridan in a grim but fascinating story of G-men and racketeers.

RITZ THEATRE.

Grace Moore, Melvyn Douglas and Stuart Erwin star in, "I'll Take Romance," at the Ritz Theatre next week, in which the first-named star displays her lovely voice in many operatic excerpts and as well joins her two male partners in a burlesque of the hill-billy, "She'll be Coming Round the Mountain." The second feature, "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry," stars Sophie Tucker, Judy Garland, Mickey Rooney, Ronald Sinclair and C. Aubrey Smith.

ROUND OF THE HOUSES.

FEATURES OF PROGRAMMES.

The Empire continues its variety successes with a programme headed by The Seven Elliotts. The Picture House features all week Robert Marshall and Barbara Stanwyck in "Breakfast for Two" and Chester Morris in "Flight From Glory." The Imperial next week screens "Life Begins with Love," a comedy starring Jean Parker and Douglas Montgomery, and "Paid to Dance." The features for early week at the Park will be "Forlorn River" and "Easy Living," and on Thursday the change brings "Wild Money" and "She's No Lady." The Duncairn has for early week "Scarface" and "Nobody's Baby," and "Sing as You Swing" at the week-end.

CHINA'S FLOOD AREA INCREASES.

700,000 THREATENED.

100,000 BEYOND RESCUE.

3,500 VILLAGES UNDER WATER.

SHANGHAI, Saturday.—Breaking silence on the floods, the Japanese military authorities to-day officially announced that the flood area in Honan Province has increased by 400 square miles in the past twenty-four hours, and now totals 1,000 square miles.

Two thousand villages are completely submerged and fifteen hundred partly submerged.

Seven hundred thousand people are threatened. Of these 100,000 are beyond rescue.

Many flood refugees are subsisting on roots.—Foreign Special.

CHINESE GUERILLAS ACTIVE.

SHANGHAI, Saturday. — Chinese guerillas are active in the Haiyen and Haining districts in North-Eastern Chekiang, south of Shanghai. They are threatening the Japanese lines of communication between Shanghai and Hangchow, the most southerly point of the Japanese occupation of China.

With their homes destroyed in previous fighting, Chinese farmers in these districts have joined the guerillas in their attacks on the Japanese forces.

According to a Reuter dispatch from Canton, a widespread search is being carried out in the country north of the city for an unknown number of Japanese airmen.

They are believed to have escaped by parachute when six Japanese bombers were shot down by Chinese pursuit 'planes while raiding the Canton-Hankow Railway earlier this week.

The Chinese claim that the wreckage of all the 'planes and four bodies have been found. One airman was captured alive.

A manifesto condemning General Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese Commander-in-Chief, for his "scorched earth" policy was issued in Peking to-day by the Japanese-sponsored Government there.

"The policy manifested in the cutting of the Yellow River embankments serves no purpose but the destruction of the Chinese State and the impoverishment of the people," the manifesto declares.

It urges Chiang to "take the long view, concede defeat, and sue for peace in order to avoid sealing the fate of his Government."—Reuter.

THE BELFAST PLAYHOUSE.

VACHELL PLAY NEXT WEEK.

All is not gold that glitters is the theme of the show, "Quinneys," next week at the Playhouse. It deals with the old established firm of Joseph Quinney, antique dealer and collector. Whilst it would be unfair to tell the story, the fact that the author of the play is Horace Annesley Vachell is sufficient to awake the liveliest interest.

There is a strong comedy element in production, whilst lovers of the sentimental side of things have not been forgotten. As soon as this play was announced the box office was beseiged with inquiries for seats; therefore anyone wishing to book would be well advised to book early and thus secure a good seat.

The booking office is open from 11 to 7.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

BUSINESS VERY SCARCE

SUCCESS OF NEW DEFENCE LOAN

CAUSES FALLS IN FUNDS

LONDON, Friday Night.—Business on the London Stock Exchange in the past week has been at a minimum, and the trend of security values generally has been downwards, due largely to the disturbance to world trade caused by the Far and Near Eastern conflicts and to the continued weakness of Wall Street and commodity values.

The outstanding development was the weakness of British Government stocks, which have since partially recovered, and that has resulted from the competition of the £80,000,000 3 per cent. Defence Loan offered at 98 per cent. Those relatively short-dated issues with which the new Loan most closely competes have, of course, suffered the severest falls, as, for example, the 3 per cent. Funding Loan, which is 1¼ down at 97¼. The new 3 per cent. Defence Loan, which was oversubscribed, is now quoted ¼ premium.

Home Railway equity stocks have not moved much on balance despite the very disappointing traffic returns for the past week, showing a reduction in the gross receipts of £323,000, but falls of up to 2 points have occurred in several of the prior charge stocks. There has been some profit-taking (following the recent rather slenderly founded advance) in the Argentine Railway market.

FOREIGN BOND MOVEMENTS.

Two outstanding movements in the Foreign Bond Department have been the recovery in the leading Austrian issues of the evident intention of the Government to institute an exchange clearing plan in the event of the German Government failing to meet its obligations.

On the other hand there has been a further and heavy relapse in the Chinese Bonds on the general situation in China, and particularly as a result of the weakening of the import revenues that has resulted from Japanese action.

In the Industrial market a feature has been the sharp rise in Phillips & Powis shares that has followed the news of the big contract for aircraft to be received from the Air Ministry.

Other and less pleasant features have been the sharp falls that have been registered in the shares of Amalgamated Press and Richard Thomas; in the former as the result of the cutting of the dividend for the past year from 11 per cent. to 8 per cent. (net profits being down by £78,000), and in the case of the latter by the fear that the company's revenues may for some time to come have to be devoted to reducing bank advances made in connection with the "extra-to-estimate" expenditure entailed by the huge strip mills now nearing completion at Ebbw Vale.

The rise in G.E.C.'s reflects satisfaction with the increase in the cash bonus and news of the company's record earnings.

MINING SHARES MOSTLY FIRMER.

Although business in the Mining share market has not been on very extensive lines during the past week the general tendency has been firmer, particularly Kaffir shares, which have been supported on home Cape and Paris account.

The gold price has risen to 140s 10½d per fine ounce, there having been a very large turnover in gold during the week. Dividend payers in particular have been favoured, while among the developers Palmietkuils have provided a firm feature.

Diamonds have been quietly easier, as also Coppers on the fall of £1 3s 9d per ton in the price of the metal on the first call over.

Tin shares have been quiet, and show a few small irregular movements. The price of the metal has been raised by £3 15s per ton.

Miscellaneous Mines have been irregular.

OIL SHARES IMPROVE.

The Oil share market has presented a firmer appearance during the past week. Royal Dutch have risen on Continental buying, while Shells and Burmahs have moved in holders' favour. Anglo-Iranians have improved on the report.

RUBBERS EASIER.

An easier tendency has prevailed in the Rubber share market during the week, although the commodity has risen to 6d per lb. Rubber Trusts and Anglo-Dutch have fallen away.

TEA SHARES MOSTLY FIRMER.

Business in the Tea share market has been on modest lines, but price movements have mostly been in holders' favour.

A GOOD RECORD.

Hovis, Ltd., which manufactures bread, flour, and various other products declares final dividend of 7½ per cent. Together with a bonus of 5 per cent., making 20 per cent. for the year to March 31 last. This dividend and bonus has been paid for the past seven years, and two scrip bonuses of 10 per cent. each have been paid during this period. For 40 years the company has steadily increased its earning power and built up reserves. A year ago the general reserve was £450,000 or £56,000 in excess of the Ordinary share capital of £394,780. The Board can very justifiably declare another scrip dividend if they so desire. Notwithstanding the decision last year of the directors to adopt a prudent and conservative policy in view of the additional taxation on profits one might make bold to say that had there been no increase in taxation they would not have altered their policy, which has always been eminently sound.

AIRCRAFT SHARES.

A firm of dealers in the Aircraft section states that very little business has been passing except in Phillips & Powis. This company, which is under the control of Rolls-Royce, received a large order for aircraft from the Government, but it is pointed out that the profits on these orders will be spread over two years at least. A large debit balance has to be paid off, and it would appear that the initial dividend of the company will have to be large to justify a period of waiting, especially as the Rolls-Royce influence means conservative finance.

WEST RAND CONSOLIDATEDS.

We were looking for a reason for the rise in West Rand Consolidateds, which are of the denomination of 10s, and are now within a fraction of £2 per share. It is doubtful whether more than 25 per cent. will be paid for the current year, so the yield at this price is not large. The General Mining Corporation holds all the Deferred shares, and Sir George Albu has expressed the hope that a more equitable division of profits might be arranged. Whatever may be in store for the shareholders on this account they will derive some consolation from the fact that the West Rand is to increase its treatment capacity from about 175,000 tons to 220,000 tons per month. This should bring the monthly profit from just under £100,000 to £135,000. There is, therefore, something to look forward to, and as the West Rand is one of the finest mines on the Rand holders can be advised to retain their shares with confidence.

THE G.E.C. REPORT.

The showing of the General Electric Company's report for 1937-38 fulfils all expectations. The year's trading constitutes a fresh record in the history of the company, which is now entering its 50th year, the profit amounting to £1,772,181 as compared with £1,604,512 for the previous year, and the net profit to £1,345,244 against £1,210,859, plus £749,294 against £680,495 brought in. The dividend is unchanged at 10 per cent., but the bonus is further raised by 2½ per cent. to 10 per cent. The appropriations are £400,000 against £275,000 to taxation reserve, and £100,000 against £125,455 to general reserve, raising same to £4,500,000, leaving to be carried forward £799,934.

PAPER-MAKING RESULTS.

The experiences of Spicers Ltd. in the year ended March 31, 1938, have been much the same as those of other industrial companies. The company's trade at home and abroad showed considerable improvement during the first half of the period. The home sales were influenced mainly by the Coronation and generally rising prices. In the latter half of the year there was a falling off in common with industry generally. The report contains the interesting announcement that, if certain modifications are made as regards the general control, the company will gain by the strengthening of the board by the addition of persons who have experience derived from wider activities than those of the company, and it is hoped that by next year, if not earlier, it will be possible to announce some satisfactory arrangement. The gross profit for the year is £362,408 as compared with £311,050 after depreciation, etc., and £106,370 against £106,426 was brought in. The dividend on Ordinary shares is again made up to 3½ per cent. for the year, £21,000 is placed to taxation reserve, and £20,000 to contingencies reserve, leaving £106,098 to be carried forward.

RHOKANA CORPORATION.

A circular to the shareholders of the Rhokana Corporation Ltd. states that arrangements have been made between the co-operative producers that, in addition to its basic quota of 6,338 short tons per month, this Corporation will produce as from July 1, 1938, a further 952 short tons of copper per month at 100 per cent. production of basic quota. This additional tonnage is subject to the same percentage increase and decrease as is the basic quota.

PROFIT-SHARING PLAN.

Far-reaching proposals for the four main line railway companies are being submitted to the stockholders by the British Railway Stockholders' Union, Ltd. Making this announcement at a half-yearly meeting of the Council of the Union in London, Mr. Ashley Brown, the general secretary, said that the plans included an increase in the pooling of receipts, standardisation and construction of locomotives common to the four groups, and substitution of profit-sharing for wage increases. The Council decided to press for a full consideration of the proposals. Sir Charles Stuart-Williams, presiding, said that the severe fall in railway stocks should make an increase in wages an impossibility in the immediate future, and he attributed the fall in traffic receipts to a trade depression, which he trusted would not be prolonged. Road competition was still exercising a serious effect, he said.

AUSTRO-GERMAN UNION EFFECTS. … …

"The Index," the publication of the New York Trust Co., in a review of the probable economic effects of Austro-German union does not believe that absorption of the Austrian economy will greatly alter German economy. The economic advantages of union will, it is considered, prove transitory, and Germany's desire for self-sufficiency in foodstuffs has not been materially furthered thereby, though there may be some gain in respect of industrial raw materials, such as timber, iron ore, graphite, magnesite, and talc. German capital may also help to develop Austria's reserves of antimony, lead, zinc and copper. On the basis of valuation of the Reichsmark at 1½ schillings the average Austrian may gain and Austrian landlords, it is thought, will undoubtedly benefit.

MORE BUMPER DISTRIBUTIONS.

Further bumper distributions are announced by companies in various branches of industry. The honours fall to Greenwood & Batley, which, besides a final dividend of 7 per cent., making for the year 10 per cent. against 7 per cent., is distributing a bonus of 5 per cent. against nil. The Electric Construction Co. reports an increase in net profit of nearly £19,000 at £79,353, and, while the dividend is unchanged at 10 per cent. is is this time supplemented by a bonus of 2½ per cent.

LOBITOS OILFIELDS BIG YEAR.

1937 has been a big year for the Lobitos Oilfields, Ltd. The production of the peruvian company was 25,532 tons more at 342,032 tons, and its dividend was raised to 15 per cent. Better prices as well as the increased production have played their part in bringing about the greatly improved results. The latter are duly reflected in the accounts of the English company which show, after deduction of all charges, a profit balance more than doubled at £262,637 as compared with £124,813 for 1936, while £214,412 was brought in. The final dividend is 5 per cent. and bonus 5 per cent., making for the year 15 per cent. as against 12½ per cent. The sum of £100,000 is set aside to provide for expansion and obsolescence in connection with refinery, £7,570 is transferred to staff provident fund and £219,479 is carried forward. Further extensions to the refinery plant and storage accommodation at Ellesmere Port are in contemplation.

£850 FOR THE LOSS OF AN EYE.

ACTION BY BELFAST BOY.

£105 COSTS AND EXPENSES GIVEN.

In the Ulster King's Bench yesterday settlement of a negligence action in which a young boy lost an eye was announced. The plaintiff, Victor M'Lean, an infant, by David M'Lean, his next friend, Canal Street, Newry, motor engineer, sued John Campbell, 278 Cliftonville Road, Belfast, solicitor's assistant and C. Porter & Co., Ltd., 52 York Street, Belfast, for "damages for personal injuries caused by the negligence of Henry Graham, deceased, in the driving, control and management of a motor bicycle, and by the negligence of the defendants, C. Porter & Co., Ltd., their servants or agents, in the driving, control and management of a motor van. The defendant John Campbell is sued as the personal representative of the said Henry Graham, deceased."

The action arose out of a road accident at Coneywarren, Co. Tyrone, on October 14, 1937, when a motor cycle driven by Henry Graham, now deceased, and a motor van owned by Messrs. C. Porter & Co., Ltd., in which the plaintiff was travelling, were in collision.

Mr. William Johnson (instructed by Mr. Thomas Elliott, Newry), for the plaintiff, said that the plaintiff had lost an eye in the accident. The action had been settled for the sum of £850, with £30 medical and hospital expenses, and £75 costs. He did not ask for any payment out, but that the full amount should be placed to the credit of the minor plaintiff.

The Lord Chief Justice approved of the settlement.

TO-DAY'S GOLD DEALINGS.

About 144 bars of the approximate value of £405,000 were disposed of in the London market to-day at 140s 10d per fine ounce, a decrease of half-penny compared with previous price.

The quotation was based on supply and demand and included a premium of 11¼d over the dollar at 4.97¼.

THE THEFT OF TURF.

Remarking that the offence was a very mean one, Captain Bell, R.M., at Donemana on Friday fined Mary Logan, Aughtermoy, 40s for stealing turf from John Glendinning's bog. Margaret Logan, mother of Mary, who was also charged, was fined 21s.

BELFAST EXCHANGE.

THE WEEKLY REPORT.

BUSINESS ON MODEST LINES

GALLAHER ORDINARY ADVANCE.

During the past week business was on a very quiet scale on the Belfast Exchange.

The chief feature of interest was the success of the new National Defence Loan, which changed hands at ¼ and 21-32 premium. Other gilt-edged securities turned fractionally easier. War Loan commenced the week at 101 13-16—15-16, subsequently changed hands at 101⅞, ¾, ⅞, ⅝, ⅜, ⅞, and closed at 101 11-16—13-16. 2½ per cent. Consols were marked at 74⅛ and 74⅜, 3 per cent. Conversion Loan at 101 7-16, and 5 per cent. Conversion Loan at 113 9-16. 4½ per cent. Guaranteed Bonds fetched 112½, and 4 per cent. Victory Bonds 111¼.

Bank shares were firmer in tone, but transactions were few. Midland £2½ Fully Paid were dealt in at 10½, and £1 Fully Paid shares at 85s. Northern Bank "A" brought 100 and closed with sellers at this figure. "B" shares are also in market at 48s 6d. Westminster Bank Parts marked 94.

In local Corporation stocks buyers predominated. 3½ per cent. 1940 stock is bid for at 99, and 3½ per cent. 1942 stock at 100. There is also some inquiry for 4½ per cent. 1951 stock at 106, 3½ per cent. Montgages 1943-53 at 100½, and 4½ per cent. 1940 Mortgages at 100. Harbour Commissioners 1953-58 was in demand at 98½. Water 5 per cent. 1941-61 stock was dealt in at 108½. 3½ per cent. 1953-63 stock at 101½, and 3 per cent. stock at 95½ xd. Northern Ireland Electricity 3 per cent. Guaranteed stock 1955-60 is in demand at 93.

Local Rails were very weak, and the only business marked in this section was in Great Northern Ordinary at 4½, and left off with buyers at 4 and sellers at 5. Other issues of this line are also on offer.

In Industrials, Spinning and Textiles were on the dull side, with business at a minimum. Belfast Ropework Ordinary were done at previous price, 11, and closed with the price bid. There are sellers of the Ordinary at 20s 4½d. J. & P. Coats were a few pence easier being dealt in at 36s 3d and 36s. Courtaulds marked 34s 1½d and 34s a number of times. Some Richardson Sons & Owden Preference are offered at 32s 6d. York Street Ordinary brought 3s and closed with buyers bidding 2s 6d. Debentures can be had at 85⅜.

Among Bakery shares, transactions were recorded in Inglis Ordinary at 87s 6d and Debentures at 117s 6d. At the finish these prices were still bid with sellers of the Ordinary at 88s.

Brewery shares were quietly steady. Guinness changed hands at 111s 3d, Ind Coope & Allsopp at 93s 3d, and new shares at 33s 6d.

There was no activity in Drapery and Furnishing shares. John Arnott Ordinary are inquired for at 50s, and 4½ per cent. Debentures at 80. Goorwitch Ordinary were dealt in at 6s, and Bank Buildings 3½ per cent. Debenture at 90.

The feature in Tobacco shares was the advance to 119s 3d in Gallaher Ordinary. British Americans were done at 98s 4½d and 98s, and Imperials at 132s. Imperial of Canada fetched 55s 9d.

Iron and Steel counters were idle. Vickers brought 20s 9d, Consett Iron marked 8s 7½d, United Steels 21s 6d, Richard Thomas 3s 7½d, and Baldwin 4½ per cent. Preference 18s 6d.

Miscellaneous Industrials were inactive. Imperial Chemical Ordinary changed hands at 29s 7½d, and Lever Bros. and Unilever 7 per cent. Preference at 30s 6d, 29s 9¾d, 8 per cent. Preference fetched 33s, Ordinary 36s 3d. Woolworth Ordinary were done at 61s 3½d, Marks and Spencer New at 51s 3d, and Singer Motors at 2s 0½d. J. & J. SEIZED GREYHOUNDS

ACTION AGAINST R.U.C. SERGEANT

BY A RAILWAY LINESMAN.

APPLICATION TO REMIT REFUSED.

The seizure of two greyhounds by a Belfast police sergeant on Customs duty has led to a High Court action which came before the Lord Chief Justice on Friday on motion by the defendant to remit to the County Court on the usual grounds of no cause of action, want of means, etc.

The plaintiff, William George Reid, a linesman in the employment of the Belfast & Co. Down Railway Co., living at Bright, Downpatrick, sued Sergt. Henry Taylor, R.U.C., Brown Square Barracks, Belfast, for damages for the wrongful deprivation of the plaintiff of two greyhounds, Black Lion Freda and Black Lion Bobbie, and claimed their return. The plaintiff also alleged illegal seizure and asked for damages for trespass on the plaintiff's goods and, further, he asked for damages for the negligence of the defendant or his agent in the care of Black Lion Freda, which died, and for damages for negligence in the care of Black Lion Bobbie, which had depreciated in value while in the care of the defendant.

Mr. Wm. Lowry, K.C., and Mr. H. A. M'Veigh (instructed by Mr. J. P. Napier) were for the plaintiff, and the Attorney-General (Mr. E. S. Murphy, K.C., M.P.) and Mr. Gerald Dougherty (instructed by Mr. H. Haldane Carson, Chief Crown Solicitor) were for the defendant.

The Attorney-General, moving to remit on behalf of the defendant, said that his client, a sergeant in the Royal Ulster Constabulary, while acting as a deputation for the Commissioner of Customs and Excise, made a seizure of two greyhounds on November 25 last year, with the result that the plaintiff had brought the claim as set out in the writ.

Counsel moved on the affidavit of the defendant, which set out that acting as a Customs deputation he had seized the two greyhounds, proof not having been furnished to the satisfaction of the Commissioners as to the ownership and handed them into the care of Mr. J. Ewing Johnston, V.S., at his May Street yard to be taken care of.

PROCEEDINGS AT DOWNPATRICK.

On February 17 proceedings were brought at Downpatrick Petty Sessions for forfeiture, when it was discovered that the place where the seizure was made was outside the 40 mile radius from the Border and the application was dismissed, the Resident Magistrate giving a certificate for reasonable seizure. The plaintiff was a linesman on the Co. Down Railway, earning 35s 9d a week, with a mother to support.

The Attorney-General went on to read an affidavit by the plaintiff, in which it was stated that the value of the greyhounds was £200 apiece. The greyhounds had never been out of Northern Ireland, and plaintiff claimed damages for unlawful and unnecessary interference with his right of property in the greyhounds.

The Lord Chief Justice—This shows there is money somewhere.

Counsel went on to read from an affidavit by the defendant, in which he set out particulars of a statement made by the plaintiff in which it was stated that he gave J. Latimer, Downpatrick, £30 to buy two greyhounds, and subsequently he got the two dogs afterwards seized, but Latimer did not tell him from whom he had bought them. Latimer offered to get the dogs trained for him. Plaintiff said that he never had the dogs at Celtic Park except once or twice, and could not give a detailed description of them. The arrangement was that Latimer was to train and run the dogs for him, and if there were any profits at the end of the season they were to be paid over to him.

In a second statement alleged to have been made by the plaintiff, he was alleged to have told the police sergeant that there was not a word of truth in the statement that the dogs belonged to him. That statement, the plaintiff alleged, had been made in consequence of a promise by the police not to call with him again and that there would be no further trouble.

MAN WHO CALLED FOR THE DOG.

A replying affidavit by the defendant denied that any such promise had been made. The case, added the Attorney-General, was a remarkable one. The second statement had been given to the police by Reid after he had been confronted by a statement from Latimer, who was, counsel stated, the man who called for the dog, which remained alive after the Customs case had been disposed of at Downpatrick and signed for its receipt. The plaintiff now claimed that he was the owner of the dogs, the value of which had been fantastically exaggerated. The claim that a dog died as the result of negligence on the premises of a well-known veterinary surgeon in Belfast was not likely to be substantiated.

Mr. Lowry opposing the application, contended that it was a question for a jury to determine.

The Lord Chief Justice refused the application, costs to be costs in the cause.

FLAX MILL FIRE IN SOUTH DERRY.

HIGH COURT APPLICATION.

HOW COUNTY COUNCILS STAND.

The burning of a flax mill and machinery in the Magherafelt area on May 15, 1937, which was held to be malicious by the County Court Judge, was the subject of an adjourned application in the Ulster King's Bench on Friday, before the Lord Chief Justice.

The matter arose out of an application at Magherafelt Quarter Sessions by Thos. Crilly, farmer, Tullynure, Londonderry, for compensation for malicious injury. The defendants were the Londonderry County Council.

The burnt mill was situated within a mile of the Tyrone-Londonderry boundary.

The County Court Judge awarded £160 damages and ordered that the Co. Council of Tyrone be added as respondents in the matter and apportioned the decree for £160 and £11 12s 7d costs that £128 14s 5d be paid by the County of Londonderry and £42 18s 2d by the County of Tyrone, and that the area of charge in Co. Londonderry should be Lissan Upper, and in the case of Co. Tyrone that the amount be raised in accordance with the provisions of 6 and 7 William IV., but in case there was no power to apportion the compensation and costs between the Counties of Londonderry and Tyrone, the whole be levied on the electoral division of Lissan Upper in the County of Londonderry.

Subsequent to the order of the County Court Judge the plaintiff came into the High Court and asked that the decree against the County Tyrone be brought in and a writ of fieri facias issued in respect of it.

The County Council of Tyrone now moved to set aside these orders on the grounds that the order and decree of the County Court were bad on their face because no proper notice of the proceedings in the County Court had been served upon the County Council of Tyrone.

Mr. A. Black, K.C., M.P., and Mr. Jas. M'Sparran (instructed by Mr. L. R. Hastings) appeared for Crilly; Mr. W. O. Hume, K.C., and Mr. A. P. Magill (instructed by Messrs. Dickie & Carson) were for Tyrone County Council; and Mr W. F. Patton (instructed by Mr. W. A. Lane) was for Londonderry County Council.

Mr. Black for Crilly, and Mr. Patton for the Londonderry County Council, replied to the arguments advanced by Mr Hume for the Tyrone County Council.

Mr. Hume had not concluded his answering submissions when the Court rose.

The matter was adjourned.

IRISH METHODISM.

THE CONFERENCE AND DIVORCE.

REV. ROBERT BOND'S VIEWS.

DIFFICULTY OF THE CHURCH.

The Methodist Conference, meeting in Belfast to-day, discussed the question of the re-marriage of persons who, in divorce proceedings, have been declared the innocent parties.

Pending the report of a committee on the question, it was held that the responsibility devolves on individual ministers, who were advised to consult the chairman of their districts in any case which arose.

The report on the Committee of Public Questions, Rights and Privileges was presented by Rev. R. Lee Cole, M.A., B.D. The report requested Conference to give guidance to ministers on the question of the re-marriage of persons who in divorce proceedings had been declared innocent.

The report also requested the Northern Ireland Representative Committee to examine the Bill to be introduced by the Northern Parliament on the lines of the Matrimonial Causes Act (Mr. A. P. Herbert's).

Mr. Cole said he thought the committee in existence would be just as able to examine the question as any, because it was bound to come again under the newly-planned Committee on Public Questions that was outlined.

Rev. R. H. Smyth, M.A., said it would be advisable for some committee to examine the Northern Ireland Bill.

There was some urgency, because they had been asked to celebrate the marriage of an innocent party in a divorce and there was no guidance from Conference. Was a minister to rely on his own judgment?

The President (Rev. Robert Bond, D.D.) said it was better that individual cases should be considered rather than that Conference should settle a policy for everybody. The difficulty was whether they were to accept the judgment of the Court as the right kind of judgment for the Church. They had to look on the question from a different point of view. It was a question whether the innocent person was innocent from the Church standpoint. He had had ministers writing to him to ask what they should do. He had informed them that they must accept responsibility themselves. He would not necessarily accept the judgment of a Court. He would want to satisfy himself that the person who wanted remarriage was innocent. He would not like to deny the service of their Church to an innocent person but from his experience he would not hurry the matter. Eventually the Conference ought to give guidance but it would be better to wait and not give a judgment which did not cover the whole case. It was easy to settle the matter as the law settled it but it was more difficult for the Church. In the English Conference they had an ad hoc committee considering the question. In the meantime ministers must act as they had been doing. They must take their own responsibility.

Rev. W. H. Smyth, M.A., advocated the leaving over of the matter until the Committee of the English Committee came to a decision.

Rev. J. W. P. Elliott said the Conference would thus be leaving a tremendous responsibility on the individual ministers.

"Everyone who is an authorised person," the President replied, "ought to take some responsibility."

Mr. Elliott asked if it was the case until the committee came to a decision that every minister was a law until himself. Would the Conference take no action on a minister's refusal to marry divorced people?

Rev. John M'Caffrey said it would be a great mistake to make a rule which after a while might be found to be premature.

Rev. R. H. Gallagher, B.A., said a minister should not be left entirely to his own judgment. He should consult the chairman of his district.

THE ULTIMATE RESPONSIBILITY.

The President said the ultimate responsibility was with the minister himself. He thought it would be very rare that a minister would not consult somebody, and the natural person would be his chairman. He did not think that at present the Conference should prescribe anything. Until the Church saw its way every minister should be prepared to take some responsibility.

Rev. S. J. W. Nabney, B.A., put forward the view that the Church should take a strong line. No minister of the Church of Ireland was allowed to marry a divorced person. They had to go to a registry office. The principle of inviolability of marriage should be kept. He would absolutely refuse to marry any divorce person, whether innocent or guilty, because he believed it would be contrary to the mind of their Lord and His Church.

Rev. R. Lee Cole asked if the Conference was not debating a matter for which they were asked to appoint a committee.

On his motion, seconded by Rev. John A. Duke, B.A., it was decided that the Northern Ireland Representative Committee when examining Mr. A. P. Herbert's Act should examine the questions of re-marriage of persons who in divorce proceedings have been declared innocent parties.

On the motion of the Rev. R. M. L. Waugh, M.A., B.D., a committee comprising Rev. Dr. J. H. Spence, Mr. Fred Thompson, M.P.; Dr. J. H. Smiley, the secretary of the Temperance department, together with the President and President-designate, was appointed to join with the Presbyterian Church in sending a deputation to the Government of Northern Ireland in regard to the maladministration of the betting laws. Mr. Waugh added that the Council of Christian Churches had the matter under consideration, and he wanted to feel that the Methodist Church was officially recognising the matter.

"We are in deadly earnest," said Mr. Waugh.

On a discussion of the contributory pensions scheme for "black-coated" workers, Mr. Cole and Rev. John H. Spence paid a tribute to the generous treatment accorded to ministers, who were urged, where eligible, to join the scheme. As to the position in the Free State, said Mr. Cole, where there was a smaller proportion of "black-coated" workers, they had been told that a Bill would be introduced if it was found necessary.

Rev. W. H. Mayes was appointed secretary of the Southern Executive of the Evangelistic Agency.

Rev. S. G. M'Intyre and Mr. W. C. Jones presented the report of the Local Peachers' Committee.

Major A. W. Johnson, M.B.E., presented the report of the Committee on the Co-ordination of Connexional Funds.

Mr. W. P. Musgrave was appointed lay treasurer of the Assessment and Children's Fund. Rev. R. T. Elliott, B.A., was appointed ministerial treasurer, and Rev. R. Roycroft Sayers, B.A., was elected ministerial secretary. Mr. Elliott presented the report of the committee.

The reports on the Ministerial Training Fund and the Edgehill Theological College were presented by Rev. R. H. Gallagher, M.P., and Mr. Fred Thompson, M.P.

Rev. Dr. T. J. Irwin, D.Litt., and Mr. R. Crook, M.A., spoke on the report on Wesley College, Dublin

On the report of the Methodist College, Belfast, the Conference was addressed by Mr. J. W. Henderson, M.A., the headmaster, and Mr. W. R. Maconkey, C.B.E.

Rev. W. Johnstone Hunter, referring to the fact that both schools were "mixed" schools, said nomination of ladies for the governing bodies were worthy of consideration. On the election to the Board of Governors of Methodist College he nominated Miss W. J. Sayers, B.A., and Dr. Lila Robb.

Mr. A. M. Fullerton asked if it was conceivable that Mr. Hunter should make a departure from the practice of 70 and 93 years without the Governors having been consulted.

A DERRY PROPHET.

AFTER THE EIRE ELECTION

"WRITE TO MR. COSGRAVE."

A prophetic declaration in regard to the Eire General Election was made by Mr. James Hamilton during a discussion at a meeting of Derry Chamber of Commerce, when he remarked, "Wait until the election is over and you can write to Mr. Cosgrave."

The Chamber was considering correspondence which passed between it and the Ministry of Commerce in regard to reciprocity between Northern Ireland and Eire regarding motor traffic.

The Ministry, in reply to a letter from the Chamber pointing out the disabilities suffered in Northern Ireland regarding motor traffic, stated that there seemed to be little immediate hope of securing any relaxation of the present restrictions which, as they would have learned from previous letters from the Ministry, applied equally.

Mr. F. C. Brewster said travellers going from Northern Ireland into the Free State had to pay duty on their cars, whereas the Free State travellers coming into Northern Ireland could come in bond-free, the same applying to commercial vehicles. The duty which had to be paid was very heavy.

Mr. Hamilton then made the observation given, and after further discussion the matter was referred to the Transport Committee.

Speaking on the work of the Shopping Committee, the President said during the past few weeks excursions had been arranged by both railway companies—L M S and Great Northern—and substantial numbers were taking advantage of the facilities being offered. The committee was giving very close attention to its work and everything was going as well as could be expected.

A lengthy memorandum was received from the Department of Overseas Trade dealing with the Eire Prices Commission.

Mr. D. Spain said he thought Derry merchants could offer little evidence, as this would have to be given by manufacturers. He pointed out that not only were there prohibitive duties on articles which were not made in Eire, while in a large number of cases prohibitive duties of 100 per cent. or 75 per cent. were placed on articles, while all that was required to bring the Northern Ireland and British prices up to the Eire level was a small duty.

It was decided to write to the Department.

During the discussion the President remarked, "I wish they had left it 'Free State;' it s far easier to say than 'Eire.' (Laughter.)

THE BIBLE QUATER-CENTENARY.

DATE OF CELEBRATION.

OBITUARY SERVICE.

At Friday afternoon's session, Rev. F. E. Harte, M.A., mentioned the Quater-Centenary of the Bible. Sunday, November 7, was decided upon as a day of celebration of the coming of the Bible 400 years ago.

In a discussion on the recent Wesley bi-centenary celebrations and how best to keep the movement alive, Mr. A. M. Fullerton, O.B.E., briefly outlined the various forms which the anniversary had assumed. Revs. H. M. Watson, M.A.; J. M'Caffrey, J. A. Hynes, W. J. Oliver, J. M'Caffrey, A. M'Crea, M.A., T. J. Allen, C. H. Crookshank also spoke.

It was decided to form a Bi-centenary Continuation Committee to conserve and guide awakened interest in spiritual issues and by directing the September District Synods to consider how best they could further this great objective. The committee will consist of the chairmen, who will select a minister and layman from their own district.

The conference then entered on the solemn obituary service.

Rev. W. E. M. Thompson read the names of seven ministers who had passed away during the year:—Revs. W. H. Massey, James Grubb, C. S. Greaves, Fleming Orr, Hugh M'Keag, D.D.; James Lyons, and Robert Rainey.

Touching tribute to the memory of these brethren was paid by the President of the Methodist Church, R. Lee Cole, M.A., B.D., R. J. Elliott, B.A., R. H. Gallagher, B.A., and Messrs. A. C. Marshall and H. S. Broomfield.

Rev. B. S. Lyons, convenor of the United Committee, introduced the business of work amongst the young. He rapidly surveyed the activities of the Sunday School, Temperance, and Christian Endeavour departments.

COMPREHENSIVE RESOLUTION.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Conference:—

1—The Conference has learned with profound gratitude of the refusal of the Belfast Corporation to sanction Sunday concerts in the city. It is its conviction that the Corporation, in preventing the exploitation of a day that has been traditionally associated with public worship and rest, has safeguarded interests that are vital to the spiritual, moral, and social well-being of the community.

The Conference earnestly hopes that, in the event of any further effort to secularise and commercialise the Lord's Day, nothing will be done to interefere with Evangelical traditions.

2—The Conference is gratified to learn that the Government of Northern Ireland intends to introduce a Bill governing employment in factories on the lines of the British Factory Act, 1937. It is the conviction of the Conference that it would be in the highest interests of the workers that all the suitable provisions in the British Act should be preserved in the Bill for Northern Ireland.

3—In view of the grave dissatisfaction that still exists regarding the manner in which offences against the law regarding cash-betting houses in Northern Ireland is being presented to the Courts, and inasmuch as the present system of dealing with those offences is leading to a contempt of law and order generally, the Conference reaffirms its resolution of 1937.

4—The Conference has learned with much satisfaction that the Government of Northern Ireland has appointed a Committee to inquire into the grave situation arising from the increasing consumption of "toney wine" and "red biddy." The Conference is hopeful that the Government will take all possible measures within its power, and will also use its influence with the Imperial authorities to put an end to this great evil.

WESLEY HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the Wesley Historical Society was held on Friday in Donegall Square Church, Rev. F. E. Harte, M.A., presided. Rev. R. C. Crawford introduced the business.

Mr. F. J. Cole said cases in which to house and exhibit Wesleyana had been fitted in Edgehill.

Dr. H. G. Smith, Dublin, said that more cases ought to be made during the year in order to more fully accommodate accumulating material. Rev. A. M'Crea, M.A., and Mr. F. J. Cole were instructed to proceed with this work.

Mr. F. J. Cole reported that Rev. R. Wesley Olver had been invited to undertake the office of curator and catalogue and classify Wesleyana. Mr. Olver was appointed to act as treasurer, and Rev. R. C. Crawford as secretary.

Rev. A. M'Crea, M.A., urged the necessity of insuring the Wesley relics and documents.

Rev. R. Lee Cole, M.A., B.D., mentioned the fact that he had been asked by the British Conference to lecture on "John Wesley's Journals on Appreciation" at their Historical Society.

Mr. F. J. Cole spoke of the way in which the proceedings might be made more interesting by the inclusion of more biographical material of old Irish worthies.

SURREY VISIT YORKSHIRE.

Because W. J. O'Reilly, the Australians' most dangerous bowler, stood down for the match at Lord's and is not playing against Lancashire at Manchester, rumours have arisen that he is injured.

To-day Mr. W. H. Jeanes, the Australians' manager, said: "There is nothing wrong with O'Reilly. He is twelfth man to-day. That is all."

LANCASHIRE V. AUSTRALIANS.

Besides O'Reilly, M'Cabe stood down from the Australian team. He has not properly thrown off his cold.

The ability of Phillipson and Pollard, the Lancashire medium-fast bowlers, to make the ball run away caused the Australians early anxiety at Old Trafford.

On the well-watered pitch Phillipson especially swung the ball in disconcerting fashion. Fingleton for a time could do little except raise his bat over his shoulder and carefully watched the ball go past. Brown hit a full toss from Phillipson for four, all run, but two deliveries later he touched one that went with the bowler's arm and Farrimond, standing back, smartly caught him. Fingleton took so long to settle down that he scored only eight in three-quarters of an hour.

CANCEL CHURCH PARADE.

TERRITORIALS WOULDN'T GO.

Territorial soldiers of the 313 Kent (anti-aircraft searchlight company, Royal Engineers, of Chatham and Gillingham) have refused to attend a church parade tomorrow that the Mayor and Corporation of Gillingham were to have attended in civic state.

When volunteers were called only two or three men came forward.

It is stated by the men (says the Press Association) that since they moved to new headquarters there has been increased discipline and restriction.

The visit of the Corporation to the church has had to be cancelled.

BEYOND DUTY.

THE STAFF of this organisation has been trained to provide many courteous services beyond those normally expected from funeral directors. They act, too, in a spirit of friendly human sympathy that is more than professional duty.

We realise that, in times of grief, the bereaved are helpless to contend with the many details that arise. It is the duty, then, of the funeral director to act as friend and counsellor helping his clients carry their unhappy burden.

It is this spirit that prompts our gift of service. To it we ascribe the confidence that has been ours in this community, and trust that we will never fail to merit your respect and patronage.
